LINCOLN BOY KILLED BY AUTO

VICTOR KNISLEY DIES AS RESULT OF CAR ACCIDENT

Sustains Fatal Injuries When He Runs Into Street From Between Cars Parked Near Twentieth and N Late Saturday Afternoon On Way To Playground With Brother And Chum When Tragedy Occurs.

Running into the street from between parked cars near Twentieth and N streets, 7 year old Victor Knisley was fatally injured shortly after 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon when struck by an automobile driven by J. W. Dohrer, 63, 605 South Tenth street. The boy died at the Lincoln General hospital at 5:40 o'clock. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Knisley, 1839 O street. Mr. Dohrer has been ordered to appear before County Attorney Max Towle at 9 o'clock Monday morning but there will probably be no inquest.

Death was probably due to a severe skull fracture, according to Dr. V. D. Barnhiser, interne at the hospital who attended the boy. He sustained contusions and abrasions to his body and about his head and was bleeding profusely from the mouth and nose when taken into the hospital.

Knocked Unconscious.

He was knocked unconscious when hit by the car and, despite all efforts to revive him, only a few feeble, irregular pulse beats were noted after he reached the hospital.

When the accident occurre, Victor, his younger brother, Wylie, and Clarence Winkler, a chum, were going to the playground at Twenty-third and N streets in company of Clarence's mother, Mrs. A. Winkler, who lives in the same apartment house as the Knisleys.

According to Mrs. Winkler who says she was walking with Wylie just ahead of the other two boys, she heard Victor ask Clarence if he didn't want to get some ice from the Roberts Dairy wagons just across the street. Clarence said no, but Victor started to cross the thoroughfare from the north sidewalk, followed by his pal.

The next Mrs. iWnkler heard was a sharp cry, she said. Castle, Roper and Matthews' ambulance was called and rushed Victor to the hospital. Mrs. Winkler returned to the apartment to tell the Knisleys of the accident.

Jumps Into Path of Car.

Mr. and Mrs. Dohrer, out for an evening drive, said that they were going west between Nineteenth and Twentieth streets at a speed not exceeding 15 miles an hour. They both said they saw Victor spring from between two cars parked parallel on the north side of the street, directly into the path of their automobile. The Winkler lad who was following, stopped just as the Knisley boy leaped in front of the car, they declared.

In his effort to stop, Mr. Dohrer pushed on the brake, but his foot

Italia Is Groomed For a New Flight Over Arctic Area

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, May 19—(I. N. S.)—Safe in its hangar after a daring 68 hour journey through fog and snow over the unchartered wastes of the Artic, the dirigible Italia was being groomed today for its next venture, a nonstop flight to the North Pole and back.

Worn and weary after their nerve wracking battle with the elements, Gen. Umberto Nobile, commander of the ship, and the sixteen members of the crew, rested today while the mechanics of the supply ship Citta di Milano overhauled the huge craft.

Because of a raging blizzard, General Nobile's plan to land an exploring party on Lenin Land could not be carried through, but many scientifically important photographs of the region were taken.

The dirigible's crew suffered severe hardships from the cold when forced to fly at great heights because of fog. Their drinking water and most of the edibles on the ship were frozen hard. The exterior of the ship was covered with a coating of ice.

Automobile Accident Kills Wife and Son Death Car Conductor

GREENCASTLE, Ind., May 19—(I. N. S.)—Hal D. Titus of Indianapolis, conductor of the Union Traction Co. interurban car which killed twenty-two members of the Indianapolis Sahra Grotto last October, was the driver today of an automobile which carried his wife, 34, and his 4-months-old son, John, to their deaths in an accident on the national road near here.

The Titus car collided with a parked truck as the Titus family of six persons, including his mother, and a brother, Thomas, were en route to Evansville.

Mrs. Titus suffered a fractured skull and the infant suffered a fractured and a broken neck when they were thrown from the automobile to the paved road. Others in the car were uninjured.

SEARS-ROEBUCK TO LOCATE HERE

Retail Branch Will Be Established Within Next Month.

That the Sears-Roebuck Co. of Chicago will establish a retail branch in Lincoln within a month, is practically assured, according to Harvey Rathbone, Lincoln realtor, with whom representatives were negotiating Saturday.

"Unless some unforseen difficulty comes up, the Sears-Roebuck Co. will probably sign a lease within the next day or two," Mr. Rathbone declared Saturday night. He declined, however, to state where the Chicago firm would locate.

It has been known for several weeks that the company was trying to locate in Lincoln and at one time a representative showed tentative building plans to a local contractor. The firm, however, will in all probability not construct a new building but will remodel some structure already standing.

Judge Rules Nature Of Sacramental Wine Unrestricted by Law

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19—I. N. S.)—The sacramental cup may sparkle, Federal Judge Frank H. Kerrigan ruled today in granting a temporary injunction restraining prohibition officers from preventing the sale for that purpose of 13,500 cases of sparkling wine owned by the California Wine association. The federal judge said he found nothing in the national prohibition law that restricted the nature of the wine used for religious purposes.

A FILIBUSTER DELAYING TAX BILL PASSAGE

Senators Recess Shortly Before Midnight Until Monday Morning.

NO AGREEMENT ON VOTING HOUR

Filibuster Is Actually Directed at Boulder Dam Measure.

WASHINGTON, May 19—(I. N. S.)—The senate recessed at 11:57 o'clock until 10 o'clock Monday morning without an agreement on a definite hour to vote on the tax bill.

The action came suddenly after two previous attempts to recess had failed by decisive votes. A short executive session was held before the weary senators decided to go home.

Tonight's session closed with a vigorous criticism of opponents in the senate of the Boulder dam bill by Senator Johnson, California.

Johnson arose to protest when Senator Smoot, republican of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, which reported the tax bill, suggested that the senate vote on the measure at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. Senator Reed, democrat of Missouri, had refused unless an additional half hour was granted him.

Johnson Aroused.

"I have yielded to every request of the senators for three weeks," Johnson said. "I'm tired of it. This is outrageous procedure, preventing a vote on my measure that means the lives of 69,000 people."

Senator Ashurst, democrat of Arizona, leader of the opponents of the boulder dam bill, attacked Johnson for his stand on the measure.

"The senator from California is so solicitous of the lives of those 60,000 persons.", he said, "he voted against my amendment which would have appropriated $30,000,000 for flood relief for those sixty thousand. I admit there is an insidious lobby against Boulder dam, but there is an equally insidious lobby for it."

Further discussion resulted in rejection of the agreement, a proposal by Senator Curtis, republican

ELECTRIC POWER BOOKS DEFENDED

Browne Says Pamphlets Contain Only Valuable Information.

Reference Material Sent Only on Request Of School Officials.

Information regarding the electric power industry such as that offered to the public schools in Nebraska and other states, so long as it is not erroneous, is valuable and in no way detrimental to the school children, Thorne Browne said Saturday in commenting upon the testimony which he gave Wednesday before the federal trade commission's investigating committee in Washington, D. C.

"Every precaution was taken to prevent anything that might be the least bit self-serving from appearing in the pamphlet, 'Electricity' which was distributed in Nebraska," Mr. Browne asserted. "The pamphlet contains only proved facts. It contains nothing which would argue either for or against private or public ownership."

Approximately 4,500 of these pamphlets were distributed among approximately 150 Nebraska schools, he said. These pamphlets were sent only on the request of the superintendents or civics and physics teachers. The average order ranged from twenty-five to thirty pamphlets.

The Nebraska Public Utilities Information bureau of which Browne is director, first sent samples of the pamphlets to superintendents and teachers asking them to look them over, comment upon them, and if they could use them as reference material in connection with their regular studies to send in an order and the pamphlets would be sent to them free.

Nothing Under Cover.

"There was nothing under cover in this," Browne said. "The letters were written on the bureau's stationery and every pamphlet carries the legend on its cover stating that it was prepared by the Nebraska Public Utilities bureau."

Aside from giving the school children more extensive information regarding the power industry in general, it was hoped that it would make them better acquainted with the industry's possibilities as a vocation for them to follow when they grew up and were ready to enter business, he explained.

Other industries have been taking the cream of the college and high school students in the past, but the power industry has never done that, he explained. If the students today can obtain a better knowledge of the power industry, the industry

DAN KOSER HURT WHEN HIS DAIRY TRUCK OVERTURNS

When a Koser Dairy Co. truck overturned about midnight Saturday at Fourteenth and B streets, Dan Koser, 2827 North Forty-eighth street, sustained numerous cuts and bruises. The truck overturned when the wheels locked while he was turning a corner, Koser says.

Koser was given first aid treatment at the Kolterman Pharmacy, Fourteenth and B streets, and later taken to the offices of Dr. E. N. Deppen.

LUTZ VICTOR IN AIR RACE

Makes Speed of 157 Miles Hour In Marine Trophy Contest.

WASHINGTON, May 19—(I. N. S)—Maj. C. A. Lutz, U. S. M. C., stationed at the Quantico, Va., marine base, won the Curtiss marine trophy race at the naval air station, Anacostia, D. C., today, making an average speed over the 125-mile course of 157:56 miles per hour.

Lieut. Com. A. C. Miles, U. S. N., was second, with an average speed of 154.07 miles an hour. Capt. H. C. Major, U. S. M. C., was third with an average speed of 151.81 miles an hour.

VICTOR KNISLEY.

Seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Knisley, 1839 O street, who died a few minutes after being struck by a car driven by J. W. Dohrer, 605 South Tenth street, near Twenieth and N streets late Saturday afternoon.

BRYAN ESTATE WINS VERDICT

Assessment For Paving Reduced $8,000 By Court Order.

City Will Appeal Case To Supreme Court Says Attorney.

Mrs. Mary B. Bryan, executrix of the estate of W. J. Bryan, was awarded a verdict Saturday afternoon in District court in her action against the city, protesting against alleged confiscatory assessments in connection with the paving of Cotner boulevard from A to South street. The decision reduces the assessment $8,000 from $27,500, and was signed by Judges Broady and Wheeler. Judge Stewart did not concur.

The decree will be appealed ot the Supreme court, C. R. Wilke, deputy city attorney said Saturday night. Further than that he would not comment, declaring that neither he nor City Attorney Peterson had an opportunity to read the decision.

The case was taken to the District court on an appeal from an adverse decision of the city council sitting as a board of equalization following a hearing lasting about ten deys.

The court has reduced the assessment from $1.725 per acre to $1,200. There are sixteen acres involved.

At the same time the Bryan estate hearing was under way before the council, the same testimony was made to apply in connection with a protest filed by Dr. J. M. Neeley. He also claimed the assessments would be confiscatory.

The decision Saturday does not take into consideration the Neeley protest. However, should the ruling in that case be favorable to the plaintiff, his assessment will be reduced approximately $500.

The difference in the cost of laying the pavement will have to be paid by the city. Before making the ruling the judges viewed the property.

DR. LOOMIS ENDS LIFE.

DETROIT, May 19—(I. N. S.)—Dr. Frank R. Loomis, who was tried and acquitted a year ago last February of having murdered his wife, committed suicide today by taking gas in his office, according to police. Mrs. Loomis was found clubbed to death in her home.

YOUNG SLAYER BROUGHT HERE TO ESCAPE MOB

Henry Sherman, Shows Little Concern Over Triple Murder.

PRISONER LODGED IN PENITENTIARY

Confessed Killer Will Remain in Lincoln Until Sentenced.

Calm and apparently unmoved by his crime, Henry Sherman, confessed slayer of three near Rushville early Friday morning, was brought to the state penitentiary about 7 o'clock Saturday evening by Deputy Sheriff J. A. Miller of Sheridan county.

The youth was rushed here after threats of mob violence at Rushville and again at Valentine, where he was first taken for protection. Deputy Sheriff Miller, Chief of Police Leslie Green of Gordon and Gene French of Rushville drove all night and day as reports of gathering mobs greeted them in Sheridan and Cherry counties.

Sherman admitted shooting to death Roger Pochon, Pochon's wife and his mother and abducting Pochon's 13-year-old daughter, according to the officers who brought him to Lincoln.

He pleaded guilty to murder charges when arraigned in county court at Rushville early Friday evening and will be kept at the penitentiary until the June 4 term of District court begins, at which time sentence will probably be pronounced.

Refused to Discuss Slaying.

Sherman, who says he is 19, but who looks older, refused to discuss the triple slaying with a Star reporter Saturday evening. He is of medium height and light build. He seemed unconcerned as to the outcome of his fate and once when a reporter was talking to Deputy Miller, he turned with a smile on his tanned face and warned the officer not to tell too much.

The youth said that his original home was at Burwell, but that for three or four years he had been working in the vicinity of Rushville and Gordon. For the past four months, he said, he had been working on the Pochon farm, 17 miles south of Rushville.

According to Deputy Miller, it was

Richard Hanna of Albuquerque was lected national committeeman, suceeding Arthur Seligman of Santa Fe.

Colorado Group Uninstructed.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., May 19—(I. N. S.)—Colorado's delegation to the democratic national convention at Houston will go uninstructed, it was decided at the democratic state convention here today. A majority of the twelve votes is conceded to favor the nomination of Gov. Al Smith, however.

George A. Collins of Denver was chosen national committeeman to succeed John T. Barnett, who declined re-election.

Naval Investigation of Plane Accident Started

HONOLULU, May 19—(I. N. S.)—Navy officials today were investigating the airplane accident which caused the death of Lieut. Herbert Reed Ballinger and Ensign Albert Coble, whose plane fell into the sea from a height of 200 feet after it had been catapulated from the deck of the battle ship West Virginia.

Observers from other ships said the take off of the plane from the West Virginia was perfect, but the craft suddenly went into a spin after getting safely away from the deck of the war craft.

Ensign F. Case made a valiant but futile attempt to save his brother officers by diving from the West Virginia and swimming to the spot where the plane disappeared.

Ballinger's home was at San Pedro; Coble's at San Diego.

BRITAIN ACCEPTS RENUNCIATION OF WAR PROPOSAL

Four Reservations Put Forth In Note From Chamberlain.

BACKS FRENCH QUALIFICATIONS

Wants "Freedom of Action" In British Spheres Of Influence.

WASHINGTON, May 19—(I. N. S.)—Great Britain has accepted, with four vital and far-reaching reservations, the proposal of Secretary of State Kellogg for a treaty proclaiming the universal renunciation of war.

Sir Austen Chamberlain's reply to Kellogt's proposal of April 13 was made public today.

Britain supports the two French qualifications that nothing in the proposed treaty shall impair or encroach upon existing obligations and that violation of the pact by any nation shall release all signatories from their obligations thereunder respecting the aggressor. She supports, also, the French reservation of the "right of legitimate defense," and then adds in her own right a fourth qualification, preserving absolute "freedom of action" in recognized spheres of British influence.

State department officials express gratification over the cordial tenor of the British foreign minister's

SOME WORKERS ESCAPE A BLAST IN PENNSYLVANIA

Colliery At Mather, Pa., Rocked Just As Night Shift Is Enroute Into Workings To Relieve Day Crew — Communication Established With Mine Boss, Trapped With Sixteen Others In Phone Room, 3,000 Feet From Pit Mouth.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 19—(I. N. S.)—Between 165 and 200 miners were entombed in the Mather colliery at Mather, near here, late this afternoon by an explosion which rocked the working just as the night shift of the colliery was en route into the mine to relieve the day shift.

THE WEATHER.

Chicago, May 1—The weather outlook for the week beginning Monday follows:

Upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys: Mostly fair until Tuesday or Wednesday followed by shower period; no extreme of heat or cold likely.

Eight bodies were recovered late tonight.

Three of the miners were still alive when rescue crews reached them, but they died shortly after being brought to the surface.

Twenty bodies were located by a rescue crew headed by J. H. Evans, general superintendent of the mine, tonight, about a half mile from the shaft.

Establish Communication.

Rescue crews reached five men, one of whom was probably fatally gassed, and communication was established tonight with Tom Calahan, mine boss, who with sixteen others is trapped in the phone room, 3,000 feet from the pit mouth.

Calahan's telephone was not damaged by the blast, and he reported his men not sufferin greatly, although the air was bad. The fans were not wrecked by the blast.

Rescue crews penetrated 3,000 feet into the mine tonight, before their way was blocked by debris. They reported the full force of the explosion apparently struck about 5,000 feet from the pit mouth.

Five Rescued.

Albert Fowler, 45, of Waynesburg, was rushed to a hospital after being taken from the workings suffering from methane gas. Others rescued with him were Fred Smith, 30,; Field Whitney, 30; Charles Boswood, 40; and Stanley Socakowski, 50.

The men were about 350 feet from the mouth of the shaft when the

THREE PERSONS STRUCK BY CARS

Woman and Two Children Slightly Hurt When Hit By Autos.

One woman and two children were slightly bruised when they were struck by automobiles Saturday evening. They are: Mrs. Walter Wendell, 539 South Fifty-second street; Arlene Wendell, 7, her daughter; and William Thompson, 10, 1139 Charleston street.

Arlene and her mother were hurt when they were struck by a taxi driven by Robert Downing, 25 North Thirteenth street, in crossing the street at the Tenth and O intersection about 8 o'clock. The taxi, going east on O street, struck the pedestrians in turning north on Tenth street, Mr. Downing told police.

Mrs. Wendell received injuries to her back and scratches on her left elbow. Arlene suffered several slight bruises and scratches. They were taken to the office of Dr. George E. Lewis, city physician, who attended them.

The Thompson boy was hit by a car driven by John Rosenthal, 1143 Charleston stret, almost in front of Mr. Rosenthal's home about 9 o'clock, while riding his scooter across the street. His foot was sprained and he sustained other minor scratches which were dressed by Dr. Lewis.

AL SWEEPS TO A NEW VICTORY

Has More Votes In Oregon Primary Than Opponents Combined.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 19—(U. P.)—Sweeping forward to one of the outstanding victoies in the history of Oregon politics, Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New Yofk tonight had more votes to his credit in the Oregon primary than his three oponents combined.

Despite his Catholicism which Oregon isn't supposed to like, and notwithstanding the Anti-Saloon league's reputation that dry Oregon defeat him, the New York governor continued to gain as returns from isolated districts reached Portland.

Thirteen hundred of the 1,743 precincts in the state gave Smith a total of 11,438 votes. His closest opponent, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, who also is a Catholic, but a pronounced dry, had 6,667 votes while Senator James A. Reed of Missouri was in third place with 3,775 votes.

The Rev. Alfonzo Workman of Missouri, an unknown, who entered the Oregon primary presumably for self advertising purposes, picked up 670 votes.

Hoover Unopposed.

Herbert Hoover, the lone republican candidate for the presidency in Oregon, has amassed a total vote of 74,653. His only opposition was in a few dozen votes written in by the GIVING $5,000 TO BUY A CAMP FOR COUNTY Y. M.

(Special to The Star.)

FAIRBURY, Neb., May 19 — People of Jefferson county are responding in a generous way to a call for $2,500 to match an equal amount invested by a Fairbury business man in buying the Jefferson county camp for the permanent property of the county Young Men's Christian association.

During the year, hundreds of boys and girls, men and women, use this property for camping purposes, picnics or as a recreational center. The funds will permit some very much needed permanent improvements for the camp, besides making possible the acceptance of the offer to purchase the property and deed it to the association. One of the improvements contemplated is the construction of a splendid swimming pool.

D. Glenn, finance committee.

Review of city business for the past year in a report submitted to the council showed $8,874.84 chargeable income for the water plant and $43,892 for the light department. Expenses for the water plant resulted in less than a dollar deficit and light plant expenses left a profit showing of $9,973.89. The total city profit showed for the year was $6,562.81.

WALTONITES BUSY.

(Special to The Star.)

DAVID CITY, Neb., May 19—The charter night meeting of the Izaak Walton league was held Friday in the commercial club rooms. The state department of game and fish has already stocked the lake at the city park and Abbott's pond near here with bullheads and catfish, through the efforts of the league.

CATTLE COMING TO THE RANGE

Big Movement of Southern Stock to Western Nebraska.

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., May 19—In a movement that is unprecedented in the history of western Nebraska, cattle from Texas, Arizona and New Mexico are being shipped into this end of the state. During the past two weeks the shipments have amounted to more than 400 carloads, most of which is yearling stuff and the total of cattle received from the south will reach more than 16,000 head, according to local stockmen.

The cattle will go on summer pasture on the ranges and next fall will go into the feed lots. This will stimulate a strong demand for hay and feed next fall. More than 150 cars of the Texas cattle have been received by ranchmen near Heclea. Eight were shipped to Antioch and twelve to Ellsworth.

Good rains recently have put the ranges of this part of the state in the proper condition to produce a high quality of beef. During the past year the ranges have seen an acute loss of young cattle, because of the demand on the markets for lighter cuts of beef. This drain is more than off-set by the incoming of the cattle from the south.

ROCK ISLAND VETS GOING TO REUNION

Twenty-one From Fairbury to Attend Sessions in Chicago During Coming Week.

(Special to The Star)

FAIRBURY, Neb., May 19—Several members of the Twenty-five Year club of the Rock Island, with their wives, will attend the annual reunion of that organization at the Palmer hotel in Chicago May 25 and 26. Employes who have served on the Rick Island for a quarter of a century or more are eligible for membership in this club. Fifty plan to attend from the Colorado-Nebraska division, twenty-one of whom are from Fairbury.

Those planning to leave for Chicago May 24 include Supt. E. D. Hungerford, W. V. Corp, E. W. Sears, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Connell and daughter, Florence, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. John Mulkey, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Holland, J. D. Neville, W. F. Wratten, Mr. and Mrs. John Benzier, C. E. Lundy and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Grafton.

HIP IS BROKEN.

(Special to The Star.)

STROMSBURGH, Neb., May 19—Mrs. John Eckley, long time resident of this city, broke her hip as the result of a fall Friday evening. She was taken to the Lutheran hospital at York for x-ray examination.

Nebraska Dairying Boosters

Chancellor E. A. Burnett of the University of Nebraska (left) and Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific system, are shown above with two famous Holstein cows of the University of Nebraska North Platte substation. Beauty Girl Gerben ReBecky, on the reader's left, ranks first in the United States for butter production in three consecutive lactation periods for all ages and breeds with a record production of 1,383 pounds of butter. Rag Apple Bleske Piebe, ranks fourth in the United States as a senior 4-year-old, with the production record of 1,337 pounds of butter. Chancellor Burnett, as head of the agricultural college for many years, and Mr. Gray, through his interest in the Nebraska Dairy Development society, have both done much to advance dairying in Nebraska.

STOCK PRICES ARE IRREGULAR DURING WEEK

Violent Flucuations In the High-Priced Specialties.

Good Progress Reported In Important Divisions Of Business.

BY. W. S. COUSINS.

NEW YORK, May 19—(I. N. S.)—Extreme irregularity in the stock market, with violent price fluctuations in the high-priced specialties, and a general hardening of the money market, were the outstanding features of the week in the financial markets.

Bulls in the stock market were not in the least perturbed by the advance in the rediscount rate of the New York Reserve bank to 4½ per cent, designated in Wall street as the last trump to be played in the curbing of wild speculation in stocks that has been sweeping the country since the first week in March. It was well recognized that the advance in the rate here was only a matter of time and that its effects might be beneficial in stopping the flow of funds from New York to the outside monetary centers.

Trade, crop and industrial reports are extremely spotty, according to weekly business surveys of the principal agencies. Bradstreet's reports that some industries have already passed the peak of seasonal requirements, and the distributive trade is suffering from the effects of bad weather. Crops as a whole have made good progress, seeding of spring wheat in the northwest is practically complete, with a slight increase in acreage, corn planting has made excellent progress and the rains in the southwest have helped grain and cotton.

The stock market has moved violently in both directions this week, with the airplane stocks fluctuating over an area of close to 50 points a day, in an effort to adjust themselves to their new position as partners of the great railroad companies in a coast-to-coast plane-and-train passenger service. However, the market received with complacency the upward revision of the bank rate as well as the rise in time money rtes to the highest level since 1922.

Bonds Reactionary.

New bond floatations aggregated about $125,000,000, of which the largest volume represented home financing of the industrial and utility companies. The listed bond market was slightly reactionary, prime government and corporation bonds declining on the stiffening of the money market, and the speculative issues and convertibles following the general course of the stock market.

The commodity markets were generally steady. Cotton sold up on unfavorable weather and a lower estimate of final production of the southern staple. Copper metal prices rose in response to the enlarged demand for the metal and crude rubber showed a tendency to win back some of its recent losses. Bank clearings increased 29 per cent over the same week last year, with an aggregate of $13,207,475,000 for the week.

Grains Close Higher.

CHICAGO, May 19—(I. N. S.)—Grains closed generally higher today. Wheat was unchanged to ⅜c up, corn 1¼ to 1⅝c higher and oats from ⅝c off to 1c up.

For the week prices were 2⅝c off to ⅜c up for wheat, ⅛ to ⅞c higher for corn and from 1¾ to 4⅝c lower for oats.

Wheat generally averaged lower during the week under scattered selling, favorable weather and crop news. Outside interest contipues light, and is chiefly responsible for the break of 25 cents from high levels reached a few weeks ago. Late in the week short covering and buying by locals on unexpectedly strong cables checked the selling.

Continued rains have given the assurance of a good crop of winter wheat except in sections where abandoned acreage was heavy. Spring wheat seeding seems to be well developed. Canadian reports indicate that seeding is 90 per cent completed in prairie provinces, with an increase of 9 to 12 per cent in acreage.

Foreign crop comments were unfavorable. Export business was of moderate proportions during the week. Cash demand was quiet.

Corn was lower the forepart of the week with wheat, but rallied later on short covering, local buying and active cash demand. Sentiment was mixed. Weather conditions were generally favorable for newly planted corn. However, many regard the old crop situation as strong. Export demand was light. Clearances totalled 33,000 bushels.

Oats weer depressed by scattered liquidation and a poor cash demand.

Hogs Finish Steady.

CHICAGO, May 19—(I. N. S.)—Hogs finished about steady with a week ago, steers also steady, cows and heifers 15 to 25c higher, lambs 25c higher.

The hog market started the week stronger, but was unable to maintain the gain as warm weather slowed up the demand considerably. Receipts were larger. Packers were only moderate buyers while the demand from shippers was slim. Week's receipts total 132,000 head against 114,000 last week and 120,000 a yar ago. Shipments were about the same as a week ago. Top was 10 for good lightweight hogs late in the week. Most of the light and medium weights cleared at $9.65 to $9.85. Fair to good heavy hogs moved at $9.25 to $9.75.

The cattle market was uneven. Receipts were 45,000 against 43,000 last week and 57,000 a year ago. Top for the week was $15, paid for heavy steers of high finish. Most of the good to choice steers sold at $13.50 to $14.75, and medium to good at $12.50 to $13.50. Demand for cows was strong all week and values moved up to the highest point of the year. Good to choice heavy cows moved at $10 to $12 and common and medium at $8 to $10. There was a broad outlet for yearling heifers at $13 to $14. Bulls gained 20 to 40c with a better demand, and reached the season's summit. Good heavy bologna bulls sold at $9 to $9.65. Calves gained 50 to 75c and cleared at $12 to $14 for light and medium weight.

Demand was strong for lambs. Arrivals were 76,000 against 80,000 last week and 73,000 a year ago. Good to choice spring lambs changed hands at $17.75 to $18.25 with the plain and medium grades at $16.50 to $17.50. A limited number of shorn old crop lambs brought $15.50 to $16.60.

Chicago Cotton Lower.

CHICAGO, May 19—(I. N. S.)—Cotton closed from 1 to 8 points under a week ago. Trade was nervous and chiefly moved by weather conditions.

Thursday was the most active day of the week. Prices on that day soared from 40 to 41 points with active buying on unfavorable weather over the belt and publication of a revised 1927 cotton report construed as bullish.

Today's last prices were from 6 points higher to 4 lower. May finished at 2089, up 6; July 2075, down 3; October 2060, down 3; December and January 2054, down 4.

ROSS KING NAMED ALUMNI SPEAKER

University Notes

Prof. Clark E. Mickey, chairman of the department of civil engineering, will leave Sunday for Kansas City, Mo., where he will attend a conference of United States district engineers on matters pertaining to the new surveys and economic studies of the Missouri river and its tributaries.

One hundred university women, representatives of all organized women's groups on the campus and some unorganized groups, were guests of the Y. W. C. A. finance committee Tuesday evening at a box supper. After the supper the guests were organized into small discussion groups to tak up student and Y. W. C. A. problems.

Twoinstructors in the department of physical education for women have been asked to contribute articles to the new edition of the Athletic Handbook for Women. Miss Calara Rausch will write on the subjects of swimming and canoeing for women. Miss Kerstin Thorin, who has taken part in Olympics exhibitions both in Antwerp and in the United States, will discuss swimming for women in her native country, Sweden.

Clifford M. Hicks, instructor in business organization and management, has been chosen to act as treasurer for the Lincoln Little symphony association during the season 1928-29. In addition, Mr. Hicks will take over the management of the advertising for the orchestra programs. Mr. Hicks is a member of the Lincoln junior chamber of commerce, sponsor of the little symphony.

Four new specimens of birds have been received at the university museum in Morrill hall and are being placed on display. J. E. Stipsky of Hooper, presented three of the birds, mounted together on a small tree branch. Two of them are tree sparrows and the third a field sparrow. John T. Cox of Howe presented a black-crowned night heron, a fine large specimen.

Eleven hundred stamps, collected since his childhood, have been presented to the university museum by Robert R. Ralston, a student and assistant in the chemistry department. The stamps are from about eighty-five countries and date back to 1890.

Recent visitors at the department of geology were: Claire Matheny, '26, geologist with the Sinclair Oil and Gas Co., Wichita Falls, Tex.; S. K. Clark, '16, geologist with the Marland Oil Co., Ponca City, Okla.; Oliver T. Joy, Caracas, South America; and Allan Tillotson, '27, employed by the Producers and Refiners corporation, en route from Tulsa, Okla., to Wyoming.

Edward Rumsey of the department of geology has accepted a position as instrument man for the Producers and Refiners corporation at Tulsa, Okla. T. D. Mundorf, another student, will work during the summer vacation for the U. S. geological survey, doing field work in Wyoming and Montana.

H. George De Kay, '27, a graduate of the college of pharmacy, has accepted a position as instructor in the school of pharmacy at Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind.

SUTTON'S DEBATERS MEET WITH SUCCESS

Win Decisions Over Some Of the Strongest Teams In High School Circles.

(Special to The Star.)

SUTTON, Neb., May 19—Sutton high school debaters have closed one of the mast successful years in the history of the school. Participating in 18 debates, the team, composed of Kenneth Anderson, Josephine McDermott and Lavee Mills, won decisions over such strong teams at University Place, Lincoln, Hastings, Broken Bow, Aurora, Doniphan, Osceola, Stromsburg, and Davenport.

The highest honors won by the team was at the Hastings college tournament where it took second place. The members of the team were awarded individual medals and Kenneth Anderson was awarded a scholarship to Hastings college.

The team was coached by Cleo Cummings, who has taught the students of Sutton high school the value of participating in this activity.

DOANE NOTES

The Doane players presented "The Dust of the Road," religious drama by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, at the First Congregational church, on Sunday evening, May 13. The players are becoming very popular in religious drama work, and hope to do more of it in the future. Carl Warkow, '28 played a remarkable role as Judas Iscariot. A successful 1928-29 is assured for the players with the following new officers. Walter Lauritsen, Cambridge; president; Jo Acheson, Bingham, vice president; Helen Fulton, Grand Island, secretary; and Warren Campbell, Clay Center, treasure. The commencement play will be "The Enemy" by Channing Pollock to be given the evening of June 2.

COCA COLA CO. IN NEW HOME

Formal Opening of Building at 21st and G Tuesday.

The formal opening of the new home of the Lincoln Coca Cola Bottling company at Twenty-first and G streets will be held Tuesday, May 22 from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and from 7 to 11 in the evening, according to an announcement made Saturday by J. W. Pass, general manager of the firm.

The recently completed brick structure covers most of a plot of ground, measuring 110 by 130 feet. It is roomy, well-lighted and well-ventilated. The offices and the front of the building face on G street between Twenty-first and Twenty-second street. The front elevation of the ground floor is almost entirely of plate glass which insures a maximum amount of natural light.

The floor is constructed of 5-inch reinforced concrete. Concrete posts extending about six feet into the ground have been set under the floor at intervals of about six feet to prevent any possible "settling." Structural steel beams and pillars support the second story and the roof.

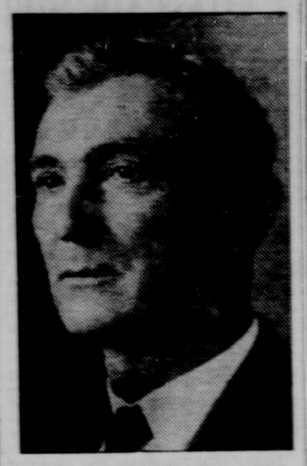
The equipment used for mixing and bottling the variosu beverages is of the most modern type. The laboratory in which the syrups are mixed is located on the second floor and is Mr. Pass' particular pride. It is finished in glistening white and the mixing vats are lined with glass. Mr. Pass, who has had twenty years experience in the business, does all the work of preparing the ingredients and mixing the syrups himself.

In order to insure the purity of the product and to be positive that the city water would successfully combine with the other ingredients, Mr. Pass had samples tested by the Nebraska state chemists, took samples to Chicago for tests in the laboratories of the company from which he purchased his equipment, and sent samples for testing to the laboratories of the Coca Cola company at Atlanta, Ga., and to the government chemists at Washington, D. C. The reports from all of these sources were favorable.

The water used in the manufacture of the various soft drinks is heated to a temperature varying from 150 to 200 degrees and is then cooled to thirty-five degrees before being bottled. Elaborate machinery has been installed for cleansing the bottles and for mixing the syrups and carbonated water with mathematical precision to get just the proper flavor. This machinery is located on the ground flor and may be seen in operation from G street through the large windows.

The garage, which will accommodate six trucks, and the elevator to the second floor store-room are at the west end of the building.

Is Manager Of Bottling Company



J. W. PASS.

J. W. Pass, general manager of the Lincoln Coca Cola Bottling company, which is holding the formal opening of its new home at Twenty-first and G streets next Tuesday. Mr. Pass has been connected with the beverage bottling industry for twenty years. He came to Lincoln recently from Newnan, Ga.

The general manager, Mr. Pass, who is also secretary and treasurer of the Lincoln Coca Cola Bottling company, came to Lincoln a few months ago from Newnan, Ga. He has been connected with the manufacture of soft drinks for the past twenty years. During that time he has done special work, including plant inspection, in connection with the industry.

The plant will be open for inspection at all times, Mr. Pass states, and the public is cordially invited to take advantage of this opportunity.

Will He See It Through?
If you appoint a friend as Executor of your estate will he carry on until its final settlement and distribution?
The following attributes of a corporate Executor, seldom found in any one individual, are some of the reasons why the individual Executor is passing:
FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY—Not always obtainable in an individual, but a necessary qualification of a corporation.
ACCUMULATED EXPERIENCE—The individual Executor acting in the capacity of Executor but once in his lifetime as contrasted with a Trust Company whose business it is to constantly handle these matters.
ECONOMY—Because of the collective judgment of a staff of efficiently trained and well organized Trust officers, many economies are effected in estate administration.
Because of the above and numerous other reasons there is a definite modern trend toward naming a responsible institution as Executor and Trustee under Wills—resulting in the bringing to its satisfactory and entire completion the structure of family protection, the foundation of which you have laid with a carefully planned Will.
May we have the pleasure of explaining the details of this service to you.

BLISS DECLARES LOAN LIMIT HIGH

Secretary Says Provision Partly Responsible For Failures.

Believes Clause Permits Too Much Leeway For Speculative Banking.

State Commerce Secretary Clarence G. Bliss believes that the present Nebraska law allowing state banks to loan up to fifteen times the amount of their combined capital and surplus gives too much leeway for speculative banking and is responsible in part for the large number of failures during recent years.

Formerly the limit fixed by statute for loans was ten times the capital and surplus, but in 1919 the legislature amended it to fifteen times. That action was taken when the whole country was in the midst of speculative fever brought on by war prices of commodities and intense stimulation of all productive industries.

The bill making the change was introduced at the behest of bankers by Senator C. H. Randall of Randolph, a member of the financial fraternity, who afterward became the republican nominee for governor in 1922. It went through as a bank-supported measure, bearing the emergency clause, and became effective April 7, 1919.

At that very time the conditions were rapidly developing in Nebraska and throughout the middle west which a year or two later crystallized in a widespread business depression, falling prices, inability of many thousands of bank borrowers to repay their loans, and consequent failures of the banks themselves.

Wrecked by "Frozen Loans."

A vast majority of the 200 banks which have closed their doors in Nebraska or been taken over by the guaranty fund commission during the past eight years owe their collapse to an excessive volume of loans which became "frozen"—that is, where the borrowers could not pay their notes and had to turn over mortgaged property which the banks did not want, could not use, and were unable to convert into ments.

In many cases loans were made for large sums on farm and ranch lands at greatly inflated calues. Numerous banks had also been financing the operations of large feeders of live stock on a scale never before known. The resultant crash caught bankers who had strained their credit resources in this fashion and carried down the lenders and borrowers together.

Commerce Secretary Bliss believes that if the old restriction on loans had still been in effect in 1920 many banks which went under would have been able to survive. While the law was not always lived up to, it did impose a check on over-extension of credits, he says.

The excuse given for raising the limit from ten times capital and surplus to fifteen times—where it still remains—was that national banks were permitted under he federal reserve act to go that high, and state banks should have the same privilege. National banks, however, are subject to other conditions and requirements which operate as a check on speculative tendencies.

Careful Bankers Play Safe.

Probably four banks out of five operating in Nebraska, both national and state, are carrying on their business with loans aggregating not more than ten times as much as their combined capital and surplus, although the federal and state laws allow them to go higher.

While this can be accounted for in part by easy money conditions, the country over, the fact remains that prudent bankers do not care to risk their money in loans up to the legal limit or closely approaching it.

In proof of this, the last summary issued by the Nebraska banking bureau, showing the status of 777 state banks on March 10, 1928, lists about $190,000,000 of loans, compared with $26,460,000 of capital and surplus.

This is a ratio of less than eight to one, or little more than half as much as the banks could lawfully loan. By voluntary action, banks are now keeping ample funds on hand for their reserves. They are not even loaning as much as the statute permitted them to before the act of 1919 was passed.

Secretary Bliss expects to call this situation to the attention of bankers throughout the state, and he may suggest changing the law back to what it formerly was, in order to forestall another possible orgy of injudicious lending.

FORMER LINCOLN BOY IN MOVIES

F. JAC FOSS.

F. Jac Foss, former Lincoln boy, who has recently entered the movies at Hollywood after several months with the Mernard Players at the Mission theater in Long Beach, Cal. He has been assigned a prominent role in a Carl Laemmle production, "Collegiate," which is soon to be filmed.

Mr. Foss attended the University of Nebraska for three years where he specialized in dramatics. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity and is 21 years old.

He appeared in several plays a few months ago with the Pierre Watkin Players. Mr. Foss also had the leading male role in the "all-Lincoln movie" which was made on the stage of the Orpheum theater last summer.

Mr. Foss left Lincoln for California in January. Word of his entrance into the cinema world was received by his brother, F. J. Foss, 2201 Woodscrest avenue, during the past week.

GIRLS' RESERVE

Monday evening the Irving Junior high girl reserves combined business and pleasure by going over to Vera May Peterson's home to practice for field day and have a covered dish luncheon. At their last meeting they recognized about fifteen new members.

University Place high school cabinet girls had a cabinet dinner Thursday noon at school. It was probably the last meeting of the old cabinet.

Grace Dodge triangle practiced for field day at their last meeting.

Sherman's infatuation for the 13-year-old Pochon girl that led to the slaying, he having been rebuked several times by the family for his attentions to the daughter. Miller said that Sherman confessed that his original plan was to kill the entire family, composed of six children besides the daughter and the three he murdered, and elope with the daughter. A 6-months-old baby, whose head Sherman batted against a chair, is not expected to live, Miller said.

During the entire trip to Lincoln Sherman had little to say, Miller continued, although once he expressed regret "that he had killed them." He offered no resistance when arrested six miles out of Rushville, Miller said. At that time he was forcing a neighbor of the Pochons to drive him to town so he could give himself up to the authorities.

Mobs Gathered Twice.

Miller said Sherman was secreted out of Rushville as a large mob gathered near the jail. While the car bearing the prisoner speeded toward Valentine, the doors of the jail were opened and members of the mob were allowed to go through. Not finding him there the mob dispersed.

Some, however, jumped into automobiles and headed in the direction they believed the deputies were traveling. The youth was jailed at Valentine, but when reports that a mob of infuriated men was gathering reached Sheriff Miller, he placed the prisoner in the car and rushed him to Lincoln.

Wanted to Marry Girl.

RUSHVILLE, May 19—(I. N. S.)—A youthful hired hand's passionate love for the 13-year-old daughter of his employer led to a triple murder on the Pochon ranch, 17 miles from here.

"I wanted to get them out of the way so I could marry Nellie," Henry Sherman, 19, accused of the slayings, declared in his latest confession, Deputy Sheriff Miller announced.

By "them" Sherman meant Roger Pochon, one of the wealthiest ranchers and land owners in this section; Pochon's wife and his mother, Mrs. Eugene Pochon.

"They all objected," sheriff quoted Sherman as saying, "to my going with Nellie. I wanted to take her to a dance Thursday night, but they wouldn't let me.

"I got thinking about it next day at breakfast. I figured if they were out of the way, Nellie and I could go ahead with the wedding. And I figured with boss dead, Nellie would be worth a lot of money.

Killed Mother First.

"Everything went black on me. I got up, went to a closet in another room and took out Pochon's gun, and then I started shooting."

Here let Nellie take up the story.

Pathetic little figure, still hysterical:

"He killed mamma first," the girl sobbed, "then he shot grandma. They both died right away.

"Papa started around the table after Henry, but papa didn't get but a step or two until Henry fired at him. Papa lived about an hour, but unconscious all the time, and couldn't talk."

The remainder of her tale was revolting, even to hard-boiled officers.

She related how Sherman, pointing the gun at her, forced her to lead him upstairs where six younger children slept. They had been awakened by the shooting down stairs. Huddled together, they were afraid to venture out of the room.

He picked up Nellie's 6-month-old sister by the feet and dashed the baby's head against the wall. Then, Nellie said, he struck it over the head with the gun.

Leaving the youngsters alone with the dead, Sherman compelled Nellie to go with him to the home of Elmer Davis, four miles away. He forced Davis to drive him to town, according to police.

Mrs. Davis managed to sound the alarm. Sheriff Miller and deputies met the car on the outskirts. Sherman, still carrying a gun, quietly submitted to arrest.

ELECTRIC POWER BOOKS DEFENDED

will benefit by being able to obtain better men in the future.

"If the facts are correct, who cares who compiled them?" he asked.

The bureau is thinking of having another supply of the pamphlets printed in order that requests for them next fall may be filled, Browne said.

He emphasized his statement that no effort had been made to put textbooks containing favorable propaganda into the schools. Any information which was furnished, he said, was intended to be entirely supplemental to the routine work.

Activities Of Bureau.

Regarding the activities of the bureau, Browne explained that the distribution of information to the public was only a small part of work. The majority of it, he said was the gathering of information regarding rates, operating costs and sales methods for distribution among the member companies which maintain the bureau. He declared that no attempt had ever been made to influence the policies of newspapers in Nebraska.

Citing an example of the work of the bureau, he said that the bureau had made a survey of the tri-county power and irrigation project which was proposed during the last legislature. When the report has been completed, he said, copies of it will be sent to commercial clubs and other interested civic organizations.

Regarding the hearing at Washington before the trade commission committee, Browne said that he obtained the impression that it was receiving its greatest impetus from the William Randolph Hearst publications. This he attributed to the large reported land holdings of Hearst in that territory which would be benefited by the proposed Boulder dam and irrigation project, which project is being opposed by the power interests.

Browne said his bureau had distributed a hundred or so pamphlets in Nebraska which had opposed the Boulder dam bill. These, he said, were sent to persons he knew to be interested but opposed to the bill also.

He described the questioning by the trade commission attorneys as being decidedly hostile to the industry. Browne was on the witness stand almost an entire day.

ON NEBRASKA GREENS

Junior Chamber Meet.

Interest is keen in the Junior Chamber of Commerce golf tournament, according to announcement made by Pollard Caldwell, committee chairman in charge of the tourney. The meet will be staged at the Antelope Golf club, the qualifying dates being set for May 28 and 29.

An array of attractive prizes has been arranged, the plan being to have a number of flights. The tourney will be run on a hapdicap basis and golfers may enter with Pollard Caldwell, 221 Little building, 'phone B-2266.

Plan Golf Team.

The Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce plans to place a golf team in the field this year for competition with other Junior Chamber organizations of the state and the city civic clubs.

Ducker is Winner.

Charles Ducker won the blind bogey contest at Antelope club Saturday afternoon. Ducker shot a 75 for a net 70. Joe Carr was second with an 80 for a net 72.

Tourney at Broken Bow.

A field of 72 golfers participated in the second annual tournament sponsored by the Broken Bow Golf club. Frank Raetz of Gothenburg had the low score with 103 for 27 holes. He made the nine-hole course in 31, one under par. J. W. Scott of Gothenburg was second with 106. Harry Lamb of Callaway and Y. B. Huffman of Broken Bow were in a tie for third place with 112s.

A FILIBUSTER DELAYING TAX BILL PASSAGE

floor leader that the senate meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning without a time limit for the measure was carried.

Defeat Recess Proposal.

WASHINGTON, May 19—(I. N. S.)—At 11 o'clock tonight, after twelve consecutive hours of filibustering against the tax bill, the senate, by a vote of 34 to 23, defeated a proposal to recess until Monday.

Weary senators prepared to remain in session until Monday night in hope of breaking the ranks of the filibusters and bringing the bill to a vote.

Among the twenty-three senators who voted to recess were all the opponents of the Boulder dam bill, against which the filibuster is actually directed. Just before the vote was taken, an amendment by Senator Dill, democrat, of Washington, was defeated 41 to 13, which proposed an import tax on foreign made shingles.

Several ineffectual attempts were made to reach an agreement to vote at 1 and finally 3 o'clock. Finally Senator Johnson, as leader of the Boulder dam forces, declared that while he was willing to agree to any arrangement that would mean a vote on the tax bill tonight, he would not agree to any unanimous consent agreement which would permit the senate to recess with the tax bill still before it.

A second attempt to force a recess was made by Senator Bruce, democrat of Maryland, twenty minutes after the first, and it likewise was defeated, 43 to 16.

Filibuster Holds.

WASHINGTON, May 19—(I. N. S.)—Another effort to break the filibuster against the tax bill held the senate in session tonight. Senators cancelled their weekend engagements and prepared to remain in their seats until midnight.

Supporters of the Swing-Johnson boulder dam bill, at which measure the filibuster was really directed, remained close to the chamber, and Senator Johnson, republican of California, co-author of the bill, announced on the floor that he would not permit an adjournment until the tax bill had been voted upon.

Inheritance Tax Repeal Fails.

WASHINGTON, May 19—(I. N. S.)—The proposal for repeal of the federal inheritance tax was defeated by the senate this afternoon by a vote of 30 to 43 during consideration of the new $228,000,000 tax reduction bill.

The proposal, offered over the protest of administration leaders by Senator Bingham, republican of Connecticut, would have repealed all federal taxes against estates and inheritances.

The administration leaders previously had agreed with the insurgent bloc to oppose the repeal in return for support on their program keeping tax reduction within the limit fixed by the treasury.

The senate then rejected a second amendment, proposing to slash the rates to a fraction of the present scale and repealing the existing law which returns 80 per cent of the tax collected to the states. The vote was 17 to 52, with southern democrats voting against it.

note, as 'notable progress" in the negotiations.

Informed observers in the diplomatic corps, on the other hand, see in the note a bald restatement of the essential incompatability of the European and American viewpoints.

Speaks For Dominions.

Chamberlain spoke for all the British dominions and the government of India as well as England proper.

"There are certain regions of the world, the welfare and integrity of which constitute a special and vital interest for our peace and safety," the text sets forth. "His majesty's government has taken pains to make it clear in the past that interference in hese regions cannot be suffered. Their protection against attack is to the British a measure of self defense. It must be clearly understood that his majesty's government accepts the new treaty upon the distinct understanding that it does not prejudice their freedom of action in this respect."

MANY TRAPPED IN MINE BLAST

explosion occurred, they said. A rush of deadly gas swept over them.

Although the flames from the explosion shot forth from an air passage, the report of the blast itself was muffled, according to the rescued men.

They estimated the time of the explosion at 4:30 p. m., although no word of the disaster reached the affices of the United State department of mines at Pittsburgh for several hours later.

Majority Far Back.

Mine rescue men from neighboring mines who penetrated the wrecked mine estimated that the majority of the trapped men were about 4,000 feet from the pit mouth, nearly 1,000 feet from the farthest recesses reached by rescue crews.

Calahan's men, who have barricaded themselves against possible gas waves following in the wake of the explosion, are apparently in no immediate danger, and it is thought the rescue crews can reach them safely.

Entire Mine Shaken.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 19—(I. N. S.)—Two hundred to 250 men were believed entombed in the Mather colliery at Mather, seven miles northeast of here, early tonight, after an explosion which shook every corner of the mine, and which was thought to have been followed by fire.

Scores of other miners escaped from the workings, it was indicated, and rescue crews from nearby mines were rushed into the blast-torn interior. The fans and lift were in working order. It was hoped the rescue crews might be able to dig their way through the debris to many of the entombed men.

Rescue trucks from Pittsburgh and the United States bureau of mines railway car from Nanty-Glo are enroute to Mather.

Reports in nearby communities placed the number of entombed men as high as 400, but it was thought late tonight the figure would not run that high.

800 Normally Employed.

The mine was said to employ 800 miners in normal times, but it was not believed that number was in the workings tonight.

The Mather colliery was operated on an open shop basis.

From the time of the explosion—shortly before 6 p. m.—it was feared that part of the day shift at the mine may have been caught in the blast, as well as the night shift on its way into the workings.

Fear that deadly "black damp" or methane gas, which follows in the wake of mine explosions, would sweep the workings prompted members of the bureau of mines rescue teams to carry with them all their resuscitation apparatus, and emergency calls were sent for all ambulances available in the vicinity of the wrecked mine.

First Removed Little Hurt.

The first five men to be rescued were not badly hurt, only one being removed to the hospital.

One mine employe estimated that seventy-five members of the day shift and 125 in the night shift were caught in the blast.

Rescue crews which penetrated the mine through an air shaft reported seeing the bodies of several men and horses in Butte 15, about two miles from the pit mouth.

The fire belched out of the airshaft nearly 300 feet into the air as the explosion let go, according to a witness.

The entries deep in the mine apparently are blocked, rescue crews reported, and fire is believed to be raging farther back in the workings.

Fire Is Feared.

PITTSBURGH, May 19—(I. N. S.)—Between one hundred fifty and two hundred miners are believed to have been entombed by an explosion which wrecked the Mather colliery at Mather, Green county, Pa., tonight, according to meager word received at the United States bureau of mines here. Reports were that a number of others escaped.

The explosion, which shook the entire region, was believed to have been followed by fire.

Two mine rescue trucks were rushed to Mather from the mine rescue headquarters here, and a mine rescue car, stationed at Nanty-Glo, Pa., was ordered to the mine.

Mine officials gave out only the information that some men had escaped.

Mather is forty-two miles from Pittsburgh, and approximately seventy miles from Nanty-Glo.

Frantic appeals for help were sent from the stricken mine colony to nearby communities, and all telephone wires were commandeered to communicate with mine rescue crews.

If the men are trapped in the workings alive, flames would make short work of them, and also would present the danger of further explosions in the wrecked mine.

LINCOLN BOY IS KILLED BY AUTO

slipped off onto the accelerator, he told Officers Maunier and Casement of the police department who investigated the accident. As a result, the car spurted up instead of coming to a halt, but Mr. Dohrer said that he reached to turn off the ignition switch and let the car coast to the curbing.

E. P. Hendriks eye witness to the accident, stated that the Dohler car went about one third of a block past the intersection of Nineteenth street before coming to a stop. Immediately after striking the boy, the car lurched forward, he said, but slowed down later.

The accident happened in front of Hendrik's home at 1931 N street. He was sitting on his front porch when the car hit the boy.

"But I hit the boy before I got my foot on the brake," Mr. Dohrer declared. "He jumped in front of the car so quickly that it seemed as if he had just sprung out of the ground."

There were no marks on the coupe driven by Mr. Dohrer to show where the boy was struck, but it was believed that he was knocked to the pavement by the right fender and that the two right wheels of the car passed over his body.

Victor is survived by his parents, three sisters older than he and two brothers younger. The body is being held at Morey's parlors pending funeral arrangements.

Precincts as yet unheard from are small ones with few votes. The result cannot be changed even though all votes should go one way.

Results of the election mean that Smith will go to Houston to the democratic national convention with the ten delegates of Oregon pledged to vote for his nomination as a presidential candidate.

Hoover, the republican, picked up thirteen delegates who also are definitely pledged to support him. There are from three to four republicans in Oregon to one democrat, which accounts for the heavy republican vote as compared with the democratic ballots cast.

24 Years in Lincoln

What Advertising Has Done For Us

Forty years ago, Mr. Simon, the proud owner of his former employer's business, realized that if his store depended upon the slender support of tradition for its future patronage, he was likely to be out-stripped any day by some sturdy, progressive young rival.

Mr. Simon commenced to advertise, setting forth in every medium of print then available—the purpose, policies and ideals of his business.

Once he had done this, he knew he was morally bound to make good. It was this living up to a high standard of business dealing as advertised; this guaranteeing that purchases should be exactly as represented; the making of adjustments favorable to the customer, that builded the public's confidence in his business, which has grown into "ours".

There is nothing more satisfying to us, than this knowledge, that our business enjoys the good opinion of most of the people in this locality.

This advertising, commenced forty years ago—and continued with ever increasing lineage and circulation, has fostered and even commanded fair dealing. It has established the confidence of patrons by the thousands.

What ever we know is sincerely applied for the benefit of our customers—first in the selection of merchandise, and then in the selling of it.

The May issue of the Nebraska Alumnus, out Friday, carries in a special article by J. Harris Gable the announcement of research on theories of X-ray reflection being conducted in the university department of physics by Dr. Henry E. Stauss.

Dr. Stauss is investigating the reflection of X-rays from plane surfaces of platinum, nickle, silver, glass and quartz. His researches may lead to discoveries of new properties of the X-ray, and may be utilized in turning the ray's activities to new and mportant uses.

Doane Notes

A large and appreciative audience attended the vesper organ recital given at the college chapel last Sunday afternoon by Miss June Judy, instructor in organ. The program was chosen most appropriately and was performed throughout with discriminating taste and musicianship.

Dean and Mrs. A. G. Heyhoe are now living at 1032 Hyde Park Blvd. Chicago. After a year's leave of absence, he will resume his work at Doane next September.

Miss Eldine Smaha, '28, Ravenna, has accepted a position to teach history and public school music in the high school at Wilsonville, Neb.

Joseph Gilbert, editor of the Nebraska Craftsman, a labor union newspaper in Lincoln, was the principal speaker before a class is labor problems, in the Rotary club room in the Cosmopolitan hotel, May 10. This was the last of a series of economic class dinners that have been held during the year. Prominent business men of Lincoln and of Omaha have appeared before the students, bringing the ma practical application of their economic theories.

The Doane string quartet will broadcast an interesting program from KFAB, Lincoln, between 6 and 7 p. m., Monday, May 21. The personnel of the quartet is as follows: C. Burdette Wolfe, first violin; Muriel Thomas, second violin; Hilma Scamman, viola; and Phil Taylor, 'cello; with Arthur Byler, piano.

J. M. Graybiel, '06, 217 Clayton St., San Francisco, presented his thesis for an M. A. degree, May 16, at the Universit yof California. The subject was "American Federation of Teachers 1916-1928."

Piedmont

Provides a setting for fine homes

Several years of planning and more than a year of actual creative work have gone to convert a broad expanse of rolling farm land into a suburban residential development affording an attractive setting for fine and beautiful homes.

The work of preparing Piedmont for residences is virtually completed. Sewer, water, gas and electricity have been installed and paid for. Much of the paving has been completed and contractors are now at work putting down the remaining paving and sidewalks, and completing the street lighting system.

The development of Piedmont has been carried out with the full knowledge that to create here a distinctive home community would require much careful thought and planning. Piedmont has not been hurried. Each spacious site has been laid out in relation to its topography with the idea of insuring ample room and pleasant vistas.

To preserve the natural beauty of Piedmont was but one step in its development. Rigid yet reasonable restrictions were devised which forever protect against encroachments of unsightly developments, and owners will be assured that Piedmont will remain exclusively residential for generations. Each can be certain that the development around him will be of a character quite in harmony with his own.

Here at a price not excessive and within the reach of those of moderate income can be had a homesite equaling in size three standard residential lots. Here is assured ample room for gardens and lawns. Always because of the roominess of the surroundings and the height above the city, there will be an abundant supply of clean fresh air with pleasing views and unobstructed vistas.

A careful investigation of Piedmont will reveal that it possesses many advantages not possible of duplication elsewhere in Lincoln. The owners or associated selling agents will welcome an opportunity to show you Piedmont.

Brigham Cleaning and Dye Works New Home

Above is pictured the new home of the Brigham Cleaning and Dye Works, which is now under construction at Twenty-third and O streets. The structure will be of Spanish design, two stories in height and measures fifty by eighty feet. The entire building will be used for the different departments of the Brigham company.

The building will be fireproof throughout, being built of concrete and steel. The floors will be of tile and the entire building will be finished with the same material. Smooth tile will be used in the interior with terra cotta tile in intermingling colors on the exterior.

The new structure, according to Mr. Brigham, will be the first building in Lincoln on which tile will be used both inside and out. The Coats Tile company, which produces the material, is planning on using the structure as a key building for Lincoln.

M. L. Overton is in charge of the construction. It is expected that the building will be completed early in August.

IRVING, BRYANT WIN FIELD MEET

Lincoln Girl Reserves Stage Contests At Antelope Park.

Irving junior high school, and the Florence Nightengale triangle of Bryant grade school, were the winners Saturday afternoon in the first field meet of the Lincoln Girl Reserves, staged at Antelope park. The judges were Mrs. W. E. Field, Mrs. Harold A. Packard, Miss Weicelbaum, Mrs. C. E. Keefer, Miss Ruth Pratt, and Mrs. Gronquist. Miss Hilda Parker was in charge of the track events.

The contestants were scored in the different events on a point basis. The winners were awarded flags. The entire day was required to complete the long program.

Irving junior high and Hartley won points in the opening ceremony contest, in which the salutes and pledges to the American Christian and G. R. flags are given. Irving junior also received points for having the best original stunt, and Vivian veret won the 30-yard dash for Hartley. Helen Edwards captured the 60-yard dash for Irving junior, and Hazel Edwards won five points for Hartley as winner of the rope pitching contest. Vivian Buckner won the baseball throwing contest for Whittier junior. The shuttle relay was won by Clinton. The baseball throw for accuracy was won for Hartley by Elsie Daugherty.

The girls took their lunches and ice cream was served.

LIFE IS LOST BY FALL DOWN SHAFT

OMAHA, May 19—Mrs. Bertha Hartmat, 28, fell 18 feet down an elevator shaft at the Leavenworth Laundry, 2809 Leavenworth street Saturday noon, and died of her injuries before reaching Nicholas Senn hospital.

Mrs. Hartmat, a checker and wrapper, attempted to board an automatic elevator while it was moving and fell from the first floor.

DEATH NEAR PLYMOUTH.

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., May 19—Mrs. Marie Eisener, wife of Fred Eisener, passed away Friday night at her home seven miles southwest of Plymouth, aged sixty-four years. Besides her husband she leaves several children. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Lutheran church near the home, conducted by Rev. Haeckler, an dinterment in church cemetery.

HOME GROWN FISH FOR THEIR BANQUET

Walton League Members at Wausa Bring About Change In Local Situation.

(Special to The Star)

WAUSA, Neb., May 19—On account of the activities of the Wausa chapter of the Izaak Walton league in obtaining law enforcement and aiding in stocking the nearby waters with fish, officers and members of the chapter have received congratulations and assurance of aid from Frank J. Brady, state president of the Waltons.

The local organization of Waltons recently sponsored a fish supper, all of the fish served having been caught within 35 miles of Wausa. A few years ago at a previous banquet all of the fish were imported and at that time sportsmen determined to have homegrown fish for their banquets, as they would be more satisfactory. The movement has met with general favor here and the members of the league were so gratified with the result of the recent banquet that plans now are under way to construct a lake within a few miles of Wausa, which will be stocked with fish. An old lake bed is available and as soon as the cost of water supply is determined, work will begin on the project.

BURKETT SPEAKER.

(Special to The Star.)

TECUMSEH, Neb., May 19—Elmer J. Burkett of Lincoln delivered the address to the graduating class of the Vesta high school, at the Methodist church in that town, last evening. There was a large audience present and a splendid address was given.

LONG AUTO TRIP.

(Special to The Star.)

TECUMSEH, Neb., May 19. — Sheriff and Mrs. F. B. Liphardt have arrived home from a five thousand mile automobile trip to California. They went the southern route and returned over the northern route, visiting the entire length of California, and were gone six weeks.

MANY VACANCIES IN BOTH PARTIES

Senatorial Nominees In Four Districts Lack Any Opposition.

Candidates In Sixteen Legislatives Areas on Only One Ticket.

A list of republican and democratic candidates for the Nebraska legislature, made up in Secretary of State Marsh's office from the official returns of the April primaries sent in by county clerks, shows a number of vacancies on one party ticket or the other in a number of districts.

In at least one instance it is thought the county clerk failed to include the vote on candidates for state representative in his report. The 23rd house district, which is Thurston county, is blank on both sides of the sheet compiled by the secretary of state; but it is not believed the place would remain unfilled on either ticket for want of candidates' filings.

Two senatorial districts—the 2nd and 9th—have no republican nominees listed, while in two others—the 21st and 31st—there are no democrats running. This gives Senators Banning and Neumann, democrats, and Kryger and Johnson, republicans, a clear field, if the county clerks have correctly reported the primary results.

Republican candidates for the house are apparently lacking in the 28th, 60th, 65th and 66th districts. On the other hand, no democratic nominees are reported in an even dozen districts, Nos. 7, 22, 25, 26, 50, 62, 78, 87, 92, 95, 96, and 100.

Among the old members who have no opposition for re-election at this time are:

Republicans—Former Speaker Allen G. Burke, Bancroft; Troy L. Davis, Weeping Water; Bern R. Coulter, Bridgeport; rthur Bowring, Merriman; Dan L. Ough, Benkelman; Elwell Johnston, Orchard; J. F. Kendall, Ponca; George H. Moyer, Madison.

Democrats — John Havekost, Hooper; George W. O'Malley, Greeley; Max Adams, Dannebrog.

Senator Smoot Is Defendant In Suit $300,000 Damages

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 19—(I. N. S.)—A suit asking $300,000 damages from United States Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, Herbert J. Grant, former head of the Mormon church, and a number of companies was filed in Federal court here today by W. A. Kinney, Los Angeles business man.

The suit, which is based on the ownership of stock in the Nova Scotia Livestock & Development Co., an eastern concern, charges the defendants with conspiring to destroy the property and credit of the plaintiff.

In addition to Smoot and Grant, other defendants in the suit are the Postal Telegraph & Cable Co., the Planters association, a Hawaii concern, the Nova Scotia Livestock & Development Co., the Canada Permanent Mortgage corporation and eighteen others.

THREE KILLED IN CRANE ACCIDENT

SUPERIOR, Wis., May 19—(I. N. S.)—Three men were killed and four injured when a huge traveling crane, used for unloading coal at the Philadelphia & Reading boat dock here, collided with another crane on the same tracks late today. The dead: John Jensen, Erick Johnson and Andrew Swanson, all of Superior.

"COLLEGE CORRAL" WILL BE FEATURE OF 1928 ROUNDUP

An innovation in university roundup plans will be the "College Corral" Saturday, May 26, when arrangements will be made for the professors and their old students to renew friendships.

For each of the colleges on the campus there will be a headquarters spot shaded by a canopy tent in which members of the faculty will be found. All the canopies will be on the agricultural college campus.

W. Ross King, '02, Omaha attorney, will be the speaker at the alumni luncheon following the annual business meeting of the association. After the address by Mr. King, old-time baseball letter men will contest with undergraduates for nine innings. Undergraduate players will be selected from stars of the interfraternity leagues.

Thursday will be devoted to Ivy Day ceremonies, which will be held on the city campus. They will include an interfraternity sing, May Day ceremonies and crowning of the queen, intersorority sing, planting of the ivy, Ivy day oration by Everett Hunt, masqueing of Mortar Boards and the tapping of the Innocents.

The program for Friday will take in the annual "Fun Frolic," the ball for students, faculty and alumni for the year, and the age-old law barbecue at noon.

Both Friday and Saturday evenings several of the fraternities and sororities will be hosts to their graduate fraternity brothers and sorority sisters at dinners.

Nebraska Home Smallest Pair Of Grown Twins

(Special to The Star.)

PONCA, Neb., May 19—Probably the smallest, oldest, adult twins in the United States live near Ponca. They are Harley and Harvey Jacobs of Ponca and Martinsburg.

The Jacobs twins as they are familiarly called, look as much alike as two peas in a pod and except for their dress very few persons could distinguish between them and even then many are confused. They are 49 years old, and 4 feet 8 inches tall and one weighs 108 and the other 110 pounds. They are next to the oldest in a family of 13 children, eight boys and five girls, all of whom are living.

Harley is the owner and operator of a general store in Martinsburg which he has conducted for 15 years. Harvey is a farmer and an active one and performs all tasks to be met with. He can grab a harness weighing nearly half as much as he does and toss it on a horse almost twice his height with ease and dexterity. He can handle a six-horse team weighing probably four tons or 75 times as much as himself as skillfully as any 200-pound man.

Both men are bachelors.

BEATRICE COUPLES MARRY IN KANSAS

(Special to The Star)

BEATRICE, Neb., May 19—A double wedding was solemnized at the Presbyterian church at Marysville, Kas., this week, the contracting parties being Merle Wardlaw and Mamie Weber, and Bennie Dockhorn and Miss Esther Heffelfinger, all of this city, Rev. Olson officiating. Mrs. Wardlaw is a daughter of Mrs. Katie Weber and graduated from Beatrice high school, class of '27. Mrs. Dockhorn is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Heffelfinger and also graduated from Beatrice high in '17. Mr. Wardlaw is employed as a fireman on the Union Pacific, and Mr. Dockhorn works in the Heffelfinger meat market here. The young couples will make their home in Beatrice.

A complete line of ladies ready-to-wear goods, especially coats and dresses, is being carried in the shop according to Miss Packer.

ODD FELLOWS PLAN BIG MEET

Fifteen Towns In Northeastern Nebraska to Be Represented.

(Special to The Star)

NEWCASTLE, Neb., May 19 — Members of Odd Fellows lodges of twelve or fifteen towns in Cedar, Wayne, Dakota and Dixon counties will be guests of the Newcastle Odd Fellows at the twenty-sixth annual meeting of Northeast Nebraska Odd Fellows' association, which will be held here My 22. Following registration and business a school of instruction and grand lodge session with conferring of past grand and grand lodge degrees will be held in the afternoon. In the evening a public program will be given in the Community Congregational church and the principal address will be given by Grand Master J. T. Fletcher.

The first degree will be exemplified by the Hartington degree team, the second by the Emerson team and the third by the Wayne team. The Rebekah lodge of Newcastle will serve a midnight banquet. District association officers are M. M. Nelson, president; Lester McCullough, vice president, and J. C. Aumer, secretary-treasurer. Grand lodge officers are J. T. Fletcher, Orchard, grand master; H. P. Rankin, Lincoln, deputy grand master; E. S. Davis, North Platte, grand secretary, and Will M. Dunn, Sutherland, grand warden.

BOTH ARMS BROKEN.

(Special to The Star.)

TECUMSEH, Neb., May 19—Mrs. Sophia Hansen of Tecumseh has received word that her son, Henry Hansen, engaged by a construction company at Oakland, Cal., fell twenty-five feet from a bridge to the grounds, alighted upon his hands, and both arms were broken. Mr. Hansen is in a hospital at Oakland.

NEBRASKA BIRTH RATE DECLINING

Both Ratio and Total Number Less in 1927 Than Year Before.

There were 421 fewer births in Nebraska during 1927 than in the previous year, and the birth ratio fell off from 20.7 per 1,000 population in 1926 to an even 20 per 1,000 last year. This is the comparative showing made in a compilation just completed by State Vital Statistics Registrar Hattie Summers.

In 1927 the number of births recorded was 27,866, as against 28,287 for 1926. Both sexes were affected by the decline. Where 14,592 boy babies were born in 1926, only 14,360 were ushered into the world in 1927. Girl babies decreased in number from 13,695 to 13,506.

The white population of the state suffered a falling off of 447 in new arrivals, from 27,736 in 1926 to 27,289 last year. On the other hand, negro births increased in number from 220 to 238. Among Indian tribesmen there was also a small gain, from 99 to 120. Japanese and Chinese decreased from 30 to 26, and Mexicans from 202 to 193.

Herewith are further statistics of births for the two years appearing in the summary prepared by Registrar Summers:

	1926	1927
Attendant.
Physician	27,795	27,399
Midwife	374	321
Others	118	146
Nativity of Parents.
Native born fathers	24,978	24,770
Native born mothers	26,125	25,858
Foreign born fathers	3,048	2,789
Foreign born mothers	2,144	1,981
Not reported	281	321
Born in institutions	4,730	5,192
Twins (pairs)	317	334
Triplets (sets)	3	7
Illegitimate births	498	489

SLOAN TO SPEAK TO YOUNG MEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The Young Mens' Republican club will meet at the Grand hotel for a 6:30 dinner Friday, May 25.

Charles H. Sloan, Geneva, is the speaker of the occasion.

R. Max Anderson, chairman of the speakers committee announced that A. J. Weaver has consented to address the club on June 29. Several speakers of national reputation will speak before the club later in the summer.

The Young Mens' Republican club of Lincoln is forty years old this year and plans are now under way for a fortieth anniversary dinner to be held on Lincoln birthday next winter. It is the desire of Frank B. O'Connell, president of the club to make this dinner one of the outstanding events of the year in Lincoln.

STATE ECLECTIC SOCIETY TO HOLD MEETINGS HERE

DR. NETHERTON FOUND GUILTY SLAYING WIFE

OLATHE, Kas., May 19—(U. P.)—Dr. S. Oliver Netherton was found guilty on a first degree murder charge by a jury here late today in his trial for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Edith Netherton, February 24.

The jury was out one hour and twenty minutes.

Netherton was charged with slaying his wife in the basement of their home in the outskirts of Olathe. By his wife's death, the state charged, the physician gained possession of a $65,000 inheritance.

The state also charged that Mrs. Netherton was about to become a mother and that Dr. Netherton did not desire another child.

Cheese Factory Is Opened at Bruning

(Special to The Star.)

BRUNING, Neb., May 19 — The business outlook of this community took on additional brightness this week with the opening of the new Bruning Cheese factory, and the prospect of two other new businesses being opened within a short time.

The manufacturing of cheese got under way last Thursday and the remainder of the week has been marked by the large number of the trucks and other vehicles bringing milk and cream into town.

Leases have been taken out on two business buildings and its is understood that one will be occupied by a chain store, while the other will be occupied by a new restaurant.

BAD FARM BLAZE IN GAGF COUNTY

(Special to The Star)

BEATRICE, Neb., May 19—Fire Friday evening destroyed the large implement shed on the Cornelius Epp farm about five miles northwest of here with a complete loss of all his farm machinery except a lister, which was in the field. His touring car was also consumed. Neighbors responded to a call and by hard work succeeded in saving the adjoining buildings. It is not known how the fire occurred. The loss will amount to about $2,500, partially covered by insurance.

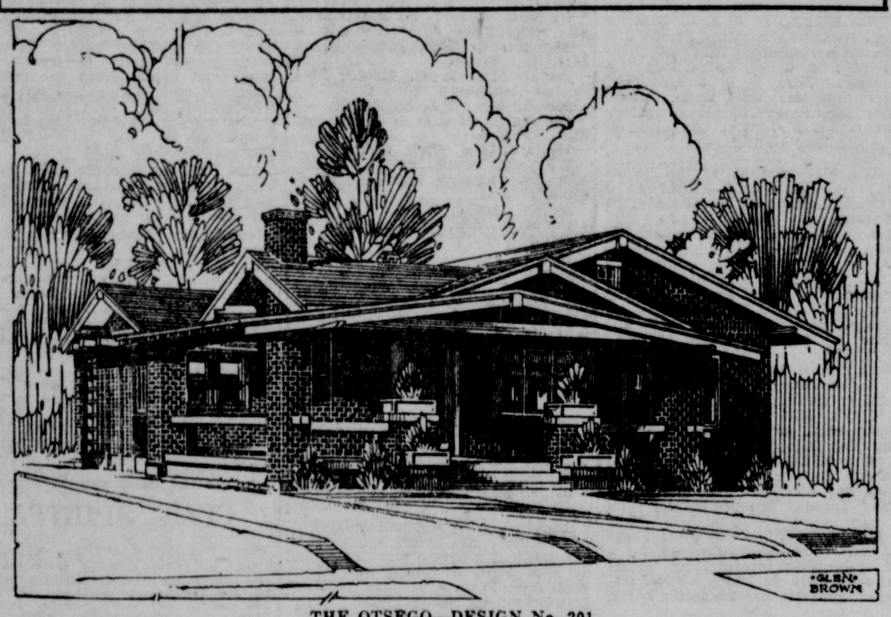
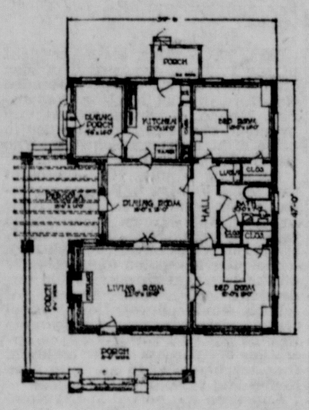
THE HOME BUILDERS DIRECTORY

A Bungalow After the California Type



THE OTSEGO—DESIGN No. 201

ADAPTATIONS of the California bungalow are usually very attractive with their wide roof overhang, their broad porches and their flat stretches of roof with gables that remind one of a half closed eye. Built close to the ground, they often appear as just to have sprouted and grown up from their sites, to which they still insistently cling. This one is typical.



Designed for a small family and arranged with every consideration for comfort and convenience, it is a delightful little home. The living room is large, supplied with an open grate, which insures many an evening of comfort in late spring and early autumn and throughout the long winter months. Most folk are quick to develop a fondness for an open grate wood fire.

Immediately back of the living room is a well lighted and cheerful living room opening upon a pergola, which will replace it in the warm summer evenings, and yet back of this an enclosed dining porch for winter breakfasts. The kitchen is large, well appointed and is supplied with a rear service porch.

The two bedrooms are large, each lighted well, with the bath conveniently placed between.

The construction is of masonry and ordinary common brick in random colors being used, with asbestos shingles for the roof, insuring the maximum of fire resistance at a minimum outlay, for it is not an expensive house to build. The extensive living porch, stretching from across the front to more than halfway back on one side is an attraction to every lover of the open air and is made doubly attractive by the ingenious construction of the brick supporting pillars. It is a type of bungalow that is at its best in a wooded setting, but can be made beautiful with shrubbery alone, preferably of the low growing varieties.

The Common Brick Manufacturers' Association, Cleveland, Ohio, can furnish complete drawings for this design. Leaflet on brick construction sent upon request.

New Equipment In Two Lincoln Bathing Pools

The opening of Lincoln's swimming pools at Capitol Beach and Antelope park this week brings to the attention of the public the great advances made by science in the design and operation of swimming pools. Lincoln is fortunate indeed to have two pools open to the public which are equipped with the most modern type of water purification and filtration devices, insuring complete safety to the bather.

Lincoln's first swimming pool was built at Capitol Beach many years ago. It was a great improvement over the old swimming holes in nearby creeks and ponds, with all of their attendant dangers. Still it relied upon merely changing the water in the pool at frequent intervals for sanitation. No other method was known at that time. When first filled, the fresh water was too cold for comfort, and by the time the sun had warmed it, it began to get dirty and moss began to develop.

Some years later the city of Lincoln built a municipal swimming pool, which, however, showed no improvement over the original pool at Capitol Beach, relying for cleanliness upon changing the water in the pool from time to time. As the fresh water used in the municipal pool contaminated more rapidly than the natural salt water in the Beach pool, it was far from satisfactory to the patrons.

Winter before last the owners of Capitol Beach made a survey of many swimming pools throughout the country and gathered data on the latest developments in pool construction and operation. They then employed one of the foremost swimming pool designers of the United States to prepare the design for a new pool at the beach. This was constructed in the spring of 1927. The pool proper was heavily built of reinforced concrete, the bathhouses of brick and a complete water purification plant and recirculating system was installed at a cost of many thousands of dollars.

This system changes the water in the pool every eight hours, filtered, chemically treated water flowing into the pool at the rate of a thousand gallons per minute, over the fountain in the kiddies pool, and through numerous inlets along the base of the pool walls. The floor of the pool is roughly half a saucer, so the water rushing in along the higher edge sweeps all impurities to the deep area, in the botton of which is located the outlet from the pool.

In operation this system proved to be most successful. When the surface of the pool is still, a dime lying on the bottom of the deepest part can easily be seen through twelve feet of water, so clear and pure is it. The new pool at Capitol Beach is equipped with powerful flood lights erected upon high poles which illuminate the entire surface of the water ,almost as bright as day.

During the past winter the city authorities, having observed the remarkable success of the water purification plant at Capitol Beach pool installed a similar system for the municipal pool, even putting in fountains and flood lights exactly similar to those at Capitol Beach.

MONA WILSON FILES APPEAL

Would Have 30-Year Sentence For Murder Set Aside.

A brief supporting the appeal of Mona M. Wilson from the thirty year sentence given her in the District court of Sheridan county following her plea of guilty to a charge of murdering her mother, Mrs. Olive E. Loomis, has been filed with the Supreme court.

Mrs. Wilson was accused of giving her mother an overdose of poison. A similar attempt was said to have been made upon her father but he recovered.

The appeal is based primarily on the contention that the trial court erred in pronouncing a sentence under a charge for first degree murder withouting having first empanelled a jury for the taking of testimony

Another contention relied upon is that the woman is subject to epilectic fits and during these is irresponsible for her actions. Permission is desired to present evidence as to this alleged mental condition in a new trial.

It is also asserted in the brief that a plea of guilty in order to be binding on the defendant must not be induced by ignorance or persuasion and must not be due to inadvertance. In support of this it is pointed out that for three days following her arrest she was not permitted to see friends or relatives and that during this time she was continually grilled by the officers and finally agreed to signing a confession.

Finally, the brief asserts, she was rushed to the county seat where her plea was entered before the court and the sentence pronounced. This hurried procedure was caused by receipt of information by the county attorney that two attorneys were coming from easern Nebraska to aid her in her defense.

A motion for a new trial was filed in the District court following the sentencing but it was denied by the court. It was from this ruling that an appeal has been taken to the Supreme court.

FISH AND GAME REVENUE $172,000

Uncollected Accounts For 1927 Permits Total $2,201.

Bureau Expenditures In Past Ten Months Were $107,663.

Approximately $172,000 revenue was taken in by the state fish and game bureau for hunting, fishing, trapping, breeding and other permits issued in 1927 and from miscellaneous other sources, State Accountant C. A. Sommer has reported to the state auditor after checking over the books and accounts of Chief Warden F. B. O'Connell.

There are uncollected accounts of $2,201 still on the books, Sommer finds, for permits issued in 1927. The amount of cash taken in and deposited with the state treasurer was $171,848. Part of this was not received until the early part of 1928.

Failure to collect all the amounts due the bureau is because of the practice of issuing blank permit books to individuals over the state who act as agents of the state, and not requiring them to pay until the books are used up or unused portions remaining on hand sent back. Every now and then somebody forgets to settle up, and the bureau has trouble getting the money.

Where Revenue Came From.

Here is a summary showing the sources from which the fish and game organization derived its income for 1927:

Resident hunting and fishing permits	$146,541.00
Non-resident hunting and fishing permits	4,558.00
Non-resident fishing	4,380.00
Resident trapping	14,644.00
Non-resident trapping	125.00
Mo. River licenses	835.00
Game Bird breeders	334.00
Fish dealers	320.00
Hide buyers	791.00
lien fishing permits	105.00
Fur animal breeders, permits	254.00
Miscellaneous receipts	1,114.17
Total 1927 permits to be settled for	$174,009.47
Less 1926 overpayments applied on 1927	26.00
Total	$173,983.47

From the foregoing amount there must be deducted $2,201 which has not yet been collected, leaving the net amount $171,848.

The item of miscellaneous receipts in the above tabulation includes the following:

Permits for sale of wild animals	$ 5.00
Permits for private fish hatcheries	75.00
Sale of confiscated furs	822.20
Sale of confiscated equipment	9.10
Sale of material	1.25
Sale of list of fur buyers	39.36
Sale of list of trappers	149.50
Hatchery invoices	6.00
Refunds of overcharges	6.76

DEPUTY ARRESTS JOHN SCHROYER

John Schroyer was lodged in the county jail late Saturday evening after an encounter with Deputy Sheriff Charles Hughart.

After stopping for the signal light at Thirteenth and N streets Schroyer proceeded down the street at such at a rate of speed that Hughart, who was in a car just behind him, started in pursuit but Schroyer turned in at a filling station at Fifteenth and N streets. Hughart followed and got out of his car to speak to Schroyer. The sheriff was attempting to get Schroyer to step out of his car, he says, when the latter tried to throw a bottle out of the window on the other side of the car. The officer secured possession of the bottle after a scuffle and got Schroyer out of the car. It was necessary to summon help and handcuff Schroyer to get him into the sheriff's car for the trip to the jail.

May Day Program Presented By Orthopedic Hospital Children

The children of the Orthopedic hospital presented a May day program Thursday at the hospital grounds. Gay floats and costumes and the happy faces of the youngsters made the day a gala event in realms of childhood.

The first number on the program was a parade of wheelchairs, stretchers and coaster wagons which was led by Victor Billsback dressed as Uncle Sam and carrying a model of "The Spirit of St. Louis." A bright red sports roadster made from a low stretcher and called the Van Sickle Four was the first vehicle. Lester Goff was at the wheel and the float was made by Bobbie Baxter, Victor Billsback and Merle Nodean.

The second vehicle in the parade was a mock beach chair called "Palm Beach" and made over an ivory wicker wheel chair. The chair was decorated by Lucille Schmitz, Irene Shores, Regina Jepsen and Viola Furry. Viola was sitting in the chair holding a large parasol.

"The Spirit of the Orthopedic Hospital" came next and was made of a coaster wagon decorated with a pink and blue canopy made by Mary Piwell, Amy Campbell and Pearl Sears. Freddie Marsh was a Boy Scout and was seated in the wagon.

"Spring" made of a high stretcher on wheels with Laura Holmes as May came next. It was decorated by Irene Polak, Jean Bleauveet, Opal Royle and Eleanor Miller.

A wheel chair decorated in orange blue and green by James Gamble, John Rhodes and Alvie Aldrich came next in the procession. The prize, a five pound box of candy given by the Junior league, was won by "Palm Beach."

Following the parade a play, "The Dearest Wish," was presented with the following cast:

Heralds—Bobbie Baxter, Elmer Poppe.
Knight—Clifford Clarke.
Queen—Amy Campbell.
Maids of honor—Pearl Sears, Lucille Schmitz, Gretel Hansen.
Attendants of the queen—Elizabeth Arundal, Eleanor Millie, Alice Tully.
Fairies—Irene Polak, Dorothy Froid, Lillian McCormick, Barbara Rosborough, Marjorie Roper, Bertha Mae Kenton.
Mother of child—Violet Slucher.
Elves—Willie Jones, Jackie Kelly, Martin Stransburg, Bennie Goodwin.
Fairies—Irene Polak, Dorothy Froid.
Other characters in the play were: Shirley Reed, Victor Billsback, Jean Bleauveet, June Henderson, Oscar Reise, Merle Nodean, John Eckert, Opal Royle.

The members of the Junior league gave each child two pieces of stick candy representing May poles and fruit lemonade was served by the hospital staff to the guests and the children.

The refreshment committee was composed of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Way, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Anderson, Mrs. A. J. Witmer, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Witmer and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Christensen.

Mrs. W. W. Day, state president of the P. T. A., returned Thursday from Norfolk, where she attended the third district meeting Wednesday. Mrs. N. F. Pfunder, first vice president of the district, presided in place of Miss Emma Schwerin, who was unable to be present.

Following a solo, "The Sweet of the Year," by Mrs. L. E. Poe, accompanied by Mrs. W. I. Lyons, the morning was devoted to a round table discussion, led by Mr. Sahlstrom, principal of the Norfolk high school. The discussion included talks on the fact that parents should understand the credit system of schools sand colleges, that school criticism often comes from parents who do not visit the schools, co-operation of parents and children, that teachers should go into the homes and parents to the school.

Luncheon was served at the Hotel Norfolk. In the afternoon, H. B. Simon, superintendent of the Norfolk schools, spoke on "Why Students Fail," and Rev. Merle Adams of the Congregational church on "Team Work." Following the addresses, Mrs. Day gave a report of the national convention at Cleveland and a summary of the year's work in Nebraska. The district meets again in the fall at the time of the district teachers' meeting.

Mrs. Day attended commencement at Leigh Tuesday night.

Two hundred fiffty pupils of the Belmont school were shown in the annual school program, the evening of May 11. Each grade in appropriate costume, gave the music, folk songs, games and dances of the various countries. The kindergarten children stepped out from between the covers of a huge Mother Goose book and dramatized familiar rhymes as Peter, Peter, Old King Cole, Little Miss Muffett and then disappeared into the book once more. The first grade gave the "Tulip Song" and followed with a Klumpty, Klumpty dance by two little girls in costume.

The second grade represented Japan; every pupil wore a kimona, sang and danced in Japanese fashion and dramatized many interesting customs of the Japanese people.

The third grade appeared as American Indians in the days of Hiawatha with eight small boys and girls giving the "Firefly" dance about the Indian camp. Fourth grade pupils made Germany in songs and games from the opera, "Hansel and Gretel." They also represented Italy with the Hurdy Gurdy man and his hand organ accompanied by six little Italian dancers.

The sixth grade came right from Tiperary in both costume and song; they put the climax on when they danced the Irish jig.

Russia and Spain were given by the seventh and eighth grades. While they sang "The Volga Boatman" several boys in Russian boots and fur caps pulled laboriously on the ropes attached to the boats. "Lapaloma" and "Juanita" were sung for Spain and the girls dressed in the Spanish gypsy costume, gave a Spanish dance.

"The United States, by the fifth grade, made a fitting climax to the pageant. After singing songs of our own land the class gave a flag drill and closed with "The Star Spangled Banner."

Early County Seat Fight In Box Butte County Is Terminated When Court House Moved On Flat Car

Above—Soon after the Burlington railroad entered Alliance in 1888 that town outvoted Hemingford for county seat of Box Butte county and the courthouse was moved on a railroad flat car, cuts being widened to permit passage. The old courthouse long ago gave way to a modern four story structure.

Inset—Alliance main street in 1890 when bicycles constituted the popular means of locomotion.

Below—First school house in Alliance. This early center of education was erected in the '80s. A wealthy ranchman near Alliance has preserved one of the early "soddies" on his place and it will be seen by many visitors next month.

ALLIANCE, Neb., May 19—When former residents of Alliance gather here on June 20 for the celebration of the 40th anniversary of the coming of the railroad, they will swap yarns with the settlers who have remained in Alliance since the place developed from a small village.

Probably one of the outstanding early day incidents which they will discuss will be the moving of the courthouse to Alliance from Hemingford, a distance of 32 miles. The large frame building was moved here on a railroad flat car.

It was not long after the railroad entered northwest Nebraska in January, 1888, that a bitter rivalry developed between the little town of Hemingford, the former county seat of Box Butte county, and Alliance, for the honor and distinction of being the county seat. The question was put to a vote, and as one old settler says, there were more votes cast than there were men, women, children and prairie dogs in the whole county.

Move Courthouse On Train.

Alliance, which had become the railroad center of the county, won in the election. To get the county business started as soon as possible at Alliance the old wooden courthouse was loaded on a Burlington flat car and hauled to Alliance behind a wheezing oldtime freight locomotive. The train moved along slowly and all went well until it approached a deep railroad cut. The large building projected out on each side of the flat car to such an extent that the train could not pass through the narrow cut. A large force of men, armed with spades and shovels, worked for a day on the cut, getting the sides wide enough for the train and its remarkable piece of freight to pass through.

Prior to starting to move the courthouse to Alliance, a bitter fight on the part of early residents of Hemingford to prevent the transfer of the county treasurer's record to Alliance was overcome by the courage and coolness of Ira E. Tash, then county treasurer and now county judge of Box Butte county. The veteran judge spent the entire night in the county treasurer's office at Hemingford, armed with a shotgun and a supply of ammunition, guarding the county's records so that he could leave on the next day with them for Alliance, the new seat of government.

Guards Records From Mob.

Reports had reached Treasurer Tash that a mob was being organized in Hemingford to seize the records and keep them there. Without these records th official seat of the county's business could be retained at Hemingford, regardless of the fact that the county seat had been voted to Alliance. All was quiet and serene, while the judge was maintaining his vigil in the silent, dark old wooden courthouse, until about one o'clock in the morning. A window opened and two men entered. Sounds from the outside indicated that there was a large number of people there. The judge sternly commanded the pair to retreat in preference to getting their brains blown out. The two lost no time in getting out. After some conversation outside the group slowly dispersed.

Getting the old courthouse building to Alliance illustrates the habit of the average western Nebraska pioneer—to get through regardless of any adverse circumstances. Finding a way to accomplish a difficult task and doing it well is the open secret of western Nebraska's greatness. Her pioneers found it hard to make a living in western Nebraska in the early days, but they stuck to their discouraging job and built up a very prosperous agricultural commonwealth and cattle kingdom with Alliance as its center.

Alliance Citizens Carry On.

Merchants and manufacturers of Alliance possess that same spirit today. With sure footed confidence they are climbing to new heights in industry and agriculture, and are carrying on the great work of the west Nebraska pioneers who conquered the country to bring to a realization their dreams of converting the barren prairie into a wealth of fertile land.

The vast change that has taken place in Alliance and northwest Nebraska will be noted and emphasized in a big epoch parade to be held as one of the features of the fortieth anniversary celebration next month. This will include a Deadwood stage coach, one of the first railroad locomotives used in Alliance, along with one of the present day giants of the rails, two miniature trains running on their own engine power, wild west riders and performers to be in Alliance for the American Legion rodeo, and attractive floats depicting the story of the transition of Box Butte county to a garden spot beyond the sandhills.

The Landau Sedan Body by Fisher

With special sport equipment, no smarter car than this

Smart as a racing craft. Long and low . . . with rakish, youthful lines. But with special sport equipment . . . it's even smarter. The peer of any car in its class.

Six wire wheels . . . their colors contrasting with body shades. Spares carried forward in special fender wells. A trunk rack behind . . . suggesting week-end journeys. All that you see and admire on America's finest custom-built cars.

There's real style, if you ever saw it. Swank . . . snap . . . personality. Reflecting the speed and drive of its engine . . . its change of pace and its wonderful handling ease.

Add to all this the charm of bodies by Fisher. The deep-cushioned comfort and luxury that Fisher bodies provide. Then you'll find the All-American Six leagues ahead of any rival. And you'll marvel again at its truly remarkable price.

2-Door Sedan, $1045; Landau Coupe, $1045; Sport Roadster, $1075; Phaeton, $1075; 4-Door Sedan, $1145; Cabriolet, $1135; Landau Sedan, $1265 (wire wheels, spare tires, and trunk rack extra). SHOWS BALANCE OF CRANKSHAFT

Hupmobile Chief Engineer Explains Importance of Engine Smoothness.

Balancing acts are popular on the stage. The skill of the balancer always attracts the fancy of the theater goer. But have you ever seen a strong man on the stage trying to hold a crankshaft of an automobile so that it would be in perfect balance? Probably not. Crankshafts aren't the kind of "prop" used in vaudeville. Balancing a crankshaft is an art practiced and perfected only within the confines of an industrial plant and the audience, if there is one, doesn't break out into spontaneous applause over it and demand an encore.

"Perfectly balanced crankshaft" is a phrase motorists have read and heard for years. Yet, in spite of its familiar appearance and sound many visitors to automobile salesrooms ask the salesmen what it means.

Hupp engineers, who have devoted especially close attention to this subject, explain that the operating smoothness of their Century Sixes and Eights results in large degree from the correctness of the design, balance and manufacture of the crankshaft. Being connected with the piston by the connecting rod, they point out, the crankshaft receives the initial thrust or impulse resulting from the explosion in the combustion chamber and carries it along to the transmission from which the car receives its motive power.

"In order that an even flow of power may be transmitted to the driving units the crankshaft must be perfectly balanced," said Frank E. Watt, Hupmobile chief engineer. "Otherwise one thrust would be greater than another and the desired smoothness would be impossible.

"The machines we use in obtaining the dynamic balance of Hupmobile crankshafts represent an investment of $100,000.

"Every Hupmobile cranckshaft is in static and dynamic balance to a zero indication. By drilling metal out of the cheeks, the shaft is soon brought to a condition where even as it revolves at a fast rate no variance is registered, thus showing that it is in perfect balance. An extremely delicate dial indicator tuned to the rotating device registers the slightest degree of off balance. The operator then drills the shaft, puts it back in the rotator and continues the test until the reading rests at zero or absolute balance.

Drain Vacuum Tank.

At fixed intervals open the drain cock at the bottom of the vacuum tank. Usually a few drops of water and rust flow before the gasoline starts runing. The fact that it often will not flow until a wire is run through the drain cock shows there is foreign matter which may cause carburetion trouble.

MOTORS AND THEIR CARE

Wiring Chart.

One of the most useful items that should always be carried in the car is the chart of the wiring system. Without this the motorist may find himself in difficulties with the electrical system that will be almost impossible to locate.

Longer Life for Battery.

Most batteries are destroyed by starving the battery by not adding water frequently to keep the plates covered. The plates should be submerged in the electrolyte at all times. Otherwise they will become sulphated and the activity of the plates destroyed. Keep the level of the electrolyte in the cells three-eights to one-half inch over the plates, adding distilled water whenever necessary. Twice a month during the summer weather is sufficient. Never fill the cells to the top with water.

To Clean Interior of Radiator.

The inside of a radiator and cylinder block is usually gummed after the anti-freeze solution is removed in the spring. This necessitates the cleaning of the cooling system. Rinsing with plain water may not be sufficient. It may be necessary to use a solution of washing soda. This can be put in the radiator and the engine run until hot. Then the solution should be carefully drained off, without taking off the radiator cap, to prevent the solution from splashing on the hood and damaging the finish.

Running on Car Tracks is Hard on Tires.

Rough pavements and crossings tempt the motorist to drive on street car tracks. While it is admittedly true that the occasional use of car tracks where road conditions are almost impassable is justified, it is also true that the strain on certain parts of the tire due to continuous running on car tracks will not only quickly wear a depression in the tread rubber, all around the tire, but the sharp bending action and overload on the fabric directly under this depression will produce eventually an inside fabric break. Running on car tracks is an expensive habit and should be indulged in only in extreme necessity.

Faulty Spark Plugs Cause Uneven Engine Operation.

The fault of an uneven running engine is due partly to spark plugs. The porcelain may be cracked, causing a shrt circuit. If a two-piece spark plug, replace porcelain, also replace small gasket. The plug must be clean. If carbonized, scrape off metal carbon deposit with a knife. Wash porcelain with gasoline, using a stiff brush. Never scrape porcelain, as it will roughen the glazed surface and cause it to accumulate carbon. If oil is burned on the porcelain, muriatic acid will remove same. If the porcelain is porous, it will permit an electrical leak from the electrode to the shell, thus weakening the spark. If the porcelain is burned black and does not wash off with gasoline, it is porous. Replace with new porcelain. Carbon is a conductor of electricity and, if allowed to accumulate between the points, it will cause trouble in not having the proper gas adjustment or even short circuit the plug. The adjustment of the points should be the thickness of a worn dime, or, to be more accurate, use a feeler gauge and adjust the points for clearance of .025 to .030 inch. If the gap is too wide, the spark will not jump which is also due to the increased resistance of the compression. Too wide a gap makes starting the engine difficult. Too small a gap weakens the intensity of the spark.

Kerosene and glycerine mixed in equal parts will keep the glass of the windshield clear of raindrops and give clear vision ahead.

A new rubber mat for automobile running boards not only prevents a person's foot from slipping, but also drains off the accumulated mud and water.

The eye should be trained to look for loose nuts, loose wires, short circuits and parts out of adjustment. It is a duty that should be performed whenever working around the car.

Be sure that all lug nuts holding the rim in place are well oiled or greased. It is difficult to remove a tire held securely by rusty nuts, especially when they have not had any attention for a year or more.

After adjusting brakes be sure to spin the wheels to make sure that brakes do not bind. It is extremely important to have brakes release properly, otherwise they bind and loss of power results.

Faulty brakes cannot always be corrected by relining the bands. It may be necessary to true up the brake drums in a lathe or install new drums. The necessity for this is caused by rivets cutting the drum, due to the operation of the car with badly worn brake lining.

Too much oil is almost as bad as too little. If the oil level is too high, too much oil will get up on top of the pistons and a lot of troubles will follow. But too little oil is worse, as it may result in scored cylinders, seized pistons and a bent crankshaft. Watch the oil gauge and keep the system supplied to its required amount.

A fleet of 1,750 motor cars is used by the Standard Oil company of California for its inspectors, salesmen and other officials.

CHRYSLER SETS DISTANCE MARK

Roadster Travels From Los Angeles to Albuquerque in 22 Hours, 38 Minutes.

Alone, and almost noiselessly through a starry night on the desert and a blazing day following over the National Old Trails route east from Los Angeles, August J. Minke, jr., an amateur and private owner of a Chrysler roadster, avowedly "out for the ride", succeeded in setting a new time record to Albuquerque, N. M., when he arrived in that city one Sunday evening in April.

The new record, as officially checked and certified by the Western Union Telegraph company, is exactly 22 hours, 38 minutes, between Los Angeles and Albuquerque, a distance of 918 miles—an average of a fraction less than 41 miles an hour for the entire trip. Prior to setting out, he had driven his car over 25,000 miles, Minke declared. Most of these have been tracking through the mountains of California, called by him "pretty rough usage."

The car performed perfectly throughout the gruelling run, he declared, or the high average would not have been possible. The actual average speed is marked at 40.8 miles per hour for the distance, although the speedometer was registering about 50 miles per hour most of the way. High speeds of 60 and 65 miles per hour were touched frequently.

Minke set his preliminary schedule at 22 hours, as against former record of 23 hours, 29 minutes. Prior to the last established time. Louis B. Miller on his now historic Chrysler Imperial "80" round trip transcontinental run had set a mark of 26 hours, 29 minutes, between the two cities. The schedule was maintained most of the way, detours encountered cutting the time slightly.

Minke had no trouble on the road according to information he brought back to the Greer-Robbins company, Southern California Chrysler distributors. The car he drove was fully equipped and complete with many accessories. The entire trip was made with the top up, and Minke says he was comfortable all the way, even if it was a little lonesome in the middle of the desert reaches and with nothing ahead but the black night sky.

NEW DOOR HANDLES CONSTRUCTED THAT FOIL CAR THIEVES

A still higher margin of protection against car theft is now provided buyers of Oakland and Pontiac Sixes through a new tpye of outside door handle which cannot be forced by the cleverest thief.

The new door handle is so designed that the customary method of forcing with a wrench or a section of iron pipe will not give the thief entrance to the car. When such extreme pressure is applied to the handle it merely turns without releasing the door catch. A few seconds of attention at any Oakland-Pontiac service station will restore the handle uninjured to its original position.

Thus the Oakland Motor Car company, and the Fisher Body Corporation which builds the Oakland-Pontiac bodies, have raised an almost impregnable first line of defense.

Should a thief effect entrance by breaking a window or because the owner forgot to lock the car, he still would be confronted by equally secure second and third lines of defense. These are providde by the semi-coincidental lock which locks both the ignition and the transmission with a turn of the ignition key. The transmssion is locked from the dash by an ingenious sliding plunger which moves inside an armored cable extending from the ignition key down into the transmission.

The average life of an automobile is seven years.

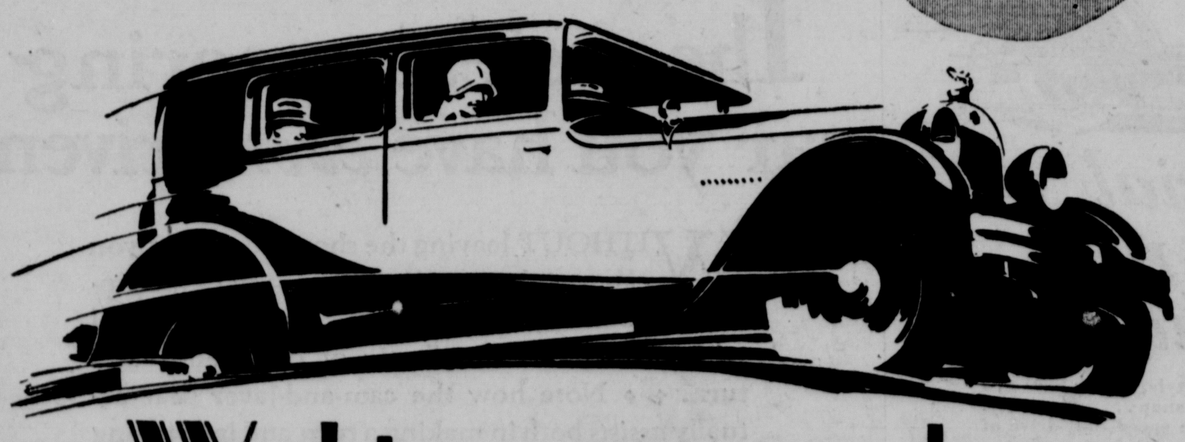
ESSEX Super 6

Outselling All "Sixes"



World's greatest value

by the verdict of the world . . . .

The most important thing ever said of Essex is said by buyers in the largest 6-cylinder sales, and the most overwhelming competitive preference of automobile history.

In many territories Essex sales exceed those of any other "Six" by more than 2 to 1. And, with slight variations, this preference is the nation's and the world's.

The only prestige back of this enormous success is the public knowledge that Essex has always stood for value—and this time such pre-eminent value that there is no second.

Just to examine and ride in an Essex Super-Six reveals such visible margins of value, in beauty, performance and comfort, that you cannot fail to share the overwhelming public conviction.

TRANSMISSION
DIFFERENTIAL

Protect these vital zones in your car with

GRAIGRENE

[PRONOUNCED GREY-GREEN]

Use this fluid lubricant instead of heavy grease

Wise Motorists Use GRAIGRENE

Because you drive more in hot Summer weather and drive harder, your car's transmission and differential need every protection you can give them. They need Graigrene the fluid gear lubricant that will not "channel out" at high speeds and high temperatures. Even at 210° Fahrenheit, Graigrene retains its "body" and continues to cushion costly gear teeth, keeping metal from metal, giving you the eager, instant response of a perfectly lubricated mechanism. Switch NOW to Graigrene, and stay switched—it's your surest gear insurance! It saves your car and saves your money.

TRANSMISSION and differential are of vital importance in your car. They carry your motor's power to rear wheels—why clog their action with heavy grease? Why use a lubricant that causes friction, retards power?

Without a film of oil, gears mesh directly—steel grinds against steel—chips fly—repair bills pile up. That's what happens if you have heavy grease in transmission and differential.

Graigrene Reduces Repairs

You must have Graigrene, the true fluid lubricant, in these vital areas if you want gears protected by a bath of lubricant all the time—if you want to escape big repair bills—if you want friction eliminated.

Heavy grease in transmission and differential freezes up—"channels," packs at the sides instead of flowing between the teeth—of gears. The important bath of lubrication is lost. That's why automotive engineers (have you read your instruction book?) advise the use of a fluid lubricant, such as Graigrene. Engineers know from bitter experience that heavy grease in transmission and differential means heavy repair bills.

Graigrene Protects—All the Time

Graigrene, the fluid lubricant, runs free. It reaches every surface. It flows to every vital part of transmission and differential, regardless of climatic conditions or temperatures, all the time. Steel is never permitted to grind against steel—that film of perfect lubrication is always there.

Heavy grease, full of asphaltum tar, retards power. Graigrene contains no tar—it aids power. Scientific tests prove that Graigrene permits a motor to deliver 7% more power than the same motor can with grease. Graigrene, when used instead of heavy grease, cuts the friction load 26%—insures 5.55% more fuel mileage per gallon. These are facts—not to be denied.

Buy Graigrene TODAY

Drive to the nearest dealer selling genuine Graigrene today—you won't have far to go. Have the heavy grease completely flushed from transmission and differential. Fill with Graigrene and you have constant insurance against repair bills due to faulty lubrication.

4 Money Saving Reasons for Using Graigrene

Graigrene—

1. gives constant bath of oil to every vital gear tooth.
2. permits motor to deliver 7% more power.
3. reduces friction load 26%.
4. increases fuel mileage 5.55% per gallon.

Reigh Count Shows His Heels to Field In Derby

Turf Crown Goes to Chicago Horse

Hertz Entry Defies Muddy Footing; Sweeps to Victory by Margin 3 Lengths Over Misstep.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Louisville, Ky., May 19—(I. N. S.)—Reigh Count, carrying the required 126 pounds of rider and trappings and a ton of public money on his heaving withers, raced the largest and perhaps the most mediocre derby field in history into the slime and ooze to win Kentucky's great classic this afternoon.

Through the dank, fluid murk of the late afternoon, the Count simply flitted like an insidious rumor as he raced by Blackwood and Misstep at the head of the stretch, killed them off by degrees with deliberation that seemed almost cruel and, then, having succeeded, he came bounding on to win by three lengths.

Misstep Reels In Second.

Misstep, never for a moment relinquishing his clutch on the dying hope that inspires the good pursuer, reeled home second, with Toro coming out of nowhere at all to finish third.

The $61,000 Strolling Player strolled home twenty-second and last in the record field; Distraction never was prominent; Bobashela was in the pack all the way, and Typhoon simply started like a horse that was doing somebody a favor and finished like a horse such as that should finish and did.

Thus, another $50,000 derby went down to posterity and so another of those panels that adorn the facade of Churchill Downs—"Aristides—1875," "Sir Barton —1919," "Zev—1923"—was being painted in the mind of the track superintendent for the new monarch who this day claimed what inevitably was to be his own rightful succession to the dynasty of three-year-old horse flesh.

Slow Time In the Mud.

The time, 2:10 2-5, established another record, only this one operated in reverse. It was said to be the slowest time in derby history, but, if this be true, it also may be recorded that the rain and mud furnished impossible racing conditions—if not this, then highly improbable ones.

And, anyhow, the Count was there to win the derby, not prostrate his field, and was content to achieve his object.

Blackwood and Misstep, those early trail blazers, might have run faster perhaps and so furnished their contribution toward making the winner's time more typical of derby performances.

Jockey Did His Stuff.

The Count, however, is one of those gamesters who like to do their winning in the stretch—the hallmark, in fact, of the true champion. Therefore, Chick Lang, his accomplished rider, rated the steed exactly as Ben Michell, his gifted trainer, and Mrs. J. D. Hertz, his happy owner, had planned the mile and a quarter campaign.

The Count merely contented himself with a fair break from the barrier, well behind Blackwood and Misstep. Without urging, he had moved into eighth position passing the grandstand and was sixth at the quarter. It was at this juncture that Lang decided to show some authority, and, urged inward, the Count stepped blithely into second place behind Misstep at the three-quarter pole.

Count Proves Superiority.

From that point, the race resolved itself into a test of which had the foot and which didn't and, in a matter of that kind, Misstep's ultimate failure was ordained. But neither the horse, which raced so gamely, nor the man who rode him, Garner, would accept the Count's superiority until proved beyond the last, lingering doubt.

Jowl to jowl, Misstep and the Count raced it out around the turn, but the point that Misstep overlooked was that he was running his head off, while the Count was only beginning to race. Turning for home, the latter was clearly in front and, while Misstep never ceased to try, he simply didn't belong with the winner.

Lang Took No Chances.

Two hundred yards out, Lang looked to be riding a certain winner, but he took not a chance, nevertheless. He lifted the Count for a last rush and Misstep was left floundering. Toro, closing strongly, was coming as rapidly as he did at the finish of the Preakness, but he had started his run too late and was two lengths back of Misstep at the end.

There have been closer finishes than this one in derby history, but none incited the multitude to greater frenzy.

Niagara thundered a vocal refrain as the field, colors flying, whips flaying, heads bent and eager noses thrust forward with the thoroughbred's undying lust for victory, wallowed through the muck on

LINKS BOWED TO BEATRICE CLUB

Brownies On Short End of 3 to 1 Score At Landis Field.

Pitcher Yohe Was There With Puzzling Line of Forksiding.

LINKS VS. BEATRICE IN TWO GAMES TODAY

Lincoln and Beatrice Nebraska State leaguers will hold forth at Landis Field in a Sunday double bill. First game at 2 p. m. Krenk of Dwight and Beranek of Valparaiso are on the book to hurl for the Links, while Ellison and Shafer are on Manager Brokaw's slate to toil for Beatrice.

By "CY" SHERMAN.

The Links' State league baseball machine slipped a cog down at Landis yard Saturday afternoon and the results were disastrous. Manager Bob Browne's athletes gulping a 3-1 trouncing at the hands of Manager Hal Brokaw's aggregation fro mBeatrice.

A left-handed heaver with the amusing moniker of Yohe was the bozo who did the business to the Brownies. The Beatrice forksider was shooting a puzzling assortment of curves across the corners of the plate and the Links, though getting credit for seven blows, harvested no more than three clean drives. Davison poked one liner to center and Otto Cholcher socked twice to safe territory, but the other hits off Mr. Brokaw's chucker were punks and altogether unearned.

New Pitcher Looks Good.

Mr. Spickerman, late of Norton, Kas., hurled the Spalding pellet for the Links and no flaw could be detected in his performance. The Norton hurler held the Brokaws to six safe clouts, whiffed five and issued no free trippers to first—a most commendable start, despite the defeat.

The Links broke into the run column in the second frame, registering their lone marker of the day. Davison led off with a line single to center. Gradoville fanned, but Cholcher drew a free pass. Spickerman hoisted a high fly back of first. Manager Brokaw executed an inglorious muff and then heaved low to third on an attempted forceout of Davison. The Beatrice manager's faux pas loaded the bases and when Stroh drew another pass, Davison was forced across the plate with a Lincoln run.

Brokaw Circles Bases.

Spickerman held the Brokaws hitless until the fourth, when the manager crashed a liner to right. Baltzell played the hop poorly and the ball bounced away from his talons, rolling to the fence. Meantime, Brokaw streaked around the lines for a homer inside the park.

With two down in the fifth, Beatrice unleashed a batting attack which netted an earned marker. Hayes, Yohe, Owens and Graham connected with safe hits and Hayes skipped in with another tally. Spickerman then speared Brokaw's roller for the third out.

Final Run On Error.

The Brokaws registered their third and final run in the ninth off Irvin, who superseded Spickerman when the latter retired in favor of a pinch-hitter. Irvin freepassed Phillips to start the round. Sacrifices by Liberto and McMahon advanced Phillips to third and the Chicago Bruins Pile Up String of Thirteen In Win Column.

Charley Root Goes Route and Holds Boston Club to Five Blows.

CHICAGO, May 19 — Charley Root pitched the Cubs to their thirteenth straight win here this afternoon when the Bruins downed the Boston Braves, 3 to 2.

A homer by Hack Wilson in the fourth sent the Cubs ahead, 2 to 1. Boston gardered a run in the seventh when Burrus clouted a homer to tie the score.

In their half of the same inning, the Cubs got one more run to forge ahead. Hornsby's fumble of Gonzales' easy roller and a sacrifice by Root brought in the winning run.

Root allowed five hits and Charley Robertson gave the Cubs seven. The score:

RAIN JINX BALKS BEANTOWN'S FANS

BOSTON, May 19 —Fifteen thousand rabid baseball fans waited nearly an hour at Fenway Park this afternoon, but the game between the Red Sox and the Detroit Tigers finally was called off. The playing field was covered with a huge canvas, but, as the downpour continued, it was decided finally not to play. The Sox had trounced the Tigers two straight and the fans were looking for another killing.

GRINNELL WINS VALLEY TENNIS

Pioneer Racqueteers Bag Victory In Singles and Doubles.

Grinnell college scored a grand slam in the finals of the Missouri Valley tennis championships, held at the University of Nebraska Saturday afternoon.

Harris Coggeshall, Grinnell college recqueteer and valley champion of last season, retained his honors in the singles by winning the championship match from Henry Browne of Oklahoma in straight sets, 6-3, 8-6, 6-3. Coggeshall defeated Harold Thurman of Oklahoma in the morning semi-finals, 6-1, 8-6, and Browne received a default from Mason, his team mate, to go into the finals. Browne eliminated Struble of Grinnell in a morning quarter-final match, 8-6, 6-3.

Jayhawkers Repeat Track Triumph of Last Year, Nosing In Front of Huskers by Two Points.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

Four conference records were shattered as Kansas university edged ahead of Nebraska in the twenty-sixth annual Missouri Valley track and field championships, held at the Memorial stadium Saturday afternoon. The Jayhawkers scored 46½ points to retain the conference title, the Cornhuskers finishing in second position with 44½ points.

How They Finished.

Kansas	46½
Nebraska	44½
Oklahoma	35
Missouri	28½
Drake	28½
Iowa State	20½
Oklahoma Aggies	17½
Washington	7

Final Valley Event.

The meet, the final athletic event of the 10-school circle, brought forth the most interesting team competition in Valley history. Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma locked horns in a bitter struggle for top honors, Drake being a fourth contender until the returns from the field events reached the scoreboard.

Strength of the Kansas squad in the two-mile run and broad jump enabled the Jayhawkers to carry off the 1928 title. Coach Huff's harriers gathered in 10 points in the two-mile grind and his broad jumpers came in with 11 points to put the meet on ice.

Tough Break In Jump.

The Cornhuskers, however, were in the battle with a last ditch fight and but for a rather tough break in the broad jump would have wound up the afternoon on equal terms with the Lawrence collegians.

The turning point which swung the meet to Kansas came in the broad jump. Ralph Andrews, Cornhusker jumper, who captured first honors at the Drake games, turned in a 23 foot, 7 inch leap which would have landed him in second place had the effort not been nullified by a foul. Andrews broke dirt a scant half-inch ahead of the takeoff board.

Four Records Surpassed.

The four new conference records produced by the meet were:

Mile relay—3 minutes 20 8-10 seconds by Kosky, Dills, King and Hursley of Missouri, bettering the mark of 3 minutes 22 2-10 seconds, by Nebraska in 1922.

880-yard relay—1 minute 29 2-10 seconds by Cooper, Rooney, McInerney and Jones of Kansas, bettering mark of 1 minute 28 seconds, by Nebraska in 1926.

Broad jump—23 feet 11 3-4 inches by Spangler, Kansas, bettering record of 23 feet 5 1-4 inches, by Stalker of Oklahoma in 1927.

Two-mile run—9 minutes 38 3-10 seconds by Frazier, Kansas, bettering mark of 9 minutes 42 1-10 seconds by Rathbun, Iowa State, in 1922.

Fast Going By Hursley.

The quarter-mile and half-mile races provided the thrillers of the afternoon program.

Hursley of Missouri won the quarter-mile in 49.4-10 seconds, but was given a great battle from McKee of Grinnell and Caulum of Iowa State. Hursley apparently was lost in a pocket, but he broke out at the turn and flashed down the home stretch to win by a handy margin.

Thelan of Missouri kicked in with a surprise when he captured the half-mile run. The field of half-milers fought it out every step of the way, Thelan racing to the finish with Moody of the Kansas Aggies Youngman of Kansas and Johnson of Nebraska in hot pursuit.

Duel Up to Tape.

Johnson bid for victory as they rounded the curve into the finish, but ran out of gasoline as the tape neared and finished fourth. Thelan and Moody raced it out the last 20 yards, with the Tiger half-miler the winner. Epstein, who won the fast preliminary heat Friday, crossed the finish line fifth, but was disqualified for leaving the track.

Thelan's time for the 880-yards was 1 minute 56 1-10 seconds, just one-tenth of a second slower than the record made by Higgins and Webb of Iowa State in 1921.

Grady Twice Defeated.

"Lu" Grady, Kansas sprinter, who swept the dash events last year, lost both his crowns Saturday. Parks of Drake beat the Jayhawker sprint ace in the century and Art Easter of Nebraska nipped him in the furlong. The Easter-Grady duel was a great race, the Nebraskan coming in with a strong finish to break the yarn a few inches ahead of Grady.

"Timber" Trumble won the 120-yard high hurdles from a fast field of qualifiers. Although somewhat hobbled by a game knee, the result of a Friday collision with a low hurdle.

Trumble Well in Front.

Trumble led Penquite of Drake throughout the race and won by a handy margin. Track critics declared Saturday that the knee injury kept Trumble from getting under 15 seconds. His time was 15 4-10 seconds for the distance.

NEW SCHEME BY INDIANS' LEADER

Bill Evans Inspires His Players By Defying Old Customs.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, May 19—(I. N. S.)—"Never pamper a ball player," is the watch word of the spare the rod and spoil the child school of baseball management. Indeed, this theory is almost universally practiced and applied, many clubs hiring executives who will bear down on the budget and out-game the ball player in any discussion about matters of money.

It is all the more surprising then to learn that the Cleveland Indians have a general manager on their payroll, whose particular service is to see that the player gets what he wants and, in many cases, more than he expects. Bill Evans, with the connivance of the Bradleys, the Van Sweringens and other indifferent souls connected with the ownership of the Indians has instituted a new system in the treatment of employes. They evidently are determined to kill or cure those ball players with kindness.

Bigger Salaries.

The Indians finished far down in the second division under the old ownership last year and plenty of critical money was lost on the venture. Hardly a man on the club was deserving of the same money this year, judged solely upon his 1927 performances.

Did these kind, thoughtful owners strain a point and give them as much money? The answer is an emphatic no; they gave them more. Every man in the outfit got an advance in salary—no question asked and none answered. The owners worked on the theory that a happy ball club can't be a bad one and they went further in this direction by providing the best of travel and hotel accommodations, increasing the limit of the dining allowance and in other ways getting over the idea to the player that they were a couple of good fellows and he was another.

For the early stages of the race at least, the idea of a happy club being a good one has worked out nicely. The Indians weren't given a tiny tumble in the advance calculations on the American league race, for at that time they really had nothing but a pitching staff that used to be so good.

A Lot of Fight.

They have nothing much now, except that Uhle, Shaute and a few others are pitching as they did in 926 and the team has a lot of fight. This combination carried the Indians into the first division and has kept them there for the first five weeks of the race. Even if they do nothing more for the remainder of the campaign, it seems to me that this accomplishment automatically makes the 928 season a success for a club like the Indians.

They don't belong, everybody says, but the trouble with that is to make the Indians realize it. They are feeling so good about everything that they want to go out there every day and beat somebody I am not suggesting that the Indians will be the sensation of the season. But neither am I denying the fact that, only with men who feel as the Indians do, human are miracles achieved.

CUBS' QUARTET GREATEST EVER

Browne, Overall, Reulbach and Pfeister Best of All In History.

Every big league manager is always attempting to get four pitchers built up on his staff of perhaps eight or nine or even ten in these modern times. If he has ten hurlers on the staff, he selects four of them for regular service, thus giving each one a chance to work every fourth day and on occasions, when one of the four is injured or ill, his place has to be taken by a second string man.

No doubt every manager, in his attempts to build up four of his pitchers to carry the burden, always remembers those four, "The Big Four" of the last 30 years—Brown, Overall, Reulbach and Pfiester of the old Chicago Cubs of 1906, 1907 and 1908, when the team won three pennants and two world's championships.

This Four Never Equalled.

It may be many more years before another quartet of such renown is assembled on one team. The Cubs of 1906 won 116 games, which is a record that is likely to stand for many more years, and these four men did practically all of the pitching. It was race occasion when any one of the four got into such a deep hole that he had to be rescued. The present day bull pen, where pitchers are almost constantly warming up, wasn't needed at all. With very few exceptions, those four hurlers worked in rotation, each one starting and finish his game.

Twenty victories in a season is the coveted number for every pitcher. Consequently, if a manager has four men on his staff, each one capable of winning that number, there are 80 victories for the team and that with about 10 or a dozen turned in by all the second string mne, is usually enough to capture any pennant.

No Such Staff Today.

There are a lot of experts of the game who think that those stars of the slab of years ago wouldn't do so well in these days of the lively ball. Possible they wouldn't. But it is safe to say that if any of the present day managers could only have Brown, Overall, Reulbach and Pfiester, with 20 years knocked off the age of each man, he would feel quite safe in entering a modern pennant race.

There is no major league team of today which has four such stars on its staff. Nearly every team has one or two, but none of them has four. Take last season, when the Yankees ran off with the American league pennant. They had Pennock and Hoyt, who stood out but no others. The Pittsburgh club, National league champions, had Meadows, Hill and Kremer, but there wasn't a Mordecai Brown among them. The Chicago Cubs had Charley Root, but he was alone. The White Sox had Ted Lyons and Tommy Thomas and no one to help them. Brooklyn had Dazzy Vance and Jess Petty, but two men couldn't put the Robins in the race.

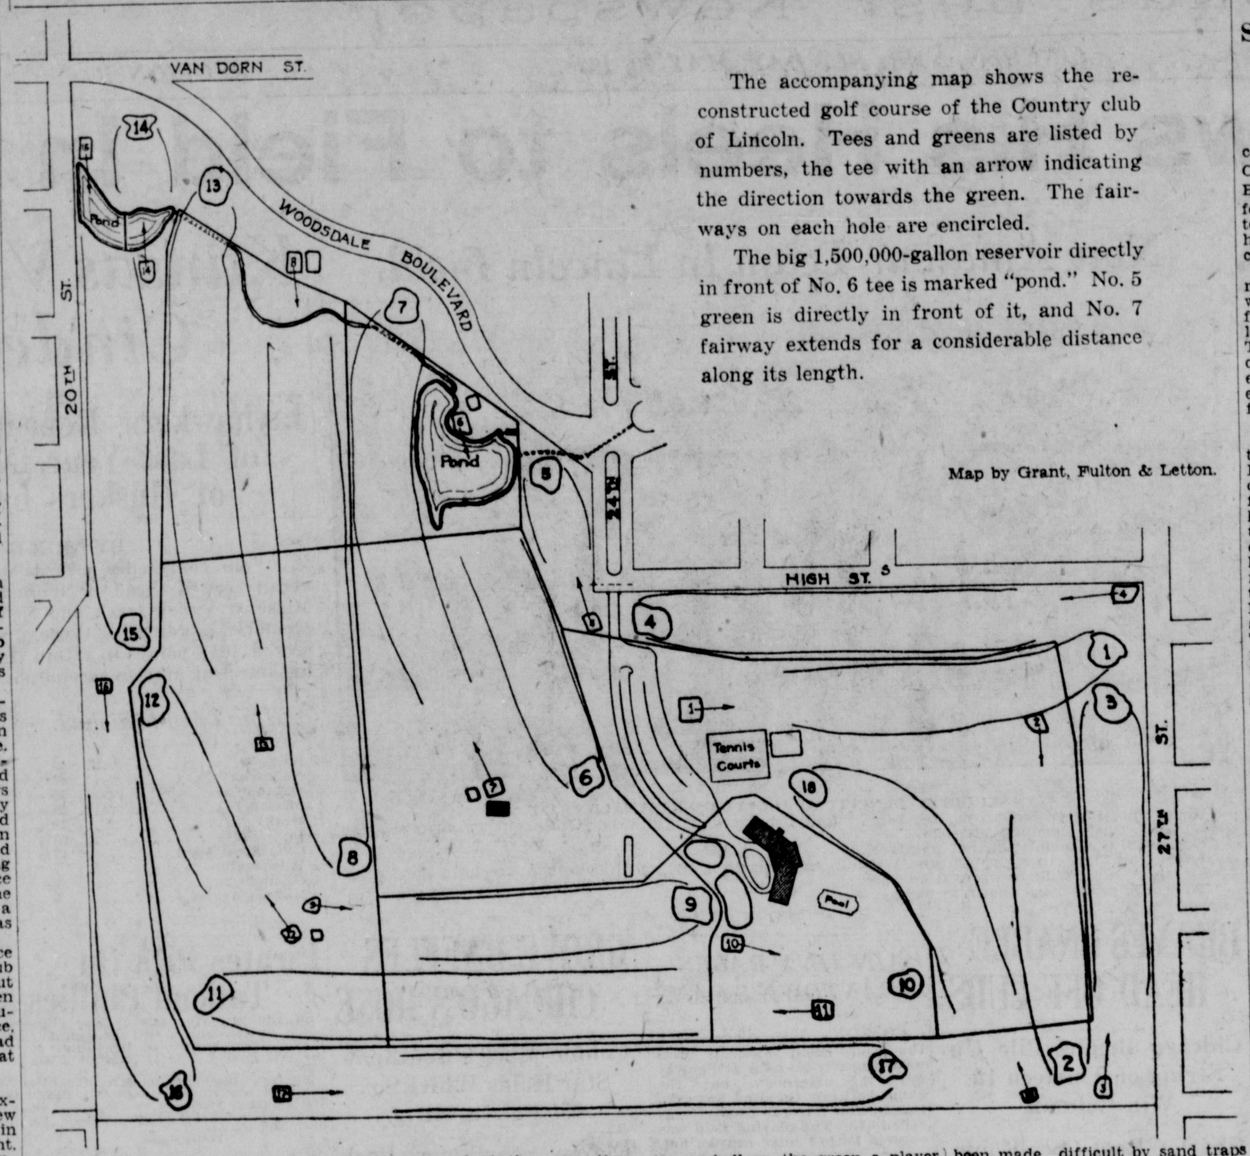
Golf Course of Lincoln Country Club Has Been Rebuilt



The accompanying map shows the reconstructed golf course of the Country club of Lincoln. Tees and greens are listed by numbers, the tee with an arrow indicating the direction towards the green. The fairways on each hole are encircled.

The big 1,500,000-gallon reservoir directly in front of No. 6 tee is marked "pond." No. 5 green is directly in front of it, and No. 7 fairway extends for a considerable distance along its length.

Map by Grant, Fulton & Letton.

Sunshine and rain during the last week have aided materially in rounding the new Lincoln Country Club golf course into shape.

Members of the club are looking forward anxiously to the day when the new course, which in the opinion of John Morris, the club professional, is one of the finest and most modern courses in the middlewest, will be ready for use.

If normal weather continues from now on that day should arrive during the latter part of June. The reconstruction work has been under way since the early spring, but the lack of moisture and warm weather has held back the growth of the new grass which has been sown.

Under the supervision of a committee consisting of J. H. Johnson, chairman, W. M. Folsom, L. B. Tobin, T. C. Munger and A. C. Lau, the course has been almost entirely reconstructed from the first tee to the eighteenth hole.

Nothing has been overlooked, either in construction or maintenance, that would aid in making the course one of the finest in the middlewest, according to John Morris, the club professional. The water system is of the most approved design and is of outstanding importance as an improvement since only three courses in the middlewest have such facilities.

A 200-foot well, capable of supplying more than half a million gallons of water a day, has been drilled and equipped, giving the club its own supply. However it is estimated that for the present needs only half that capacity will need to be used.

The water from this well will be stored in a big reservoir, which is to all appearances a beautiful pond of more than an acre in area. It is located on the golf course near the north boundary and also affords an excellent water hazard for the course.

Another advantage of this reservoir and its location is that natural drainage will carry rainfall from over an area of forty acres into it, thus relieving the well and the pumps of much of the task of keeping it filled.

From the reservoir, the water is forced by two 450-gallon pumps into approximately three and one-half miles of mains which have been laid throughout the course in such a manner as to provide a net work of connections which will enable use of sprinklers on every part of the course. This whole system has been planned by Grant, Fulton & Letton, a local engineering firm.

The system of mains includes 76 connections for the fairway sprinklers, and 38 connections for green and tee sprinklers. The fairway sprinklers are capable of throwing 100 gallons of water a minute over a circular area about 130 feet in diameter. The system will enable the club to put an inch of water on the entire 40 acres included in the course once a week if the sprinklers are kept working eight hours during six nights of the week.

Improved Fairways.

The fairways will be watered daily from within 150 feet of the tee on to the green. Regular mowing and water will keep the greens and fairways in such a condition that their speeds will not vary to any perceptible extent from day to day. Cinders have been spread over the fairways and worked in to provide the best possible aeration of the soil. The heaviest sort of rain will not hinder the playing for any length of time.

Special care has been taken in the construction of the greens. Each green contains more than 100 feet of tile beneath the surface for drainage purposes. Over this is a packed cinder and straw base which will allow quick seepage of the surface moisture but will prevent dirt from going through and clogging the tile. A four inch layer of dirt forms the surface, and this is seeded to a mixture of Coocoos Bent grass and Metropolitan Bent grass. The feature of this grass is that it forms a thick, smooth mat which is easily levelled and when cut always provides a speedy green. The greens are positive proof against packing and baking, Morris says.

Tees Rebuilt.

Every tee has been either entirely rebuilt or considerably enlarged. The fairways have been re-seeded.

Another important feature is the practice hole and practice green. Here players may improve their shots without hindering those on the course, and at the same time the ninth and eighteenth holes, where practicing is usually done, will be saved from excessive wear.

The work of building the course has been completed but the adverse weather has prevented the grass from reaching maturity. If normal weather continues from now on, it is expected that the new course will be ready for use during the latter part of June. At present the temporary greens are in use.

The course was planned and laid out by William H. Tucker & Son of New York, the oldest firm of golf architects in the country. The same firm has planned many of the most noted courses in the east.

The plan and lay of the entire course is directed entirely toward forcing a change in the game of each player toward accuracy and perfect placement. At the same time it offers big compensations to the golfer who is skilled enough to execute a perfect or nearly perfect shot. Disappointments and discouragements which often attend even the best of shots because of adverse slopes and rolls in the ground have been largely eliminated.

Eliminating Lady Luck.

As a whole the new course will encourage the golfer to improve his play, forget luck and chance, and reward him for his accomplishments. The game throughout will become one of clean pitched shots, direction and yardage depending entirely upon the player's skill, and unaided or unhindered by elements which are beyond his control.

Fairway slopes which formerly have caused a straight drive or iron shot to deviate from its driven direction have been eliminated by changing the direction of the drives. An example of this is found in the third hole. Formerly the direction of the tee forced an average drive on to a sloping fairway which would cause a ball to roll to the left and to the edge of the fairway into bad rough. The new tee faces just enough to the right to place the straight drive directly into the slope and any roll that is obtained will be in the direction of the drive rather than with the opposing slope.

The change, though it benefits the player who places his drive perfectly, does not make the hole any easier since the shot which is poorly placed will suffer the disadvantages of a poorer lay. That is as it should be when skill is the goal.

No Penalty On Shots.

This same plan has been worked out throughout the course. "Dog leg" fairways have been laid out on several holes to eliminate hindering slopes. In this manner the drives and iron shots are directed straight into the slope rather than upon it from an angle. The slight curve that results between the tee and the green is not one which will be a disadvantage to one who is capable of very long shots, but likewise it gives the player the benefit of perfect direction if he is entitled to it. These dog legs have been laid out on holes number three, seven, nine, sixteen and eighteen.

Considerable change has been made in the locations of the greens. These have been made for the purpose of placing them within the clear vision of the player and also to force clean pitched shots. A topped ball with plenty of roll which formerly might have landed on the green will now throw the ball into a severe sand trap in many instances.

A number of the old greens, the first as an example, was formerly located on a down slope. Aside from being almost out of the sight of the tee it had the disadvantage of more of a trick shot than one of skill. Familiarity with the slope and the probable speed it would add to the roll gave the advantage to one player while it was a decided disadvantage to the occasional player who did not have the "feel" of the hole. A perfectly placed mashie shot might light twenty feet short of the green and because of the slope roll twenty feet past it, while under the new conditions the perfectly placed shot would receive the benefit of the natural roll and the deserved position on the green.

The New Course.

The new Number 1 green has been moved some fifteen yards farther east, up a sharp slope, and is now located on the top of the hill. To place a ball on the green a player is required to make a clean pitch shot to it. It is impossible to receive any undue advantage from a roll on a short shot. Severe sandtraps have been constructed around the tee side of the green except for one narrow off angle opening. A shot which is off direction even slightly or short, will suffer the penalty of the sandtrap.

In this manner, although the fairway is perhaps easier, the approach is much more diffcult.

This rearrangement of the course for the purpose of gaining improved tee sites and eliminating chance slopes has resulted in changing the yardage of nearly every hole. Some have been lengthened and others have been shortened. Over the whole course, however, a reduction of about 50 yards has been made in the total yardage.

No. 2 Lengthened.

Number 2 has been increased 30 yards in order to place the tee in a position that will force the player to shoot up to it much in the same manner as number one was changed

Number 3 has been shortened 10 yards and has been made into a dog leg, thereby eliminating a disadvantageous slope and bringing the green into sight. It was formerly practically hidden from the approaching player.

Number 4 will be 400 yards long as it formerly was, but the tee has been placed so the drive will be directed down the middle of the fairway rather than toward the out-of-bounds.

Deep bunkers which used to lie in the fairway of number five about half way between the tee and the green have been eliminated, the yardage increased 10 yards, and severe sand traps have been placed around the green. Although the fairway is now clear, the difficulty of the hole is maintained by the sand traps at the green. Another hazard to penalize the player who is off direction on his pitch to the green is the lake which lies to one side of the green.

Number 6 has been made more interesting and attractive by placing the new tee right at the edge of the lake. The player standing on the tee looks directly off into the water, and a topped drive from this tee is fatal. The green on this hole has also been moved up the hill in order to provide an up hill shot.

Number 8 green has been 10 yards nearer the tee in order to provide a visible green. Having been on a down slope formerly the old green was more or less hidden from the player.

Two-Surface Green.

A two surface green has been laid out on number nine. It is equipped with two holes and the stick will be alternated between them. This provides a difficult putt from the tee side when the shot is short, and vice versa when the putt is long.

A gain of about 105 yards is made on the first nine holes of the new course as compared with the old. The yardage of the first nine will be 3,211 while formerly it was 3,106. This gain however is reduced in the second nine the total yardage of the new course being 3,139 as compared with the former total of 3,190. Par will be the same on the new course as it was on the old in spite of the change in distance.

The old "bull ring" green on Number 10 has been replaced by a severely trapped raised green which will provide an extremely difficult shot.

The old, uninteresting 555-yard eleventh hole has been greatly improved by reducing the length about 40 yards and placing the green in a position where it will be visible on the third shot. With average playing the golfer will be able to get over the brink of the rather prominent hill in the fairway on his second shot. The second shot will place him in a position where he will be forced to make a clean cut pitch shot to the green.

The green has been enlarged on Number 12, which is a par three hole, but the distance has not been changed. The distance on number 13 remains at 475 yards. It is a short five par hole, but it has been made difficult by sand traps at the green.

Number 14 offers a short pitch shot from the tee, over the lake and to a severely trapped green. If the lake is passed a topped shot will be penalized by the traps. This will probably prove one of the most interesting holes on the entire course. It is not difficult to imagine that the locker room will often hear stories of the neat mashie shots that have been executed here.

The green on number 15 has been moved out from the fence and has been placed in the middle of the fairway, thus placing a premium on accuracy and eliminating luck to a great extent. Number 16 offers another dog leg as does number eighteen where another two surface green has been built. Number seventeen has been reduced from 590 yards to 530 yards and treacherous traps have been built around the green.

The course as a whole, though perhaps not the most difficult in the country, will be one of the most interesting to play in this part of the country, and is such as to place a high premium on accuracy and direction, according to John Morris, the club professional.

MUFFED CHANCE TO GAIN RENOWN

Statz Missed Brilliant Opportunity; Wits Not There In Pinch.

Judging from all reports and accounts of a recent game played in Chicago between the Cubs and Brooklyn, there was an opportunity for Arnold Statz of the Brooklyn team to make a play that would have made him famous, but the chance was overlooked.

Fans are still talking of a play made by Johnny Evers in 1908, when Fred Merkle of the Giants failed to touch second and thereby lost the pennant for the Giants. This play in Chicago recently was quite similar but as no one apparently even thought of trying to execute it, the thing has already been forgotten.

Webb On Third; One Out.

It was in the twelfth inning with the score between Chicago and Brooklyn tied, that the opportunity came for Brooklyn to prevent defeat. Webb of Chicago, in the last half of that twelfth, led off with a two-base hit and advanced to third on Wilson's long sacrifice fly. There he was on third with the winning run and only one man out and, in this crisis, Pitcher McWeeny of Brooklyn purposely passed Stephenson and Grimm, filling the bases. The main purpose in this was to make a force play at any base and increase the chances for a force double play that would retire the side without the run counting.

Required Quick Thought.

In a moment the opportunity came for a forced double play, but it came in an unusual way and the Brooklyn players didn't see it, or at least didn't see it in time, for it was the kind of play that demanded quick thought, followed by quick action.

Gonzales, the batter, hit a short pop fly out behind second base. It was too far back for an infielder to reach, because the infielders were playing close to cut the run off at the plate. Statz was the only man with a chance to get the ball and he made the effort, tearing in from center field. But he missed the catch, though the ball came down right at his feet, a short distance back of second.

Webb Had Long Lead.

Webb, the runner on third, played half way between third and home on seeing the pop fly go up, so he could go home or get back. Stephenson, the runner at second, had to stay close to the bag and Grimm had to stay close to first. Naturally, Webb scooted home when the ball wasn't caught.

But there was a chance to eliminate that run, if Statz had thought of it and acted quickly. All he had to do was to grab the ball shoot it to third and then the third baseman shoot it to second and if that could have been done before either runner could have advanced a base, it would have been a forced double play, the side would have been out and the run wouldn't have counted.

Statz Failed See It.

Instead, Statz grabbed the ball and made a wide and frantic throw home and, by that time, the other base runners had advanced, making the double play impossible.

There were outfielders in the past, Jimmy Sheckard for instance, who wouldn't have missed that play. Jimmy, more than once, deliberately trapped the ball on such a play and then turned it into a double out. Often it seems that present day players don't think as much as the old-timers.

COCHRANE BEST BEHIND THE BAT

Athletics' Backstopper Rated as King of Big League Catchers.

The catching department of the game of baseball deteriorated more than any other in the past decade. In the National league there are one or two outstanding performers, while in the junior organization the real up and coming catchers can be counted on the first two fingers of either hand.

For ever so long, Ray Schalk was rightly considered the king of backstops. Mechanically and mentally, his worth to the club was evident in each game. Next came Muddy Ruel to be rated the premier receiver, and now comes Mickey Cochrane, sterling backstop of the Athletics, with apparent designs to take the crown.

Quick Use of Thinker.

Not only in mechanical ability has he taken front rank with the leading backstops of the country, but he has the mental capacity to be rated in the first flight. Alertness and ability to sense a situation are qualities which go to make a first class receiver.

During a recent series with the Yankees, Cochrane engineered a play which is seldom successful.

In the early part of the game, Lazzeri made a two-base hit with none out. Dugan followed with a sing'e which Hale played exceedingly well to prevent a score. Lazzeri moved to third on the hit and Grabowski faced the pitcher. The Athletics were holding to a one run lead at the time and if the game was tied a different aspect would be presented.

Double Play On Lazzeri.

Pitching carefully to Grabowski, Walberg succeeded in forcing him to hit in front of the plate. Quick as a cat, Cochrane was on the ball and threw to second forcing Dugan. A double play was certain if Boley threw to first, but he pegged back to Cochrane. Lazzeri was nailed at the plate, completing the double play and snuffed out whatever chance the Yankees had had a moment before. Boley took a desperate chance in trying for Lazzeri when he had a cinch double play in front of him by throwing to first base, but that was the play Cochrane had in mind.

Cochrane might have played the game safe, as 99 per cent of the catchers would have done, by making the play for Lazzeri at third or a sure putout at first on Grabowski.

Commy Coined Expression.

Away back in the days when the game was young, Charles A. Comiskey, present owner of the White Sox, referred to a certain player as a "quick thinker." To this day that phrase has been used to describe players of the type necessary for the execution of such plays as that just described.

The spontaneous action of Cochrane and Boley, particularly Cochrane, identifies them as "quick thinkers" or, in other words, great ball players.

GRINNELL WINS VALLEY TENNIS

and Harold Thurman of Oklahoma, in straight sets, 8-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Coggeshall was easily the star of the tournament. He went through the singles play without the loss of a set while the Grinnell doubles team also breezed through the competition without losing a set.

Nebraskans Defeated.

In a quarter-ginal match Saturday morning, Coggeshall and Struble of Grinnell defeated Heacock and Elliott of Nebraska, 6-2, 6-4. The Pioneer duo beat Browne and Runkle, Oklahoma, 6-2, 6-3. In the other bracket, Mason of Thurman of Oklahoma won over Stowe and Jones of Grinnell, 6-3, 6-2.

Point score of the Coggeshall-Browne championship match shows that the Grinnell player was easily superior. The score:

Nebraskans Show Off At Manhattan

MANHATTAN, Kas., May 19—(Special)—Four carnival records were broken here today by high school athletes who performed in the annual Missouri Valley interscholastic relay carnival. Lambert of Kearney, Neb., clipped one-tenth of a second from the century dash time, making the distance today in 9.9 seconds. The world's high school record for the century is 9.8 seconds. The old carnival record here was made six years ago.

Nelson Boy Breaks Record.

Another Nebraska boy, Petz of Nelson, broke the carnival record in the high hurdles. Petz, hard pressed by Hilde of Tulsa, took two-tenths of a second from the best previous time of 16 seconds.

Another new record was in the mile run, with Dissinger of Oskaloosa, Kansas, shortening the time 10.8 seconds. He made the mile in 4:37.6. Henne of Fairbury, Neb., was third in this fast mile. The Wichita relay team shortened the time for the 440-yard relay, the time today being 43 seconds, which is just two-tenths of a second under a world record.

Lambert Wins Both Dashes.

Coffman of Ford rural high school took first individual honors with 13 points, Lambert of Kearney, Neb., taking second honors with 10 points. Coffman won firsts in the javelin and pole vault and second in the broad jump. Lambert's 10 points were made with first place in the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes. Roby of Nelson, Neb. also won some points for the northerners.

KANSAS VICTOR IN CINDERS CLASSIC

steeplechase at the Penn relay games, was the victim of a double defeat. Faulkner of the Oklahoma Aggies ran him in the ground to take the mile run with a time performance of 4 minutes 22 6-10 seconds, just two-tenths of a second over the Valley record, held jointly by Ray Watson of Kansas Aggies and F. Farquhar of Iowa State.

Frazier Far Ahead.

"Poco" Frazier, who clipped close to four seconds off the two-mile record, handed Keith a pound trouncing in the distance grind. Frazier, running with an easy stride, was over 100 yards ahead at the finish and came home with plenty of reserve.

Spangler's broad jump of 23 feet 11¾ inches featured the field event performances, along with the work of Shelby of Oklahoma in the high jump. Spangler turned in two additional leaps that bettered the 23-foot mark, one being for 23 feet 7 inches. Shelby cleared 6 feet 2 inches in the high jump to defeat Brunk of Drake, the 1927 event champion.

Valley Summary.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Trumble, Nebraska; second, Penquite, Drake; third, Snorf, Drake; fourth, Taylor, Grinnell; fifth, Fairchild, Kansas Aggies. Time 15 4-10 seconds.

BOXERS BACK TO TRAINING GRIND

Fighters Forced Return to Camps Prepare for Monday Battle.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

NEW YORK, May 19—(I. N. S.)—Fearing they may have lost their fighting form, Sammy Mandell and Jimmy McLarnin have resumed training fo rtheir battle Monday at the Polo Grounds—weather permitting—for the lightweight championship of the world.

Three postponements of the widely heralded fracas have done neither fighter any good. Their eyes and timing—the secret of hitting—have suffered. They were both finely pointed for the tray on Thursday, when they first weighed in, the champion scaling 135, McLarnin at 134½. They were fit and raring to go. But they had hardly stepped off the scales when Tex Rickard, the promoter, called off the fight scheduled for Thursday night because the weather man predicted rain.

Weather Man Badly Off.

It developed that the weather man, and not the Polo Grounds, was all wet that night.' It was a good night for the battle. The stars were out, no rain fell and it wasn't too cool.

Next day, Friday, it rained in sheets. That killed off Friday night, and Mr. Rickard put the bout off until tonight. He took a few looks at the murky skies today and put the fight off again—this time until Monday night.

Fighters Resume Training.

When Rickard announced his third postponement, Mandell, who had taken on a pound or two, promptly returned to his training camp at Orangeburgh, N. Y. McLarnin went to a local gymnasium. Both boys must weigh in again at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The repeated postponements may have affected the gate. Originally, the probable gate was estimated at $300,000. Now estimates are running from $200,000 to $250,000.

Heavy Guarantees.

It was reported tonight that Rickard had guaranteed Mandell $65,000, and McLarnin is drawing a sizeable amount. Furthermore, it costs real money to stage a spectacle on the pretentious scale of a Rickard fight.

Both fighters expect to get back into perfect condition by Monday. Betting odds remain the same, seven to five, with Mandell the favorite. The wagering is heavy and boxing experts are predicting one of the fastest lightweight battles in the history of the game.

the far turn and bore down on the finish. Niagara then became a whisper, having been joined by Nyanza, Yosemite Falls and 70,000 metal chutes delivering coal into as many cellars.

Winner Wildly Acclaimed.

They were yelling then for the horse of their choice. For the field was sweeping by, a furlong, then a sixteenth off the finish, and the race track sport dies hard, if at all. A moment later, the field had flashed passed the judges and the hope that had risen in many a breast flickered and died very suddenly. But the acclaim lived on. It The Count had won as a good and true horse should and had earned a homage that no real horseman would think of refusing him.

Horseshoe of Roses.

It seemed, too, that Reigh Count somehow realized that his was an honor sought by many and achieved by all too few. For his shanks fairly twinkled back to the judges' stand like those of a horse on parade, and, when they came forward with the inevitable horseshoe of roses, he arched his neck royally as though he knew it had been intended for just that adornment from the moment he first had seen the light of day through the opaque window of his stall.

There must be something unfair about this life of ours that it can deny a horse like Reigh Count the right to have understood Governor Flem Sampson when he concluded his presentation of the cup to Mrs. Hertz, with these remarks.

The Sport of Kings.

"May horse racing, the sport of kings, crowned and uncrowned, ever remain fair and clean and may the best horse always win."

The Count knew that the best horse had won this afternoon. He hardly could have helped knowing it, after running as he did with his heart and head and legs, meeting spurt with counter-spurt and gamely making his stretch run against these dying efforts of a field which knew that only victory would suffice.

A good horse, too, should prove that he can run his race regardless of whether a track is composed of macadam or chicken gumbo, and the Hertz colt proved he belonged to the immortal royalty, founded by Aristides of 1875, by winning in the soup, just as he probably would have done had the course been dry and firm and partial to tender hocks. No, Reigh Count is a sound horse, No other kind wins a derby regardless of track conditions.

Everybody There.

And it seemed only meet that in the great throng acclaiming him were the aristocracy of the social, official and commercial worlds. The Harry Payne Whitneys were there to were the Leonard Replogles, former Governor Morrow, Mayor James J. Walker, Congressmen, senators, a covey of railroad presidents and, of course, Luke McLuke and his boy friend, John Bananas. In fact, to look over the vast panorama of human heads from the Lifty press coop was to suspect that everybody in the world and his Aunt Emma were on the scene.

Always Great Event.

They have been running the great event since the days of sit-up jockeys in 1875, and, except for the natural progress of the years, the scene varies only in minor particulars. The ganging in the aisles, the flash of colors, the idle gossip, the whoopla of infield and stands, even the pretty faces may have become an old, old story.

But to these impressionable eyes, it remains strangely new and, the day it doesn't, I will turn in my union card—and gladly.

Seventy members of Syracuse university faculty are forming their own golf club. They expect the organization will grow to a membership of 300 or 400 within a few years.

Fifty-two years ago, on April 22, 1876, the first game scheduled under the newly-formed rules and code of honor of the then recently organized National League of Professional Baseball clubs was played.

Lincoln made frequent bids to break into the run column, working four runners around to third corner, but Yohe was invincible in every crisis and stopped the Brownies in their tracks. Owens' line throw from right field to the plate, one of the fielding features of the engagement, headed off a promising Lincoln bid in the fifth inning. The official record:

String of Ciphers By Robins to Reds

CINCINNATI, May 19—Buzz McWeeny outpitched Adolph Luque in a tough duel this afternoon and the Robins won in a shutout, 2 to 0. Each pitcher allowed but five hits, but the Robins made their meager allotment count for runs.

Bancroft's tap, Henline's out, Critz's fumble and Statz's sacrifice scored one in the second, and singles by Henline and Statz, with McWeeny's sacrifice, added another in the fifth.

Only five Reds got as far as first, as McWeeny issued no passes, and only two got to second. The score:

STADIUM CINDERS

The weather Saturday was ideal for track and a large crowd was at Memorial stadium for the Valley championships. The University of Nebraska band was on hand and helped round out the program.

Coach Walter Christy and a half dozen members of the University of California track squad were present at the meet and were given a big hand when introduced to the crowd. The Bears are on their way east for the I. C. 4-A championships at Harvard stadium.

Charley Paddock, world recordholder and Olympic sprinter, will be in Lincoln next Wednesday and Thursday. He is scheduled to work out at the Memorial stadium, according to announcement made at the meet.

Coach Henry F. Shulte, veteran Nebraska track mentor, will referee the Western conference track and field championships at Chicago this week.

Epstein, Missouri half-miler, who ran the fast qualifying heat of the Friday preliminaries, pulled a "Merkle" Saturday at the close of the eighty-eighty. Epstein saw four runners pass him as the finish neared, so he jogged off the track. Suddenly remembering that five places were scored in the final tabulations, Epstein dashed back on the cinder path and was the fifth runner to cross the line. However, he was disqualified for leaving the track. The disqualification moved Hinshaw of Kansas into fifth place and gave the Jayhawkers a point.

Missouri suffered heavily by disqualifications during the meet. Swartz, a half-miler, was fouled for shoving in the Friday prelims and the Missouri mile rel

CHEVROLET SETS NEW HIGH MARK

April Production Breaks All-Time Monthly Record for Gear Shift Cars.

DETROIT, Mich., May 19—Assurance that production of the Chevrolet Motor company this year would top by a wide margin the million units built a year ago was felt here today with the announcement by W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, that April was the third consecutive month this year to set a new all-time monthly production record for the manufacture of gear shift cars.

Chevrolet volume for the month just ended, Mr. Knudsen announced, was 135,832 cars and trucks—an increase of more than 20,000 over the 111,939 units built in the same period a year ago and more than twice the output in April, 1925. Of the April volume this year, more than 100,000 units were required for the domestic market, Mr. Knudsen said.

Not only did April set a new record for the month, but it topped by 2,000 units the output for March, 1928, which was the previous high month. March also was 17,000 units in excess of February, 1928, which in turn had exceded all previous performances in the history of the company.

Combining the output of these three months with the 32,000 bigger and better Chevrolets built for display purposes in December, and the 91,000 turned out in January, the total output of new 1928 models up to May 1 was in excess of half the entire output in 1927. With eight months remaining in the year, optimism everywhere abounded in the Chevrolet organization that the year's output would shoot well beyond the million car mark.

The record volume achieved to date, and the bright outlook for the future, show the measure of confidence placed in the company by the millions of people driving new Chevrolets, Mr. Knudsen pointed out. He asserted that this good will factor is Chevrolet's greatest asset and puts the company under obligation to maintain the standards of quality which the public has so overwhelmingly accepted, thus making possible the new production marks now being set.

Nebraska No. 3. Muddy in spots but drying rapidly.

Nebraska No. 24. Nebraska City to Lincoln, good gravel.

What's Going On at Nebraska?

BY FREDERIC WARE.
(In Omaha World-Herald.)

Rather than being about to terminate its six-year run, the comic opera on the Cornhusker campus seems to be planning an elaboration of plot. More specialties are being rehearsed to embroider the theme, which, as all readers of this column know, is domination of the department of athletics by a board, the personnel of which includes representatives of almost every business, trade and profession, save that of college sports government.

Our staff correspondent at Lincoln has been working overtime, but he does not weary of his task. It is too uproariously diverting; it banishes fatigue; it is, indeed, the most effective of autidotes for boredom. Yet, alas! It is saddening, too. Intermingled with the swift-moving, entertaining current of comedy is tragedy, especially if you be a Nebraska taxpayer interested in the welfare and progress of our state university.

Bogus Currency.

As stated here several days ago, that impressively formal ritual enacted last Saturday, with Herbert D. Gish as the central figure, was as bogus as the currency with which Harold Boldheart pays off the mortgage in the next-to-last scene of Act 4.

We, beyond the campus, weren't supposed to know this. That's why the bulls and manifestos announcing Herb Gish's appointment as director of athletics were made so verbally genuine.

Gish was crowned director, but his authority over the department may well be compared with the authority of a boarding school May queen over the faculty.

It was bad enough that the loyal citizenry was deceived, but imagine the surprise of our correspondent when he learned that certain members of the board were deceived, too! Here, comrades, we approach a complicated comic opera plot that makes Gilbert and Sullivan's efforts look like the pageants prepared for the kindergarten graduates. Dark doings within the duma itself. Some dons knowing not what their fellow dons doeth!

But restrain your heavings! This isn't all! Before we shock you further, read the expressions of one board member, as told to our correspondent.

Something Happened.

"We, that, is the majority of us, I believe, voted that Herb Gish be recommended for appointment as director of athletics and invested with all the powers and prerogatives that such an appointment implies. We meant that he be given full reign, that the athletic board have no sovereignty over him.

"Imagine our surprise when we read in the papers that Gish had been made, not director of athletics but director of intercollegiate athletics, subordinate to the desires and mandates of the athletic board.

"A 'director of intercollegiate athletics' is part of the plan fostered by Dean Thompson, chairman of the board. This plan would eventually install a curator of athletics who would have complete authority over all other members of the department, including the 'director of intercollegiate athletics.'"

This board member told our correspondent that he didn't know what took place between the time the board committee recommended Gish's promotion from acting director to director, and the announcement of Gish's "paper" promotion, but it is very evident that something did.

Just what Herb Gish plans to do, whether he will accept such a glossed-over "promotion", cannot be said for the very good reason that Gish, not yet having received official notice of the action, is unable to act.

And this fact probably is related to another very interesting story, related to our correspondent by the same board member.

That Bearg Contract.

The public announcement of Gish's appointment implied that he actually was to be made director. Were this true, he would have authority over appointments to the coaching staff. It is not true, but the public has been led to believe it is, so embarrassment might result from any attempt by the board to boss the coaching staff following Gish's official "installation."

According to the don who conversed with our correspondent, two fellow dons hope to sign Ernest Bearg, head coach of football, to another contract before the close of the present school term. This despite the fact that Mr. Bearg's present contract will not expire until next year, and that Mr. Bearg must direct a squad through a very arduous 1928 campaign that might change the attitude of some persons toward Mr. Bearg's retention of his job.

What's Going On"

Naturally, one would think that a director of athletics has the highest authority in the selection of coaches, and that his recommendations are invariably heeded. If he accepts the proffered job, Gish, of course, will be responsible to the board but even with his powers thus limited, he might be objecting to the board's plans, put obstacles in its way.

I am curious about one thing. It is this: Just whom has Thompson the Dean in mind for the all-powerful office of curator?

YALE UNI. HEAD GOES ON RECORD

Dr. Angell Denies Claim Athletics Have Been Overemphasized.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 19—(I. N. S.)—Over emphasis on athletics at Yale "does not give us great concern" says Dr. James Rowland Angell, president of Yale university, in discussing the affairs of the institution with its graduates. "Over-emphasis." Dr. Angell says, "is a phrase which the newspaper press has pitched upon for exploitation."

Dr. Angell admits that "No one can look with entire complacency on the week-end excitement incident to the more important football games in the Bowl" though he is sure that present undergraduates "view these occasions with far greater sanity" than earlier generations.

Age of Large Expenditures.

Defending the large expenditure of money for athletics, Dr. Angell says:

"One must not forget for a moment we are living in an age of large expenditures for every purpose. If the expenditures rfor Yale athletic program are scrutinized in detail there can be little just criticism, unless in the salaries paid to a few teachers."

Then the Yale president hurried to say:

"But even these amounts are not per se especially disturbing, but certainly are open to question when compared with academic salaries."

Conservative as Rivals.

However, Yale may spend money for athletics, "Yale's procedure is quite as conservative as that of any of her rivals," says Dr. Angell.

"Men are, and let us hope always, keenly eager to 'make' a Yale team. The ambition is very human and largely praiseworthy, though the incitements of vanity and the desire for social preferment sometimes becloud the picture."

And Dr. Angell is very sure that "Our athletic program is not so seriously out of focus as is sometimes implied."

Senators Stick To Losing Habit

WASHINGTON, May 19—The Cleveland Indians tripped the dropping Griffs again today to the tune of 9 to 7. Gaston pitched seven innings, when he gave way to a pinch-hitter. The Indians had made four runs and six hits off his delivery. Braxton followed him and was no puzzle, five runs coming over in the eighth.

Joe Shaute pitched steadily, if not brilliantly until the ninth, when he was driven out, to let Harder finish. The score:

LOVES THE GAME.

Dudley Branom, now with Louisville continues in baseball despite the fact his father-in-law is a millionaire and has tried persistently to have him give up the game and enter business.

TWO GAMES ENOUGH.

A resolution adopted in 1910 by the national association of minor leagues prohibits the playing of more than two games in one day by minor league teams.

Brick Bats.

BY "BRICK" OWENS.
American League Umpire.

Who the Hardest Hitter?

Who is the hardest hitter in the game today? Who has been the most devastating batter? With his tremendous drives which made records and revolutionized the batting stances of today, is Babe Ruth the most terrific hitter of all time?

These questions bring out many arguments for and against the belief that Ruth is the hardest hitter of all time. There is no doubt that he is the long distance king. His homers over walls throughout the country prove that. However, it is the hits within the enclosure which have proved injurious.

Rogers Hornsby, batting king in the National league, may not hit so many long flies over distant walls, but he put tremendous power behind the ball when he hits for short distance. Terry of the Giants handles a mean club and Hack Wilson is no pigmy when he starts his murderous attack. Cy Williams of the Phillies, with his home run records, is not classed as a terrific swatsmith. Neither is Ken Williams, who has been runner-up to the Babe in homers.

There are several players in the American league who are noted for the force with which they propel the bat against the horsehide. Harry Heilmann has punched, slashed and driven his way to the lead in the American league three times. His broad shoulders contain terrific driving power and have assisted him to the leadership. Fothergill is another hard hitter, as is Simmons of the Athletics. Joe Hauser and George Burns also are classed in that respect.

Gives Palm to Gehrig.

However, there are no more devastating sluggers in either league than Lou Gehrig and Bib Falk. The husky first baseman of the Yanks is a consistent hard hitter, while Falk, at times, crashes deadly blows. Whenever Gehrig swings and connects, something must go. He drives the ball harder than any other player the writer ever has seen and does it consistently. Others have hit hard on occasions when they happen to catch the ball just right. Gehrig hits hard every time he connects. He swings with all his might at all times.

The writer was officiating in Chicago several years ago while the Detroit team was playing the White Sox. Sylvester Johnson, now with the Cardinals, was pitching for Detroit. Bib Falk hit a ball back at Johnson so hard and so fast that it was impossible for the pitcher to get his hand up to save himself. He was struck in the face and knocked unconscious. For a while, it was feared he had been fatally injured. However, he recovered. Now Johnson is back in the majors and probably satisfied to be in the league where Ruth, Gehrig and Falk do not play.

Some years ago Cleveland was playing in New York and Ruth hit a terrific grounder to Lutzke at third base. Rube's specialty is handling hot grounders but this one went through him for a single. Gehrig followed with one through him. Lutzke appeared bewildered and when Bob Meusel proceeded to drive a ball at him with all the force behind his swing, the puzzled third sacker said to the pitcher: "Jiminy Christmas, a fellow is safer in the World war than playing third base against the Yankees."

Those who love to live in the past are wont to compare the deeds of Delehanty, Brouthers and Lajoie to those of the present generation. It is possible that they may have hit as hard. But the writer never has seen a harder hitter than this strong young fellow from Columbia, Mr. Gehrig.

VELIE Cars
Grow old in years only!

TO steadily eat up the miles—hour after hour, indefinitely at 50, 60, 70 or better if you choose—smoothly, silently, luxuriously—such is the performance of the new Velie line of sixes and straight eights.

Throttle down to a crawl—accelerate with the quickness of thought, as necessity demands or the mood impels—Velie responds to the touch.

For the superb Velie craftsmanship which has found expression in Velie automobiles for the last twenty years, has now reached its pinnacle of achievement in these superb models.

The Velie dream of producing a car which would be almost an integral part of the driver, and as sensitive to his desires as the fingers of his hand, has at last become a reality. For this new Velie is indeed a personal car—the living flame of Velie genius. Built to endure silently and efficiently as the years roll on.

And—this Velie triumph is your opportunity to secure that responsive and responsible automobile of which you, too, may have dreamed.

Last of May Filled With Delightful Social Affairs

With the Incentive of Many Prominent Out-of-town Guests and Charming Brides and Bright Prospects for Pleasant Weather, Lincoln's Calendar Is Crowded with Luncheons, Dinners, Picnics.

SUMMER having finished her game of hide and seek, has surrendered completely, and is ushered in with all sorts of pomp and social ceremony. In return she is lavishing her warmth and beauty on the blossoms in all of the lovely gardens, both formal and informal. The porches at the Country clubs have been found to be ideal spots for the afternoon bridge following a luncheon, and never the dinner table from now on, without some contribution from a gay floral bed.

The past week was an unusually busy one from a society standpoint, and the week to come is far from dull. There are any number of prominent out-of-town guests to be feted this week, to say nothing of charming brides-to-be who always are an incentive for social attention.

Much Feted Bride.

ONE of the most feted brides of the early summer seaso nis Miss Frances Carrothers who will become the bride of Mansell Davis of Chicago early in June. On Saturday afternoon the teachers of Belmont school entertained at a picnic at Crete in her honor. The twelve guests in the party left Lincoln at 4 o'clock and before the dinner held a mock wedding on the banks of the river. A dinner was given in one of the cabins and the bride was presented with a shower.

Monday evening the Normal school teachers will entertain at a picnic for six guests and Miss Carrothers wil be presented with a picnic kit. Wednesday evening Mrs. Lloyd Burt and Miss Blanche Burt will preside at an evening party at the home of Mrs. Burt, 3410 Laura avenue, for sixteen guests in honor of Miss Carrothers. The time will be devoted to bridge and late in the evening a luncheon will be served.

The members of the Alpha Xi Delta alumnae association will entertain at an evening bridge Friday at the home of Mrs. H. T. Guinn, 3071 N street, for Miss Carrothers, Mrs. Victor L. Toft of Detroit and Mrs. Paul Babson of Wellesley, Mass. Fourteen guests have been bidden to the affair and at a late hour Miss Carrothers will be presented with a shower and refreshments will be served.

Saturday morning Mrs. Victor Toft of Detroit, will preside at a 9 o'clock breakfast at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ed Westering, 1801 South Twenty-fourth street. Sixteen guests will be seated at small tables and the morning hours will be spent informally.

Miss Coletta Aitken and Miss Dorothy Davis are arranging a luncheon at the Cornhusker on Saturday in compliment to Miss Carrothers. Mrs. Victor Toft will be an out of town guest at the affair.

MISS JOSEPHINE LaMASTER, who will become the bride of Philip Aitken some time in June, will be the honor guest at a luncheon Monday for which Miss Sarah Apperson will be hostess. The affair will be given at her home.

Dinner and Dancing Feature Opening of Eastridge Club

EASTRIDGE country club will formally open its summer season this weekend when Friday and Saturday evenings have been set aside for dinner and dancing. So far the reservations list is far from complete, although a few no-host groups have arranged for tables.

The largest group to have made reservations at the present time includes Messrs. and Mesdames E. W. McCorkle, W. P. Scott, F. J. Underhill, Jack Frost, F. A. Atkins, Leonard Barwick, C. W. Beans, E. W. Brown, Herbert Roosa, A. R. Capron, E. J. Sias, E. Erickson, T. O. Vance, Camille De Vriendt and Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Taylor.

A no host affair of twenty-eight will include Merrs. and Mesdames Howard Enslow, Irvin Frey, Dagmar Sommers, Frank Dykstra, Paul Grummann, Misses Irene Frey, Earl Eager, Clifford Rein, Frank Graff, Dr. William Rotton, Laurel McDonald and Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Clark.

At a table arranged for twenty will be Messrs. and Mesdames Lester Buckley, Sterling Mutz, Robert Latsch, Walter Rogers, W M Stoner, E. R. Heiny, J. H. Riddle, George Holland and Edward Steckley.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pullagor will have as their dinner guests at the club on Saturday evening, the Misses Hazel Thompson, Leona Gres-

Month of June Will Bring Customary Bevy of Brides Into Social Circles Here

The fragrance of roses, myriads of them, in the deep shades of pink—white lilies—sheer, filmy bridal veils, the soft beam of many tapers—the low sweet notes of the organ—that is June, the one month of all the year whose fame for beautiful flowers and lovely brides has been far spread by poets and the makers of songs.

Perhaps one of the most attractive of this year's bevy of June brides is Miss Louise Gardner, who has chosen June 19 for her marriage to Russell Doty of Omaha. The wedding will take place at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Church of the Holy Trinity.

Dr. Winifred Hyde, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Prof. Edwin Dodd, jr., of Cambridge, Mass., has been recently announced, has chosen the Church of the Holy Trinity for her wedding which is to take place June 20.

And then there are any number of attractive maids who have also named June as their wedding month.

Engagement Announced.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank B. Foster of San Diego, Calif., announce the engagement of their niece, Mary Faris Ure, of Omaha, to Malcolm V. Henderson, of Guthrie Center, Ia. The wedding will take place the last of June and the young couple will make their home in Guthrie Center.

The announcement was made yesterday at a luncheon at the home of Miss Ure in Omaha. Miss Ure is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Theta Sigma Phi and Phi Beta Kappa. Since her graduation she has been teaching in the Omaha public schools. Mr. Henderson is a graduate of Ames college, and is a member of Sigma Nu.

Of great interest to university circles is the announcement by Mrs. Kate Richardson of the engagement of her daughter, Virginia to Willard B. Bronson, son of Mr. and and Mrs. Sidney Bronson. The wedding will take place June 7, at 8 o'clock at the home of Miss Richardson's sister, Mrs. C. H. Andrews, 2401 Van Dorn street. Miss Mary Ann Richardson will be maid of honor, and Glen Presnell will be best man. They will make their home in Ironton, O.

Miss Richardson is a student at the University of Nebraska and is a member of Phi Mu. Mr. Bronson, who is a member of Delta Tau Delta, will be graduated this spring from the university. He has been a member of the Nebraska football squad for three years. The announcement was made at a reception held at the Phi Mu house Friday evening.

Plan Breakfast Reunion Alumni Day of Round-Up

The span of years will be forgotten this coming Saturday morning when alumni from many classes will gather together once more for a breakfast reunion, as the first event of alumni day of Round-Up week. Rather extensive plans and preparations have been made for the success of these breakfasts, and many alumni from all over the United States have already signified their intention of coming back to see their old school and their old friends.

The class of 1908 will hold their breakfast on the lawn of the home of Mrs. Hazel Hyde Klesselbach, 3232 Holdrege street. It will start at 9:30 o'clock ,and will be served buffet style. About fifty are expected to return, and following the breakfast, the rest of the morning will be spent in recalling college days.

The members of classes '90, '91, '92, '93, '09, '10, '11, '12, will hold class breakfast at the University club.

An alumni luncheon will be held Saturday noon, and the results of the election of officers will be announced at that time.

The class of 1903 will be entertained at breakfast at the home of Prof. and Mrs. V. L. Hollister, honorary members of the class, at 8:30 o'clock, Saturday morning. Dean and Mrs O. J. Ferguson and Prof. and Mrs. Elmer E. Brackett will assist the Hollisters. Acceptances are to be telephoned

Among the many who will return are the following: Elizabeth Kiewit, Omaha; Theodore F. Meuller, Detroit, Mich., W. N. "Brigham" Young, Kimball; Mrs. George Liggett, Utica; Mrs. L. O. Pfeiffer, Chapnell; Leola Cox Soper, Eldora, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Schmid, Seward; Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Crosby, North Platte; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Murphy, Crete; Mr. and Mrs.

Travelers and visitors from near and far are furnishing the incentive for entertaining almost as much as the brides and brides-to-be. There are old friendships to renew, and reminiscences of days gone by to while away many pleasant afternoon hours. And the breathless excitement of an announcement luncheon, with the startling news appearing in the heart of a flower, or the sheer joy of a trousseau tea, with all the things dear to feminine hearts.

"The Contemporaneousness of Walt Whitman," Mrs. G. S. Keefer.

"H. L. Mencken and Frank Crane," "Satire, a Transitory Art," Mrs. Oscar Hackman.

"What Henry W. Lanier is doing for Our Reading Public," Mrs. O. E. Harris.

"Modern Books Provocative of Thought," "Characters Proper to Literature," Mrs. C. F. Sherwood.

"H. G. Wells and His Summary of Modern Thought," Mrs. O. E. Harris.

The president elect, Mrs. Oscar H. Hackman, presented the past president, Mrs. Guy S. Keefer, with a bouquet of roses in behalf of the circle's appreciation of her year's work.

This lesson closed the circle's first year of study.

DINNER AND PROGRAM FOR CHAPTER MEMBERS.

Six members of Lambda Delphian chanter entertained at a dinner at the home of Mrs. O. L. Morse, 3427 Dudley on Thursday evening. The hostesses were Miss Erminda Clarke, Miss Myrtle Deane, Mrs. W. M. Byrkit, Miss Cecil Tully, Mrs. O. L. Morse and Mrs. E. G. Green.

Lavender and yellow tulips with purple lilacs centered the table at which fifteen covers were arranged. After dinner the regular chapter meeting was held with the following program under the leadership of Miss Lela Wilson:

The Palace of Happiness—Miss Nellie Fender.

Rostand's Symbolism—Miss Gertrude Kettlewell.

Cyrno de Bergeras — Miss Louise Murphy.

Dramatic reading, selection from the third act of "Pizzaro" by Sheridan—Mrs. Emma Ashton.

The next meeting will be held on May 24 at the home of Mrs. Emma Ashton 2201 South street, a 6 o'clock dinner will be followed by the election of officers.

CRETE AXIS CLUB HOLDS MOTHER'S DAY BANQUET.

Eighty-seven mothers and daughters attended the seventh annual Mother's day banquet of the Crete Axis club at the Cosmopolitan hotel Monday evening, May 14. In the main dining room four long tables were decorated with poles wrapped in green and white crepe paper. Streamers from the poles led to potted fuchsia plants which were the favors for the mothers.

Mrs. Edwin B. Dean was the principal speaker at the program which followed the three-course dinner. Miss Myrtie Benne, acting as toastmistress, gave a few words of welcome to the mothers, to which Mrs. Charles Graham responded. A piano duet was given by Vita Ann Jelinek and Joseph Brabec. The program closed with two "Mother Day" songs given by the male quartet composed of Dr. G. L. Rummelhart, Clyde Knight, Harold Kemble, and John D. Brehm. During the banquet the guests and club members were favored with violin and piano music by Misses Lois Ruth Lefferdink and Sylvia Smrz.

Mrs. Dean remarked that in the lives of all Mother occupies the central place. Through Eve, Mrs. Dean pointed out that mothers have inherited the responsibility for the future of the human race. "In all ages of history, said Mrs. Dean, "mothers are the ones who have carried the burdens for the misdeeds of men." Mrs. Dean spoke of motherhood as spelling renunciation because of the many sacrifices a mother is willing to make for the happiness of her children. She mentioned that many mothers are repaid for their sacrifices in later years not only in having appreciative grown children, but in having sons and daughters who prove to be of real value to the world.

Beta chapter of Delphians met Friday evening in the chamber of commerce. The discussion was based on the "Louvre" and covered the following texts:

"Old Masters in the Louvre," Miss Anna Yochel.

"Early French Painters," Miss Beulah Hutchinson.

"Watteau's Embarkment for Cytherea," Miss Pearl Dinsmore.

"Classicists and Romanticists," Mrs. Katherine Whitney.

"Lesser Barbizon Painters," Miss Emma Buhrman.

BANCROFT P. T. A. GIVES PROGRAM FOR CHILDEN.

Under the auspices of the civics department of the woman's club of which Mrs. Eugene Levy is chairman, the children of the Orthopedic hospital were entertained by the mothers of the P. T. A. of the Bancroft school.

"The District School" was presented in a most amusing way and brought forth much applause. The mischevious boys and naughty girls were impersonated by the ladies who answered to the roll call by the following names:

Teacher, Mary Jane McWilliams, Catherine VanHorn.

Pupils—Ina Sawyer, Fannie McCowan, Elizabeth Miller, Freda Steele, Jessie Grotjan, Grace Stewart, Geneva Elam, Anna Lawson, Amelia Kohler, Edna Bryant, Elizabeth Martin, Trella Durham and Elizabeth Leath.

ELEVENTH ANNUAL BANQUET BUSINESS WOMEN'S LEAGUE.

The Business Women's league will hold its eleventh annual banquet at the Lincoln hotel, May 24, 7 p. m., in the Garden room. Miss Nelle McNiff, retiring president of the league will be master of ceremonies.

Miss Katherine Dean, who will leave soon to study during the summer with Schumann-Heink, will sing a group of songs, accompanied by Miss Genevieve Miller. Miss Frances Carrothers will entertain with readings and the newly elected officers will be installed. Some lively songs and calls will add to the festivities.

Reservations may be made with Miss Nelle McNiff.

The fancy dress party on Monday evening was sponsored by Miss Marie Beach, Miss Nelle McNiff and Miss Bertha Hugg as hostesses. After an evening spent at games, dancing and cards, two gifts were presented to the league, a bridge lamp from Miss Beach and an electric fruit basket from Miss McNiff.

The league is in receipts of an invitation to join the Omaha Business and Professional Women club in its annual week-end party at Camp Brewster on June 16 and 17. Reservations will be made with Miss Nelle McNiff before June 5.

Dancing and cards will be the order of the evening on Monday, May 21.

OMEGA DELPHIANS MEET ONE O'CLOCK LUNCHEON.

Omega Delphian chapter met for a 1 o'cloc luncheokn at the Cornhusker hotel, Friday. During the afternoon Mrs. W. H. Brokaw gave a talk on "German Drama of the Eighteenth Century." She called for reports from Mrs. J. A. Spere who spoke on "Lessing's Life and Works;" Mrs. Cameron McIntyre, "Nathan and the Templar"; Mrs. R. C. Olney, "Nathan and Saladin."

PRENUPTIAL COURTESIES FOR MISS FANNIE HILL.

Miss Fannie Hill will be honored with a number of parties this week in prenuptial courtesy to her and Jack Bernstein whose marriage will take place early in June. Last Thursday evening the members of the J. U. G. club complimented Miss Hill with a bridge party at the home of Miss Rebecca Rosenberg 830 North Sixteenth street. At a late hour refreshments were served and the bride-to-be was presented with a gift. Today Mrs. Nathan Zolat has invited thirty guests to a linen shower to be given at her home, 1219 South Twenty-fifth street. Refreshments will be served at tables appointed with shades of pink and white. Miss Bess Cohn will honor her with a handkerchief shower Wednesday evening at her home, 828 South Twenty-seventh street. Pink and white will be used as a decorative note and the time will be spent with games.

MUSIC SECTION CLOSES WITH ELECTION OFFICERS.

The music department of the Bethany Woman's club held the last meeting for the year, at the home of Mrs. L. S. Hurst, North Cotner boulevard, Tuesday afternoon.

Election of officers for the coming year, resulted in the choice of Mrs. J. S. Sharp, president; Mrs. Laura Blanchard, vice president; Mrs. H. A. Lemon, secretary-treasurer.

The program for the day was a comprehensive and sympathetic study of the opera, "Madame Butterfly," given by Mrs. E. R. Priel, director and illustrated by means of victrola records.

The department has held eight meetings, each with a subject for study followed by a demonstrative program.

A chorus of thirty-five members has been directed by Mrs. E. R. Priel, whose careful work has added to the musical knowledge of those having a part in the chorus.

Mrs. L. S. Hurst has been hostess to all of the meetings but one held in Bates hall, when a reception was given to the Havelock Woman's club and on one in the East Lincoln Christian church, the occasion of a pipe organ study.

The year has been both pleasurable and profitable.

DELPHIAN CHAPTER ELECTS OFFICERS.

Mrs. G. T. Day was re-elected president, and Mrs. P. L. Larimer was re-elected secretary of Lotus chapter of Delphian society at the organization's meeting last Tuesday at the Lindell hotel. The old advisory board of the chapter, consisting of Mrs. J. Carnahan, Mrs. J. Carpenter, and Mrs. Isobelle Evans, was also retained. The only new officers elected were Mrs. J. Fay, vice president, and Mrs. George C. Krause, treasurer.

The program was in charge of Mrs. W. Snapp. It follows: Charlemagne," Mrs. E. A. Wilner; "The Early Church," Mrs. E. Wood; "The Monk as a Civilizer," Mrs. George E. Krause; "The Crusades," Mrs. W. H. Moore; "Schools and Education," Mrs. W. R. Patton; "The Feudal System," Mrs. J. Carnahan; "The Beginning of Popular Government," Mrs. F. E. Carpenter; "Domestic Life," Mrs. Harriett Collman; The Lady of the Cloister, Mrs. A. W. Nelson; "The Medieval City," Mrs. R. N. De Voe; "Trade and Traders," Mrs. John Fay.

This was the last meeting of the Lotus Delphians until Sept. 11, when the year's work will be resumed again.

ENTERTAIN AT SPECIAL MOTHERS' DAY PROGRAM.

The mothers who are alone in the world, who have no sons and daughters to remember them, were not forgotten on Mother's day this year. The day that might have been so hard, when they remembered other days with the boys and girls of the past, was brightened through the thoughtfulness of others.

From Tabitha home and from the county poor farm, the members were invited to a Mothers' day program one week ago Saturday. They enjoyed a drive through the city and a motion picture and vaudeville entertainment at the Lincoln theater. They were guests of Charles Shire, and the aged ladies expressed their deep appreciation of the treat.

Mrs. Eugene Levy had charge of the arrangements. Those who drove were Mesdames Henry Blum, H. C Bergstrasser, Henry Kelly, George W. Woods, J. A. Barkley, C. A. Thorson, Charles B. Simon, Fred M. Park and Orin Sturtevant.

Announcements.

Chapter K. P. E. O. will meet with Mrs. W. T. Page, College View, Saturday afternoon. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. E. W. Reed, chairman; Mrs. E. P. Parkhurst, Mrs. R. C. McMillen, Miss Ella Witlie, Mrs. C. H. Moore, Mrs. C. C. Cartney, Mrs. G. A. Grubb, Mrs. G. W. Hassett. Mrs. H. M. Davis and Mrs. E. B. Perry will tell of the convention held in Beatrice, May 15, 16, 17. The B. I. L's will be guests at a picnic supper at 6:30.

Chapter DM, P. E. O. met with Mrs. Pearl VanGilder, 832 E street, Saturday, May 12. The chapter observed its first anniversary with a covered dish luncheon. A short business meeting was held and a social time spent on the lawn.

The program at the Orthopedic hospital Thursday afternoon, which is sponsored by the civics department of the Woman's club, was a marionette show put on by Wentworth Fling and Wilfred Deweese: "A Pipe and a Smile."

Mr. Fling originated the plot and the puppets, made by him, played the story upon a miniature stage.

Mr. Fling permitted the children to handle the puppets and showed them how he pulled the strings to make them do his bidding.

The dramatic department of the Woman's club sponsored a program for the Orthopedic hospital children Saturday afternoon. The program was as follows:

Musical readings and dances by Betty and Lois Rathburn.

A group of musical readings by Mrs. Ed Wood.

A group of songs by Mrs. Gertrude Spere.

A group of readings by Mrs. R. R. Betz.

Mrs. Louise Mitchell was the accompanist.

One of the charming social affairs of the past week was the 1 o'clock luncheon of the Lotus chapter of the Delphian society, held at the Lindell hotel Tuesday. The tables were attractively decorated with baskets of violets and with kewpie dolls in boxes of violets, to which were attached pink and violet streamers running to each place.

The nut cups were in the form of butterflies and the table was lighted by pink and orchid candles in crystal candlesticks. The favors were hand made boutonnieres.

A beautiful metallic tie-dyed scarf was presented to Mrs. G. T. Day, president of Lotus chapter, as a gift from the ladies of the organization.

The Hauser club met Monday evening the chamber of commerce. The lecture was presented by Dr. Maude Bell, president of the club, on the subject, "Acidosis." Miss Marie Nelson was elected librarian for the coming year. Sixty-five were present. The next meeting will be May 21 in chamber of commerce.

Many Lincoln People Planning Trips To Europe This Summer

A white deck, gay music, sea gulls flying, a blue sky and shining water—the scramble and rush of disembarkment, getting "land legs," the thrill of European soil underfoot—it all sounds like a happy dream and yet a large number of Lincoln people will be enjoying just these things during the summer months in which they are planning to tour Europe.

The sea voyage is only a small part of the thrills that will come to them as they walk through The Bridge of Sighs in Venice or in the cool and sacred apse under the long shadows at St. Peter's cathedral in Rome. After all this comes Paris wit hits whiteness and gaiety and night life, and then the tired but contented trip through France to Havre or some other port for the homeward journey, with memories and new friends that can never be forgotten.

Judge and Mrs. Thomas C. Munger will leave Thursday by motor and will spend a few days in Chicago with their daughter, Mrs. Donald C. Mattison and Mr. Mattison. From there they will drive to New York City where they will sail June 8 on the S. S. Republic for England. They plan to motor through England, France, and Germany and will return early in September.

The Misses Ruth Hovland, Valeria Bonnell and Gretchen Fee will leave Lincoln early in June for New York City from where they will sail on the S. S. Lancastria for a Mediterranean cruise. They will be joined by Miss Gisella Birkner in New York. The party also intends to tour the continent and go up through Norway and Sweden and the land of the midnight sun.

Miss Elizabeth McGerr and Miss America Rodman, who have been teaching school in Alma for the past year, will sail from Montreal June 8, on the S. S. Sinai for a Mediterranean cruise. Miss McGerr is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. T. McGerr of Lincoln and Miss Rodman's home is in Kimball. The two girls will be the guest of Lloyd Hahn in Amsterdam for the Olympic meet and from there will go to Paris and London. They plan to be gone about three months.

Miss Norma Carpenter sails from Montreal June 22 for a three-months tour of the continent.

Edward Lyman the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Lyman will leave Lincoln May 28 for New York City from where he will sail June 2 on the S. S. Majestic for England. He will visit for some time with relatives in England and will go to Paris and a few places of interest on the continent. He plans to attend the Olympic meet in Amsterdam ,and will sail for home on the S. S. Laurentic the first week in September, landing at Montreal.

Miss Gladys Dana will sail June 3, on the S. S. Rotterdam, and will spend two months in Europe.

Miss Blodwin Beynon and Miss Caroline Hooper will sail June 16, on the S. S. Homeric for the British Isles. After spending some time there they will travel on the continent, returning home sometime in September.

The Southside circle of the Grace M. E. church held the regular monthly luncheon and business meeting on Wednesday, May 16, in the church dining room. Officers for the coming year who were elected are: Chairman, Mrs. H. A. Askey; vice chairman, Mrs. E. J. Oldt; secretary, Mrs. C. F. Eberline, and treasurer, Mrs. C. M. Keefer. It was decided to close the year's work with a covered dish luncheon in June.

DINNER IN HONOR OF MISS ELEANOR RAYMOND .

Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Raymond, jr., presided at a 7 o'clock dinner Saturday evening at their home in honor of Miss Eleanor Raymond of Evanston, Ill. The table was centered with garden flowers and the after dinner hours were spent with bridge.

SHOWER IN HONOR OF MISS LAVADA PICKETT.

Miss Helen Williams and Miss Elsie Theil entertained sixteen guests at a kitchen shower at the home of Miss Williams, 648 North Twenty-sixth street, honoring Miss LaVada Pickett. The afternoon hours were spent with bridge. Refreshments were served late in the afternoon, and a color scheme of lavender and yellow was used.

HONORARY MATHEMATICS FRATERNITY INSTALLED.

Pi Mu Epsilon, honorary mathematical fraternity, was installed on the university campus Thursday, when some of the members of the old Math club joined this new organization. Forty-three charter members were taken in, and six new members. A dinner was held at 6:30 o'clock at the Grand hotel, and this was followed by the installation. Earl McCracken of Ames, Ia., and H. P. Doole, who was a member at Ames, installed the new chapter. C. C. Camp is the faculty sponsor.

CATHEDRAL CLASSES TO BANQUET WEDNESDAY.

The junior-senior banquet of Cathedral high school will be held Wednesday evening at the Lincoln hotel. Forty-five guests will be present and the tables will be appointed with rose and gold decorations. Following the dinner there will be a program and dancing.

Social Clubs

Mrs. C. C. Dunbaugh entertained the members of the Eldeen club Monday afternoon at her home, 624 South Twenty-third street. Seventeen guests were present and the time was spent informally. Mrs. H. F. Crittendon and Mrs. Harold Losey were special guests. The same officers were re-elected for another year. Late in the day refershments were served. This was the last meeting of the year.

The members of the La Ric club entertained at a no-host luncheon at 1 o'clock Monday at the Woodburn party house. Miniature glass trees and red candles formed an attractive centerpiece for the long table at which all the guests were seated. The afternoon hours were devoted to bridge. This was the last meeting of the year.

Miss Bertha Foster presided at a 630 o'clock dinner Tuesday evening at the Woodburn party house for the members of the Seven Sixteen club. Sixteen guests were seated at on table centehed with spring flowers and the evening hours were devoted to bridge. Scoring honors went to Miss Edith Heed and Miss Pyrne Jackson. The next meeting will be May 22 with Miss Elsie Cartwright for a 6:30 dinner at the Woodburn, and will be the last meeting of the year.

The Misses Myra McGraw and Nola Shepherd were hostesses to the members of the La Joie de Vie club Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Shepherd, 2761 Cable avenue. Scoring honors at bridge went to Miss Helen Funk and Mrs. Mark Sommer and at a late hour refreshments were served. The next meeting will be in the form of a May breakfast on May 27 at the Cornhusker hotel.

The members of the Idle-A-While club were entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Smith, 2424 South Thirty-third street. Scoring honors at five hundred went to Mrs. C. L. Singleton and Mrs. Harry Allsman. Mrs. H. Pierce was a guest. Refreshments were served by the hostess at a table appointed with spring flowers. Mrs. R. H. Ninneman was taken in as a new member and will be hostess to the club on May 22 at her home, 1034 South Thirty-first street.

The members of the T. K. W. club met with Mrs. Lee Brooks Friday afternoon at her home, 2836 Arlington avenue. Twelve guests were present and the hostess was assisted by Mrs. H. F. Deahn and Mrs. J. H. Detwiler. Scoring honors at five hundred went to Mrs. John Van Fossen and Mrs. F. M. Littrel and Mrs. W. D. Rowden was a guest. Late in the day a two-course luncheon was served at small tables appointed in violet and white decorations. This was the last meeting until the fall season.

Miss Elloween Pillar entertained the members of the Bede Ghe club Thursday evening at her home, 1925 South Thirteenth street. The affair was in honor of the mothers of the members and the time was spent with a musical and religious program. Late in the evening a luncheon was served at a table appointed with sweet peas in the pastel shades and each mother was presented with a corsage.

Mrs. Earl Morris was hostess to the members of the Avondale five hundred club Friday afternoon at her home, 2144 F street. Guests of the day were Mrs. John Waybright, and Mrs. Charles Baird. Scoring honos went to Mrs. E. A. Allsman and Mrs. John Waybright. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be June 1 and will be a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Cornhusker hotel.

The members of the D. T. W. club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Edmond Seguin at her home, 514 South Tenth street. The time was spent with a kensington and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be June 15 with Mrs. E. L. Drager, 2428 E street.

Miss Blanche Mahannah was hostess to the members of the Cavieago club Friday evening at her home, 818 North Twenty-sixth street. Miss Helene Morris won high score at bridge and at a late hour refreshments were served at small tables appointed with spring flowers. The next meeting will be June 1 with Miss Loretta McClellan, 3426 O street.

The members of the Pi Kappa Alpha mother's club held a business meeting last Sunday after the mother's day banquet at the chapter house. Election of officers took place with Mrs. M. L. Francis becoming the president, Mrs. O. J. Wilson the secretary-treasurer and Mrs. H. Johnson of Omaha the vice president.

University Woman Will Visit India

One of three women in the United States to be so honored, Miss Erma Appleby, secretary of the university Y. W. C. A., has been unanimously chosen by the national council of the Y. W. C. A., to represent that organization at a meeting of the World Christian Student federation next January in India.

The meeting, to be held in Mysore, an Indian state ruled by a native prince in the south of India, will be attended by delegates from all the countries in the world that have student Christian federation groups. Three men and three women representing the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. student groups will comprise the delegation from the United States.

Nearly one month's traveling is required to reach India, but the American delegation will probably leave as early as November.

Among the noted delegates who will be present at the meeting are the Saddhu of Sundaringh an Indian saint, and Mahatma Gandhi, another saint, leader of the non-cooperative movement in India, and said to live a life more nerly like that of Christ than any other living man. Dr. Stanley Jones, a Methodist missionary and author of the "Christ of the Indian Road," and C. F. Andrews, an English missionary who is very much beloved by the natives will also attend.

Delegates with Miss Appleby will be Juliette Derricotte of New York, and Julia Warike, an undergraduate student at the University of California. Representatives of the Y. M. C. A. have not yet been chosen

Minerva's Mail

Take Your Troubles To Minerva

Do Our Young Moderns Regard High Ideals As "Applesauce" Or "Mush?"—A Reader Believes An Age Of Cynicism Is Being Fostered By the Teachers Of the Day—Some Slang Is Picturesque, But Most Of It Is Cheap.

Age of Cynicism.

Are we entering upon an age of cynicism? "Depressed" below believes that young people of today are rank materialists with a definite leaning toward cynicism, and he blames the teachers and writers of the day for this.

It is an interesting subject. Personally I am not convinced that this is so. I find young people of today to have very definitely high ideals and standards, based upon a foundation of knowledge of things as they really are. Isn't this better than the Santa-Claus opinion of life that most of us and particulary our mothers and fathers, had when we and they were young? Didn't we have an awful lot to unlearn, and didn't many of us lose our cherished ideals when the cotton-wool in which it was packed was torn away by experience and the years?

Ideals are beautiful and necessary things. But they must be based on the truth in order to live. I believe the modern method of teaching young people to hunt for the truth to be sound and not destructive of high ideals.

I would like to hear from others on this subject.

Dear Minerva: An age of cynicism is upon us. Our young people regard the higher ideals and beautiful things about life as "mush" or "applesauce." The teachers in our schools and modern writers are all lending a hand in teaching our young people to regard our animal inheritance rather than the human and spiritual additions we have added to it.

Recently I made several visits to the high school and college which my own children attend. In one class I visited the students were discussing the colonial period in American history. The whole hour was devoted to what might be called an expose of the seamy side of life of two of our national idols, painting them in pretty dark colors. They had very little character left after the teacher had finished with them. The pupils were doubtless quite delighted to learn that such important makers of history were, after all, pretty wild fellows. Why not be wild, too, if you could also be history-making?

Another group of students were discussing the "unconscious" in a class in psychology. They had been discussing this subject for several days it seemed and were taking the point of view that all of us are dominated by impulses and passions which have to be given considerable rein or else they will make life intolerable for us. The teacher cited supposed cases of nervous and mental breakdown caused because the great urges of life were utterly repressed. "In order to keep balanced, and sane, we have to unclamp," he said. "Those who hold in everlastingly get to be freaks or nervous wrecks." The pupils seemed quite ready to agree, and it seemed to me, an onlooker, that the whole lesson was one of teaching dangerous lack of self restraint and control to these impressionable young people.

I heard a lecture in one school on the book of wide circulation, "Why We Behave Like Human Beings." The speaker presented the idea that man is nine-tenths animal, the remaining one-tenth making us seem like human beings, but that it takes very little to cause most of us to give away to our animal inheritance. "Scratch the surface and you find animal traits and appetites," he said.

The reading of the Bible is out of style in schools, forbidden, I believe. Nowhere did I hear a word spoken in the schools which suggested in the slightest degree my conception of idealism. The worst side of human life was everyplace played up. We are already an age of materialists. Aren't we developing an age of cynicism as well?

DEPRESSED.

Cannot Condemn All.

"She affects me like a Mammy-song." I overheard a young girl say the other day. That was slang, of course, but a picturesque, meaningful sort of comment at that. She was talking of a teacher in her school, who has a personal, human manner of drawing out the innermost thoughts and feelings of her students. I found myself thinking of certain persons who affect me in that very way.

"She's the girlie who can tickle the ivories," another girl remarked, this time of a very marvelous pianist. That wasn't so good. It belittled the speaker, showing a lack of feeling for the talent she was discussing; it belittled the beautiful performance of the artist under discussion.

So there are various kinds of slang. It seems to have a definite place in our language. I might sum the situation up in a general way by saying that, like everything else, slang is effective if it reflects cleverness, patness, real thought. When it is used as a substitute for thought, as a mere-filler-up, it is idle and often offensive. "Good Speech" below has a few things to say about slang:

Dear Minerva: Are we not becoming a nation of vulgarians? All winter I have ridden down town on the bus with a bevy of school and college girls and boys. And such language. One wonders if it isn't utter futility to spend money on the education of boys and girls if they can't learn to talk better.

The air is blue with such remarks as "That's right," "I'll say," "You said a mouthful." Believe me," "You and your old man" and such like. Isn't this pretty cheap talk for college students?

Why don't they institute a course in correct conversation in the schools and give demerits for slang? But, no you even hear modern lecturers and teachers resorting to slang in their endeavor to be witty and appeal to the public. They encourage rather than forbid such slackness in conversation.

I am of the old school, of course, and away behind the times. But I can't see any advancement in the dropping of beautiful English for meaningless, cheap slang. I see no place for slang in any conversation, by young or the old. GOOD SPEECH.

A. We are judged by our speech. Much more so than by our dress. But I fear, we cannot dipose of modern slang by a wave of the wand, or the giving of demerits.

What is slang, anyway? The dictionary tells us that it is a colloquial expression, in common use at some particular time, a ready-made expression that is picked up and put into popular use without any particular thought on the part of the user. It may be coarse, but not necessarily so. All that comes under the head of slang is not to be condemned, but much, probably most, of it is.

The constant use of slang marks one as being intellectually impoverished. Much of it is dull and monotonous, adding nothing to the conversation. There are times when slang, employed judiciously and cleverly, makes speech more effective and picturesque. But its habitual use is slovenly and unprofitable.

Most slang costs its user nothing in the way of thought and is merely cheap phrases palmed off as wit.

I would say that the cure for slang and all idle talk is to teach young people to talk constructively and thoughtfully. This would also do away with slanderous, gossipy conversation, which is so very common and harmful. To teach young people the importance of conversation, the very great harm that can be caused through the careless handling of words, is of more importance than a localizing of the lessons into a fight on slang in general.

Proud of Lincoln.

Dear Minerva: I am a regular reader of your Mail and of The Star and when I see anyone trying to give the good people of our state a bum steer, I will be heard from and I hope the one who signs her or his name, "Lover of Music," gets this and all of it and lets it soak in.

"Lover of Music," I'll bet it's jazz music you love, at dances. As for the city of Lincoln being the talk of the west. Yes, it is, and in this way. Lincoln is known as the finest Christian city in the west, and any one who would think of it as "Lover of Music" does is one who doesn't know why and where the collections go in any church. This party undoubtedly didn't have any Sunday schooling in his young days. She or he ought to go to Chicago where many people don't know when Sunday comes. They are loversof music and the dance.

Now I am an American and a good Methodist and will surely stick up for as clean a city as Lincoln is and don't want any amusements on Sunday. I wish they would close up all the movies. I certainly would vote for it now.

Mr. or Miss "Lover of Music," you just think what it means to the next or coming generation. This world is full of people who ought to get their eyes open and try and uplift Christanity, and think of the future in a good, true Sunday spirit. This is the one great down fall of our large cities of today, the wrong picture shows and no Sunday schools or churches. I will bet nine out of ten will agree with me. Future Thought.

"Insult To Intelligence.

Dear Minerva: A young woman told me over the 'phone that "Jack" had a letter in the Sunday Mail, but "it was too dry to be interesting," so she flung it aside without finishing it. Of course I understood what she meant, but when I read Jack's "too dry" letter I found, as usual, that it was decidedly "too wet." The signature of either "Jack" or "Roger" is almost always a guarantee of a "wet" argument or veiwpoint.

I am not writing this altogether for the benefit of "Jack," for I consider him wholly given over to a reprobate mind, and so far as he is concerned, it were better to save ones pearls, and avoid the trampling into the mud. But for the sake of the truth, which he has warped, and for the sake of the young people who might be misled by his wicked denial of the word of God, I type these lines tonight.

First of all, permit me to say that I did not misquote myself, as "Jack" claims. Before I quoted that passage from my old letter, I took the trouble to lok it up, that I might quote it verbatim, because I know too well, from long acquaintance with the Mail, how dearly my opponents love to warp and twist and misrepresent the things I write, so for years I have kept scrapbooks and jotted down dates of publication, and fully equipped myself to confront people like "Jack" with the proof of their distortions of truth. Besides my own personal copy, there are always the copies on file. "Jack's" object in saying I misquoted myself was to make it appear that I did not state the truth, but in his persecuting zeal he overreaches himself.

"Jack says baptism "has no saving grace whatsoever," that it is "non-essential," and he echoes "Rogers'" assertion that it was but part of the "meaningless form and empty ritual of an earthly church." Not a word of which statement can he verify by the scripture. I challenge him to answer the following questions:

If baptism is "non-essential," why did Jesus command his disciples to "teach all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost?" (Matt. 28:19.)

If baptism is "non-essential" why did Jesus go from Galilee to Jordan to be baptised by John the Baptist? And why did He say "thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness?" (Matt. 3:13-15. Mark. 1:9, Luke 3:21, John 1:28-35.)

If baptism is "non-essential" why was the Ethiopian eunuch baptised? (Act. 8:38.) Why was Paul baptised? (Acts 9:18.) Why were the 3000 baptised on the day of Pentecost? (Acts 2:41.) Why were "both men and women" baptised after hearing and believing Phillip's preaching? (Acts 8:12.) Why did Peter command baptism? (Acts 2:38.) Why did Peter more than once command baptism? (Acts 10:48.) Why was the Philippian jailor baptised? (Acts 16:33.) Why was Lydia baptised? (Acts 16:15.) Why did Jesus say "He that believeth and is baptised shall be saved" (Mark 16:16) if there is "no saving grace in baptism whatsoever?" If "no saving grace whatsoever," why did Peter write: "The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us?" (Ist. Peter 3:21.) Why did Paul write "one faith, one Lord, one baptism?" (Eph. 4:5.)

Either "Jack" should furnish scriptural proof for his opinions, or forever cease his cocksureness that the opinions of himself and "Roger" are absolutely infallible and impregnable. "If the blind lead the blind both shall fall into the ditch" is still the scriptural way of saying that those who reject the plain teaching of Christ will drag other souls down to Hell with them, souls for which they will have to give an account before the judgement bar of God.

I do not rely on my own opinions on this subject, because human judgment is too prone to error. I go to the Bible because it is the word of God, and because all authority is found there. There is my authority. Where is "Jack's"? Merely his own opinion. And he expects us to accept his word, and "Roger's" word, and reject that of Jesus. Yes, he even gets into a towering rage because I won't surrender my belief in the teaching of Jesus, and bow down and worship the "always right" little man-god whose opinion "Jack" puts before that of Jesus. "Jack's" letter was an insult to the intelligence of every Christian, and just such letters as his ought to open the eyes of every professing Christian to the urgent need for taking heed to themselves and the doctrine of Christ, because the apostle John has forewarned us that whosoever "abideth not in the doctrine of Christ hath not God" (2nd John 9,) and "if there come any unto you and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed, for he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deeds."

"While there is life there is hope" is an old saying. I wish I could believe there was hope that "Jack" would change his viewpoint and believe in the Christ, and accept the things He taught and practiced. If he does not, when we have an open Bible, with the assurance that the way is so plain that the wayfaring man, though a fool, should not err therein, then there is surely need for some one to contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints.—ARDENT.

Champion Boy's Third Birthday

Marcia Laurene Tyner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Tyner, of Kansas City. Little Marcia, who is a year and a half old, just returned to her home, after a visit at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Black.

Alvin Earl is the three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Gaylor, 2216 R street, Havelock. He celebrated his birthday anniversary on May 8. He was champion town boy in the better babies contest at the State Fair last year.

Wesleyan Affairs

MODERN EVE

The SHOPPER

Smart Little Frocks

IN the modiste manner are individually planned and made at that clever little shop, "Mackay," 520 Federal Trust building. Your hemstitching, nail head trims and even the little tailored clips may also be done there. If you want that "individuality" that you should demand, let Mrs. Mackay create your next gown.

A Sale of Model

HATS at Rudge & Guenzel's surely ought to interest those of you who are already planning vacation wardrobes. Each and every beautiful hat in this sale has sold for much more, and now, although you'll find the Landsco, Hyland and other expensive makes included in these, the price on all is only $5. The bride will undoubtedly want to include several of these in her trousseau. The girl graduate returning home will like one or two for summer wear.

Some Very Clever

WOMEN are making replacements in their home furnishings during this fifty-seventh anniversary sale at Hardy's, obtaining choice pieces of furniture, a fine rug or fresh draperies which they would not otherwise feel that they could afford. Drastic reductions have been made in every department of their immense store. It's not surprising that many June brides-to-be are selecting coveted bits—such as mirrors, lamps, decorative occasionals and accessories. And a new suggestion for the pre-nuptials you'll be giving is to pool your money and give her a charming piece of furniture. As well as being "different" at your party you'll be sure to have her lifelong gratitude. I say "lifelong" because the really good pieces of furniture shown at Hardy's are certain to be that.

The Bride or Graduate

WHO is planning on having her picture taken had best make an appointment now at the Agnew Studio, 1319 O street.

Imagine Buying

AN electric washer as good as new for only the small sum of from $20 to $35. But it is possible. The Maytag Company is offering a few very fine rebuilt washers of various makes for these low cash prices. Terms, of course, are a little more.

Mrs. Ayers of the

C. W. FLEMING Jewelry Store optical department invites all those who are hard of hearing and friends of theirs to attend the exhibition of the new acousticon held at the Fleming jewelry store between the hours of 9 and 5 May 24, 25 and 26. Dr. Allen Hemple of New York will be in attendance.

It Just Seems

THAT the bride-to-be or graduate who is planning to make all her things this season will avoid this pattern or that, because so many feature pleating, hemstitching and other touches, which cannot possibly be achieved at home, but which literally make the frock. That's why I'm writing about the splendid place I know about, where it can be very efficiently done. Mrs. Rank, whose work is well known in Lincoln, does this in the Free sewing machvine department, right off the fabric section, at Rudge & Guenzel's. She has more new styles of pleating than you can imagine—box, side, space pleats and even those intricate ones that start at the waist in a side pleat and fall into a box pleat at the hem. You may leave material one day and call for it the next. On all work you may have one-day service.

"Off White"

IS prominent in the showing of smart wedding gowns this season. The shades of "off white" are old ivory, jade white, beige white and egg shell. However, models of "snow white" are still very much the vogue. Fashion dictates layers of white net arranged in uneven hemlines—or bouffant skirts entirely of petals. The material used in this model is invariably organdy over silk foundation. Deviating still further from the "off white" are delicate flesh chiffons.

When We Think

OF graduation time we naturally think of the graduates as girls, but that's not fair, because there are many men students that graduate and are eligible for gifts. If you want to be real nice to him and to yourself ('cause this is a bargain), stop in at Gold's and see those high grade strap watches for men at only $2.95. Just a nice convenient size and very attractive, to say nothing of their high quality. The girl grad may be made equally happy with one of those engraved ones with dainty strap or perhaps a more elaborate one with case of brilliants and sapphires. They are so dainty, so pretty, that she'll never dream the prices are only $6.95 and $12.95—and maybe it will be an incentive for her to be "on time" for the next date.

Sit Down, Get Pen and Ink

AND write a letter telling "Why You Buy Gooch's Best Bread." That's all you need do to enter this big contest they're having. Of course, you use Gooch's Best Bread, so 'twill be easy to think of the many reasons why you do. And, of course, writing a letter about it should be easier still. Be sure to write and send the letter so that it reaches the contest manager not later than midnight, May 31. And, just think, maybe your letter will bring you $100, $50 or $25—out of the twenty-five $5 prizes you ought to get one. Watch papers for more explicit rules, then mail your letter to Contest Manager, Gooch Food Products Company, Sixth and South streets, Lincoln, Neb. Twenty-eight chances to win! Are you in it?

Lace for Evening, Lace for Afternoon,

IN fact, everything is lace. It is invariably combined with georgette. Made draped, flounced, uneven hemlines and some with full long skirts. Creme, beige and black are important colors.

When You Least

EXPECT it "The Two Black Crows" are with us again. Their new record is a scream. Stop in at Schmoller & Mueller's and hear it. Take it and a few of their other newest Columbia and Victor records.

Many Graduating

STUDENTS will soon enter the business and professional world. What better gift can they receive than a beautiful fountain pen and pencil set, desk sets, beautiful leather novelties of all kinds? These may be found at Tucker-Shean's among their imposing display. The bride will take pleasure in receiving a lovely diary. The groom would enjoy a desk set or any number of things they are showing.

Out of Towners

WHO are coming to Lincoln for graduation exercises and weddings better have a permanent obtainable now at Mayer's for $5. Every one should have curly hair when the price is so low. The best gift for graduate or bride is a $5 permanent from Mayer's.

A Lucky Break

FOR the smart daughter, whose fond parents are so proud that she's graduated that they'll bestow on her a handsome wrist watch. Luckier still for some fond parents, if they select it at Harris-Goar's, for now they're offering the Parisienne Elgin with modernistic case for only $35. And to the "he-males" who've popped the question—they have lovely diamonds in 18-karat gold mountings generally selling for $85 and now for $60. Any jewelry purchased may be had on very easy payments—you know, they say, "Harris-Goar's for painless payments."

When Is a Runner

NOT a runner? When Ben Simon's menders have worked on it. You know, your runs, single or double, may be mended, or, I might say, reknitted to perfection. I saw some of their work and I do declare it was utterly impossible to find the place they had mended, so deftly was it done. Single runs are 35c and double runs are 45c. Snags and other defects are 10c. You may have quick service, too.

Permanent Waves!

WHY not get yours now and be prepared for the hot weather which is so devastating to all other curls. A guaranteed perfect permanent wave, given by expert operators, for only $5 at the Speier's Beauty Shop, 10th and O. Phone B6871.

Let me do your shopping. Anything from wedding trousseaus to trivial gifts for showers is my long suit. Write me in care of The Lincoln Star.

HOUSEWORK IS EASY FOR HEALTHY WOMEN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Gave These Women Strength

MRS. ROSA SWICEGOOD
R. 1, Woodleaf, N. C.

Woodleaf, N. C.—"I was nervous and suffered most of the time and sometimes I would have to go to bed. My sister told me she was in the same condition and how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her. After taking the first bottle I found I was stronger than I was before. Now I have taken three bottles, I can do my housework and most every other kind of work that I want to do. I will recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to anyone. I will answer all mail received asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Rosa Swicegood, R. 1, Woodleaf, N. C.

Benefited Beyond Expression

Jacksonville, Fla.—"I read an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have been taking it now for four years and find it a wonderful medicine for weak, run-down women. I do my own housework and work in an office besides and I would get cross and irritable and too sick to work. I have benefited beyond expression by the Vegetable Compound and will gladly answer letters from anyone who is suffering and needs help."—Mrs. Rose Morris, 2149 Walnut St., Jacksonville, Florida.

UNIVERSITY COEDS have crowned sixteen May queens since that pleasant custom became a part of the Ivy day ceremonies.

The first queen, then Miss Louise Barr, ascended her green throne in 1912. The seventeenth, the latest to be chosen of her contemporaries, will be made known Thursday at the annual university Ivy day.

Ivy day is far older than the exercises surrounding the crowning of the first queen, as it has existed in a more or less elaborate form since 1898, when only the seniors were excused from classes to take part in the ceremonies. Underclassmen were permitted no part in the day, and even the resting place of the first ivy is unknown. The planting of the ivy was the main event of the day.

Two years later the day became "senior day," and the program became rather more elaborate. An Ivy day oration, the reading of the class poem, and the announcement of the class gift was added to the day. R. W. Harbor, the senior president, planted the ivy on the south side of U hall, and gave the trowel to Sherman E. Black, the junior class president.

First May Pole Dance.

In 1903, the first May pole dance was given, and two years afterward, the Innocents first tapped those who were to carry on their work. The Black Masques, now the Mortar Boards, first masked their juniors on Ivy day of 1905.

The Innocents were responsible for making Ivy day an all-university tradition and an all-university holiday. Through their efforts, the whole of one May day was devoted to Ivy day, and, with the other classes as audience and with some of their members participating, the day has become one of the interesting festivals of the campus. It is now included in the annual Round-up, so that the alumni as well as the students may enjoy its traditional ceremonies.

In 1912, Louise Barr, now Mrs. Lewis R. Anderson of Lincoln, was elected the first May queen of the University of Nebraska at a co-ed class meeting. At the present time, the senior women chose their queen by the ballot box.

That Ivy day was a different affair from the Ivy days that we know, according to Mrs. Anderson. It was a colorful affair, certainly, in contrast to the pastel shades of the maids and the queens of these years.

Rode In Jinrikisha.

Mrs. Anderson didn't walk to her coronation, but rode in a jinrikisha, which had been given the late William Jennings Bryan in Japan when on his trip around the world and which he had loaned for the occasion. The junior girls had decorated the jinrikisha in scarlet poppies, and the Black Masque members pulled the vehicle from the Temple by way of the university library building to the throne.

The queen was robed in cream satin, which she frankly admits was borrowed for the occasion. She carried a staff, topped with a great sheaf of red and white roses, to carry out the crimson color note and that of the university colors. The junior girls carried the daisy chain for that first crowning on May 22, sixteen years ago.

After her graduation, Mrs. Anderson went as student secretary of the Y. W. C. A. to the University of Iowa, where she remained for three years. At that time, she was married to Lewis Anderson, also a university graduate, and resided at Fullerton for some time.

Three and one-half years ago they removed to Lincoln, and live at 2156 South Forty-eighth street. There are four children, Junior, 12 years of age, Alice, 10, Marie, 8, and Frank, 4.

May Queen of 1913.

Miss Helen Dinsmore was the May queen of 1913, and she is now Mrs. Otto Wiese of Omaha. Mr. Wiese received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Wisconsin, and took his M. A. at Nebraska. They have one daughter, Margaret Jean, now 9 years of age, who is some day coming to the university, perhaps to be a May queen, too.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Wiese taught one year at Harvard. At that time, they went to Laramie, Wya., where Mr. Wiese was assistant state chemist. When he entered the service during the war, Mrs. Wiese returned to her mother's home in Lincoln, and served as assistant to Mrs. Warner, home demonstration agent for Lincoln, under the supervision of the university extension service. During that time, Mrs. Wiese also took additional work in home economics at the university.

That line of work has always interested her, and she has followed it to some extent in Omaha. Since residing in Omaha, she has substituted in the schools and taugh home ecenomics in the summer. They moved to Omaha after Mr. Wiese returned from service.

Served As Head Dietitian.

Miss Gladys Bunt, the May queen of 1914, is now Mrs. Ralph Garrett of Tulsa, Okla. Her marriage took place in 1919, and she and Mr. Garrett went to Fort Worth, Tex., to make their home. Six years ago they went to Tulsa, where Mr. Garrett is an attorney. They have two sons, Ralph Wallace, jr., aged 8, and William Calvert, 6 years of age.

Miss Bunt served as head dietition at the University of Nebraska hospital following her graduation. She also was enlisted as a Red Cross dietitian for the period of the war. Mr. Garrett is also a graduate of the university.

Mrs. Charles Hauptman of Casper, Wyo., who as Miss Leila McNerney was the queen of 1915, says that her life history is far from sensational in any respect, but that she finds plenty to occupy her time with three small sons, Charles McNerney, aged 6 years, Stewart John, 4, and Homer Lee, 2. Mr. Hauptman received his degree from Nebraska in 1916.

After graduating from the university, Mrs. Hauptman taught for four years, two years in Osceola and two in Fairbury. In the summer of 1919, her marriage to Mr. Hauptman took place, and they went west "to seek the proverbial fortune."

Living In Casper.

For the first three years, Mr and Mrs. Hauptman resided in Denver, and then removed to the Salt Creek oil fields of Wyoming, where Mr. Hauptman has served as a petroleum engineer. At present, he is with the oil and gas leasing division of the United States Geological survey, and they make their home in Casper.

By 1917 Ivy day had become a really splendid affair, with something planned for every hour of the day and much of the evening. The crowning occupied much of the morning, and in the afternoon the tapping and masking was held at Electric park, where "the candy, the canines, the kiddies, and the cotillion crushed cruel cares." There were games and athletic contests, dancing both afternoon and evening, a picnic supper, dramatic sketches at night—and more dancing.

For that year, Miss Florence Angle was chosen as queen.

In the autumn, her marriage to Guy E. Reed took place and for some time they resided in Lincoln. Five years ago, they removed to Wilmette, Ill., when Mr. Reed accepted a position with the Harris Trust and Savings Co. of Chicago, Ill. They, with their two children, Robert, 10 years of age, and Barbara, 8, now reside in Wilmette, where they have just moved into a new home.

Mrs. Luckey A May Queen.

The May, queen of the following year was Miss Olive Lehmer. Following her graduation, Miss Lehmer taugh for two years in the Genoa high school and for three more years in the Lincoln high school.

In 1922, after her marriage to George Paul Luckey, she and Mr. Luckey went to live in Dayton, O., where Mrs. Luckey, as she says, enjoyed the airplane atmosphere of McCook field. A year ago they re-

Daring Feats Won Fame for Royal Thomas, Former Lincoln Aviator Who Was Killed In Recent Crash

BY A. GAYLORD.

Like a shooting star flashing downward across the sky with the speed of lightning, Lieut. Royal V. Thomas, super-airman without superiors and with but few equals, plunged to his death May 9 near Moonachie, N. J., in his big Bellanca monoplane, the Reliance.

It was in this plane that Thomas broke the world's record for solo flight endurance at Curtiss field, New York, just a week before his death. His record was 35 hours, 24 minutes, 59 seconds, and broke the record established by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his famous flight to Paris.

Taking off from Teterboro airport at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., on Wednesday, May 9, for the final test preliminary to a nonstop flight from New York to Rome, Italy, in the Bellanca airplane, accompanied by a mechanic, Thomas was speeding over the town of Moonachie, N. J., at a dangerously low altitude when something went wrong, and the plane shot earthward with the speed of a meteor—out of control.

Awaited Death.

Plunging downward at a speed greater than 200 miles an hour, with motor wide open, and the controls jammed or broken, Thomas sat in the tiny enclosed cabin of the Reliance watching the earth rush up to meet him—powerless to avert the catastrophe, and with the certain knowledge that death was only two or three brief seconds, two or three heart beats away.

What must have taken place in that little cabin during those scant seconds before the heavy-nosed Bellanca crashed, burying itself nearly half its length in the ground?

Undoubtedly Thomas tried every possible way to pull that heavy nose up and away from the ground—but to no avail. With controls jammed or broken, no human could have checked the downward rush of the huge roaring powerplant on that fatal Wednesday. It couldn't have been done, or Thomas could, and would, have done it.

Given so much as a tail feather, Thomas could and would have managed some way to keep that big airplane up long enough to check its speed and land it safely, right side up—and on three points. I have seen him do it with less control than a small tail feather—but not when plunging toward the earth at such terrific speed.

That speed! There was the trouble. That, and the fact that he lacked altitude. Altitude, in such a situation, is equivalent to time—precious time. Given 500 or 1,000 feet more of altitude, Thomas would be alive today, in my opinion—and, quite likely, on his way to Rome, far out over the Atlantic.

Not A Chance.

But a mere 400-foot drop at such terrific speed gave him less time than the batting of an eyelid. With that big motor turning over so fast that it was almost ready to burst into a million fragments from the tremendous centrifugal force, and with gravity pulling her big nose downward with irresistible strength because of that great speed; unable, perhaps, to close the throttle, and with controls jammed—what chance did Thomas have? No chance.

And yet, knowing Thomas as I knew him, I know he faced death there in that little cabin of the big Bellanca in exactly the same way he had faced death many, many times before—unflinchingly; though perhaps, with the same old feeling of abiding faith or conviction that he would come out of it alive, just as he always had before.

Thomas was not reckless—he had just as strong a desire to live and enjoy life as the rest of us. He was not careless—always working about the plane when not eating, or sleeping, or in the air. He wasted no time loafing. He was quiet; he was modest. He always had a smile for everyone. He was just a big, likeable boy, full of the adventurous spirit of youth.

Loved To Fly.

He did not seek personal glorification—he did the things he did, simply because he loved to fly. To Thomas flying was fascinating, appealing, alluring—as necessary to him as water is to a fish.

He did not fear death. Rarely did he mention death. I have never heard him express a single thought of a serious "crack up." There was no place in his mind for such morbid forebodings.

When asked to do so, he would relate his experiences and narrow escapes, briefly and modestly—but always humorously, and, apparently, without realization or thought of the seriousness of those dangerous situations in which he had found himself so many times in the past.

And yet, somehow, I believe he must have had a premonition before setting out on his last big adventure. For, on March 31, in a letter telling me about his new Reliance airplane and his plans for a nonstop flight from New York to Rome, he closed with these words:

"If I don't crack up, the next two months should be full of action."

Now, of course, "If I don't crack up" does not necessarily mean that he believed he would "crack up." But, coming from a man like Thomas, it was very strange, to say the least. At any rate, so it seems to one of his very close friends. Thomas was not given to such speculation, mild as it may have been.

Indeed, I doubt that he ever seriously considered the fact that he surely would "crack up" for the last time if he stayed with it long enough. He must have known, of course, that some day he would die just so—but he wasted no time thinking about it. He lived from day to day. He was thoroughly familiar with the hazards of his calling—and he accepted them as a matter of course, just like every other aviator who deliberately chooses to remain in the game.

Flames Take Plane.

If Thomas had feared death he would have quit flying some eight years ago when he made a safe landing with an airplane in flames, stepped out, and stood by watching his plane burn to ashes.

Or, if not then, certainly some six years ago out at the old south field, when he found himself only about 200 feet up in an old Jenny on its back and tail with a dead motor—and a passenger, ex-Pilot Holcomb, now of University Place. Without even a small tail-feather control, Thomas succeeded in some miraculous manner in keeping that ship up in the air, or rather in checking its descent, for the few precious seconds necessary for him to start an Immelman turn and flip the old Jenny over, right side up, when within thirty feet from the ground. He then glided on down and would again have made a 3-point landing under stress of such circumstances had not the tip of one wing grazed the side of a small hill on what now forms part of the Country Club golf course, and swung the plane's nose on around into the hill. As it was both fliers came out of it with a few minor bruises. Thomas had an uncanny ability to handle a plane in dangerous situations. This was because of his iron nerve and cool, calm judgment—in which he was unsurpassed.

Had No Fear.

And two weeks later he and the writer were stunting over Lincoln, testing new wings preparatory to his now famous Grand canyon flight. I know that Thomas thought no more of a "crack up" than he did of brushing a mosquito off the back of his neck. Another "crack up" might come, just as another mosquito might annoy him momentarily. But, as with the mosquito, Thomas simply brushed the crack up from his mind instantly, and set about his preparations for the next big adventure.

And the old south field incident was no exception to the rule. Two weeks from that time he hopped off from here in his Lincoln Standard biplane, accompanied by "Dare Devil Dick" Hazelrigg, headed for the Grand canyon of Arizona—to be the first, and thus far the only, aviator to fly to the bottom of that huge crater, a mile below the surface of the earth.

Who ever heard or dreamed of flying an airplane down into the very bowels of the earth—before Thomas made that remarkable flight on August 8, 1922?

Who would think of even trying such a hazardous feat, but Thomas?

And who, but Thomas, could have succeeded in that marvelous and daring undertaking?

Canyon diving?

The things was unheard of before August 8, 1922!

But not so a few days later, for the story spread like wildfire throughout the country. That story was published in most of the big daily newspapers from coast to coast. So marvelous was that feat considered that it brought to the canyon a Fox News Reel cameraman—I was about to say "on the run."

A Second Time.

And just ten days duplicated the feat—this time with the Fox News reel cameraman as a passenger, "working his way." This man's name was Anthony A. Ugrin, and gamester that he was, he secured a splendid motion picture of the flight from rim to bottom.

Do you know that the Grand Canyon of Arizona is from ten to twenty miles wide and a mile deep? Do you know that far down in that gigantic gash in the earth is a chain of subterranean mountains? Their jagged, ragged peaks reaching up to snare and trip the unwary aviator and send him hurtling to his death thousands of feet below? Do you know that the most treacherous air currents, eddies, and whirlpools are found in that awe-inspiring crevice? The analogy between those air currents, eddies and whirlpools, and water currents, water eddies, and water falls is almost perfect.

For a distance of about half a mile out into the canyon from the rim, especially in the afternoons, a terrific "upward" current of hot air prevails. This is because the walls of the canyon heat the air and it shoots upward in a solid, unyielding mass, forced up, also, no doubt, by the mass of cold air farther out in the big gulch. Out there in the canyon is a similar current, but its direction is downward—a strong "down" current of cold air.

Treacherous Air.

In fact, the canyon with its internal air currents—up and down; this way and that—is simply a giant's churn. For an aviator to fly out into the canyon at an altitude of less than 1,000 feet above the rim is almost equivalent to committing suicide then and there. Even though he might pass these natural barriers safely, there are the even more treacherous aerial whirlpools farther out—above the subterranean crags and pinnacles. Should he be so unfortunate as to slip into one of those aerial whirlpools, the probabilities are that the wings of his ship would be twisted off in the twinkling of an eye.

Imagine, if you will, a tiny landing spot away down there at the very bottom of that giant's churn, little larger than an ordinary city lot or two, and entirely surrounded by sharp peaks, boulders and deep gashes in the solid rock bottom. And away off there to one side is a slender, very slender, silver thread coiled about along the bottom—the Colorado river. Now across that tiny landing spot, imagine a strong, shifting wind, blowing first from one direction and then another—changing its direction so rapidly as to cause a variation of 60 degrees in the short time it would take an airplane to circle that small field once! There you are!

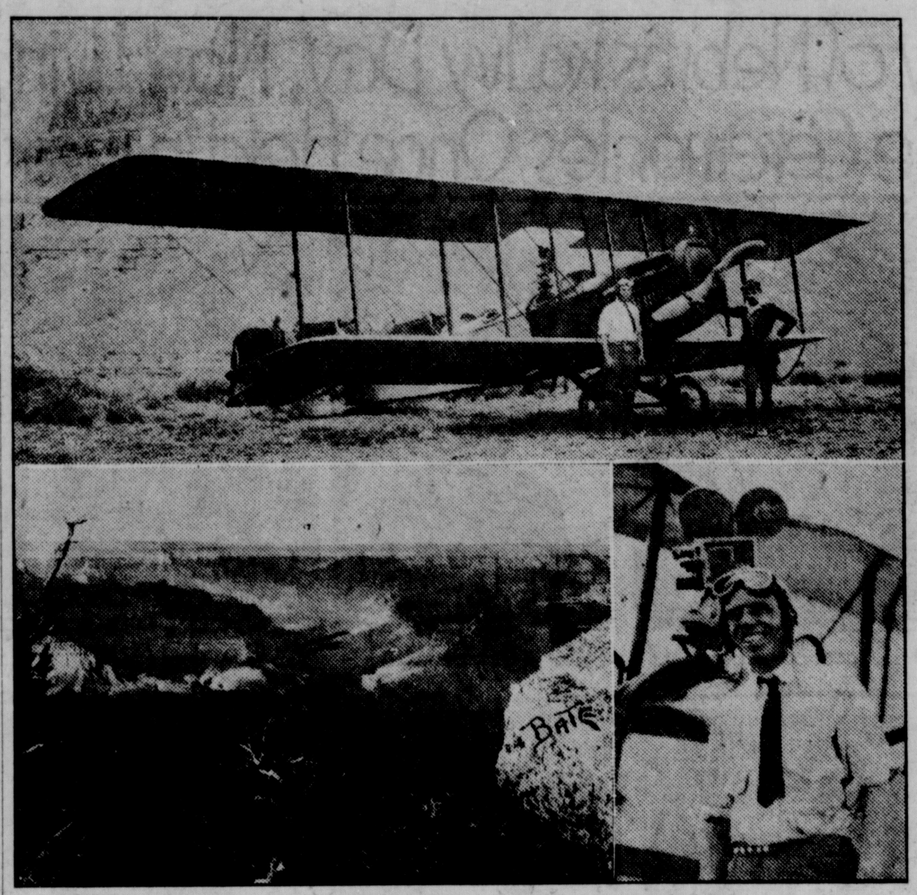
Did Thomas set his ship down on that tiny, wind-blown field?

He did! And how?

Makes Plunge.

At an altitude of 2,000 feet above the rim, Thomas circled out over the canyon to test the air. He returned shortly and dropping low took some pictures of El Tovar hotel and the other buildings dotting the rim. Then circling for altitude once more, he headed straight for the edge of the big cut!

The motor was ticking like clockwork. Up to the rim, and then, with, with a throttled motor, he dropped slowly over and down—down into that giant's churn of angry cross-currents of "boiling" air!



The upper picture shows Royal V. Thomas with his plane and Anthony A. Ugrin, Fox cameraman, in the Grand Canyon of the Arizona. Subterranean mountains are shown in the background. Lieutenant Thomas, who plunged to his death with his Bellanca monoplane at Hasbrouch, N. J., recently, was a former Lincoln aviator, and was the first man to fly to the bottom of the canyon, a mile below the earth's surface. On the lower left, Lieutenant Thomas is flying with hplane, and at the right is a closeup of the late flyer at the bottom of the canyon.

The plane rocked violently as it struck those rough aerial seas. Far below were rocks, pinnacles, crags, peaks—and only one tiny spot where an airplane could safely land!

Bright Angel trail crept up under the nose of the plane, twisting and winding its way back and forth—the plane apparently anchored in midair, with the ground beneath moving always backward and upward—until that serpentine trail was lost from sight at the rim of that devil's bowl.

Thomas looked over his shoulder and smiled—he was thinking of the many long hours he had spent riding down and up that tortuous trail on the back of a donkey in search of a possible landing spot.

A group of pygmies on toy donkeys drew gradually into view under the nose of the Lincoln standard. A wave of the hand and an instant later they were looking down upon the plane; whereas, a moment before they had been gazing aloft at the ship and its daring pilot.

Indian Gardens crawled slowly upward toward the suspended ship; then the watering place, and plane passed out between Hopi point and Mojave point and into the great plateau section of the canyon.

Between and around towering crags and pinnacles shot the plane with a firm, steady hand on the joystick. Gradually descending, but picking his way carefully, Thomas at last was within easy gliding distance of his miniature airport. But, did he land? No!

Used Tailspin.

Circling again, in ever-widening circles, he climbed back up to within a thousand feet of the rim. And then—

The motor slowed down to a quiet purr. Thomas waved his hand to the astounded tourists dotting the rim above him. The nose of the plane suddenly shot up. One wing dropped. The nose toppled over, and the plane shot downward. The tail wiggled and twisted. Down, down, down—500 feet, 800 feet, 1,000 feet—the ship was dropping in a crazy fashion, nose down, tail twisting, at terrifying speed, for all the world like a great crippled bird.

Suddenly the motor began to roar. The plane straightened out, and then darted out on a level course once more.

The most dangerous and yet the most useful stunt then known to aviators—the tail spin—had been executed for the first time in the very bowels of the earth!

The huge, graceful eagle turned slowly, circling gradually downward, and with diminishing speed glided toward the small landing spot among the boulders. Settling down gently, very gently, it rolled on across that tiny cleared space—and stopped at the very edge of a precipice, an 1,800-foot sheer drop but a few inches away!

Cameraman Game.

It could hardly be said that this tail spin to the bottom of the canyon appealed to Anthony A. Ugrin, cameraman for the Fox News Reel, but, nevertheless, he was game. As Thomas told it:

"Cameraman Anthony held his nerve fine until I told him we would tail spin down. Then he suggested he would prefer to get out and walk. But I whipped her into a spin—and Anthony continued to crank. Then, when I levelled off, Anthony wanted more!"

After leaving the canyon Thomas stopped at Prescott, Ariz. And this is the way he stopped. I quote from a letter from his dated August 21, 1922:

"Started over here from Williams, but followed the wrong railroad after cutting across country. Finally landed about forty miles below here. To land on mesa, went about ten miles after deciding I was off the trail. When I got to the mesa I found it covered with rocks. Was short of gas, so had to land. Broke a shock absorber and tore some holes in the end of the lower wing. Carried five gallons of gas up on a horse and put on a new absorber. Then took off. Landed here with three gallons of gas."

And that was Thomas—the superairman with no superiors and but few equals; hero of many aerial adventurers and hairbreadth escapes.

If you ask me, that is likewise every other aviator who is still in the game today—it takes real men to become and remain in that fascinating but dangerous pastime.

Shall we add another name to the growing list, lest it be forgotten?

BAPTISTS MEET HERE THIS WEEK

Annual Session First Nebraska Association May 24-25.

The seventy-first annual meeting of the First Nebraska Association of Baptist churches will be held Thursday and Friday, May 24 and 25, at the Sheridan Boulevard Baptist church, Sheridan boulevard and South streets. Rev. Herbert Ford of the Sheridan church is moderator of the association and Miss Laura Easter is clerk.

The Thursday meeting opens at 7:30 p. m. and addresses will be made by Rev. James MacPherson of the Second Baptist church in Lincoln and S. V. Hollingworth of the Baptist Mission Press at Rangoon, Burma.

Sessions will be held all day Friday beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning. The women's session will be held at 2:30 o'clock and the young people's banquet at 6 p. m. A pageant by the W. W. G. of the Second Baptist church, beginning at 8:15 p. m. is the final event on the program.

The entire program follows:

May 24.

7:30 p. m.—Praise service, Rev. W. D. Bancroft.

7:50 p. m.—Address, "Expanding Horizons in World Brotherhood," Rev. James MacPherson.

8:20 p. m.—Address by S. V. Hollingworth, of the Baptist Mission Press, Rangoon, Burma.

May 25.

9 a. m.—Devotional, Rev. A. J. Skinner.

9:20 a. m.—Business session, reading of church letters, appointment of committees.

10 a. m.—Address, "Making Religious Education Effective in the Local Church," Rev. S. F. Riepma, D. D.

10:30 a. m.—Discussion of the religious education program, led by Rev. Ezra Duncan.

11 a. m.—Address, "Christian Education in the Small College," Rev. C. H. Wolcott.

11:15 a. m.—Address, "The Christian Life of University Students," Rev. C. J. Pope, D. D.

11:30 a. m.—Annual sermon, "Dare We Be Christians?" Rev. J. M. Carl.

12:15 p. m.—Luncheon.

1:30 p. m.—Devotional, Rev. W. A. Taylor.

1:45 p. m.—Address, "Baptists in Nebraska," Rev. H. Q. Morton, D. D.

8:15 p. m.—Pageant, by W. W. G. of Second Baptist church.

Nebraska Governor As He Looked In "Gay Nineties"

Gaze on these two callow youths, dressed in the garb that was common during the closing years of the nineteenth century, and see if you can discover a very prominent political leader of the present day.

Maybe you won't believe it, but the young man on the right is—or rather, was—Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska. There can't be any mistake about it, because the governor himself found this picture the other day, hidden between the pages of an old book and identified the personages in it—with some difficulty—as himself and Paul Pizey, a fellow student at the University of Nebraska along about 1894 or 1895.

"Looks a little odd, doesn't it?" remarked Mr. McMullen as he submitted the photo (post card size) to some of his friends.

"Those togs, however, were in the mode at the time," he continued. "I know they were because I prided myself on being something of a college swell in those days and I wouldn't have worn any kind of raiment not affected by the best dressers in the university. The sartorial outfit may seem outlandish now, but it was right in style then.

"Pizey was business manager of the Hesperian, the university newspaper, published once a month, and I was a member of the editorial staff. In this picture we are evidently looking over a copy of the latest edition, hot from the press. He seems to be reading aloud an article which I must have written, and I suppose I am waiting to hear him say: 'That's a masterpiece.'

"I have a group photo down home at Beatrice, though, showing the whole Hesperian staff, which beats this. Maybe I'll bring it up and let you see it, if you don't l augh too hard at this one."

Sixteen May Queens Have Been Crowned At University of Nebraska In Ivy Day Ceremonies

moved all their possessions, including their son, George William, to Lancaster, Pa., where they now live. Lancaster is a quaint little town on the Lincoln highway about sixty miles west of Philadelphia, and there Mrs. Luckey keeps house, gardens, and teaches her 3 year old son.

The war queen was Miss Edith Yungblut, and the ivy for her Ivy day ceremonies was sent by Herbert Reese and Marcus Poteet from France for the ceremonies. The exercises of that year were united into a coherent whole, and were of marked beauty, notwithstanding the deeper thought given it by the cadets carrying the Allied flags and Nebraska's service flag, on which some stars had then turned to gold.

Living In Massachusetts.

Miss Yungblut's marriage to Paul Babson, Nebraska '17, took place February 26, 1919, and for four years they made their home in Oak Park, Ill. In March, 1923, they moved to Wellesley, Mass. They have one son, Donald, 4 years of age. Mr. Babson publishes United Business Service in Boston and is president of the Babson Park company in Babson Park, Mass.

Mrs. Babson is serving as director and federation secretary of the Wellesley Mills Women's club. She is also second vice president of the Woman's union of the Wellesley Congregational church.

In 1919, the senior girls of the university selected Miss Katherine Kohl as May queen. Following her commencement, she spent one year as instructor in the physical education department of the university.

Her marriage to H. Channing Collins of Lincoln took place in August, 1920, and she and Mr. Collins have always made their home in Lincoln. There is one little daughter, Roberta Katherine, 3 years of age.

Miss Waters Selected.

The following year, Miss Mary Waters was chosen for the highest honor in the gift of the senior girls. For the last two years, she and her husband, Edgar C. Tullis have been residents of East Lansing, Mich., where Mr. Tullis teaches botany and is working for his doctorate, which he will receive this year.

For one year following her graduation, Mrs. Tullis was instructor in the Blair high school, and for the next three years, she taugh biology at Omaha Central high school. The next two years, Mrs. Tullis spent at the University of Nebraska, and in 1926 received her master of arts degree. In June of that year, her marriage took place.

Mrs. Raymond Westover, who was formerly Miss Ada Stidworthy, the May queen of 1921, is another of the former queens making her home in Lincoln. The family, which includes two young sons, Brooks, 2 years of age, and Wynn Earl, just 3 months old, has just moved into a new home at 3224 Pershing road east.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Westover taught one and one-half years in York, where she was supervisor of physical education. At that time she returned to Lincoln, and spent two years as instructor in the physical education department of the university. Her marriage took place in 1923.

Grace Stuff Chosen In 1922.

In 1922, Miss Grace Stuff served as queen. After her graduation, she spent the summer in New York attending the national school of the Y. W. C. A. for professional study. In the fall of that year, she went to Minneapolis as girl reserve secretary of the central branch of the Y. W. C. A. Following a couple of months at home, owing to the illness of her mother, Miss Stuff became a member of the Lincoln Y. W. C. A. staff as girl reserve secretary.

Leaving Lincoln in September, 1926, she became associated with the rural communities department of the national board of the Y. W. C. A., with headquarters in Chicago. During that time, Miss Stuff traveled in the middle west, making an intensive survey of the small communities in which the association has club work. The survey was done under the Ford fund, which was given to the rural department to conduct a series of studies of the social and economic life of the small community.

Miss Stuff completed her work with that department, and on January 1, 1928, became a member of the Girl Reserve staff of the national board of the Y. W. C. A. Her headquarters are in New York, and she has the responsibility of more than 400 Girl Reserve clubs in small communities. Miss Stuff does some traveling in connection with her work, although at this time her job majors on administrative responsibility. During the summer, she will serve as executive at two national Girl Reserve conferences one at Estes park in June and the other at Lake Okoboji in July.

Double Wedding.

Mrs. James F. Fiddock of Omaha is another queen of the May who insists her life has been neither exciting or unusual, only busy. She, Miss Mildred Hullinger, was queen in 1923, when her sister, Miss Valora Hullinger, was president of the Mortar Board.

Mrs. Fiddock taught in the primary department of her home town, Villisca, Ia., for two years following her graduation. The next fall she and Mr. Fiddock, an Innocent of the same year in the university, were married at a double ceremony with her sister and Fred Royse, another university man.

"For the Fiddocks' wedding trip we went around on the territory, for my husband was traveling then. We met heaps of school mates on the trip, for the territory included parts of Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, and South Dakota."

Since 1926, the family has resided in Omaha. There is a small May queen there, Valora Jean, who is nearly 2 years old.

In 1924, Miss Jean Holtz was the university's May queen. Two years later her marriage to Lawrence Finney took place, and they resided in St. Joseph, Mo., until they returned to Lincoln in December of last year. Before her marriage, Mrs. Finney taugh for two years in Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. Finney is now teaching in the Hayward school in Lincoln. Her plans for another year are not definite, but she and Mr. Finney are planning to move from the city.

Miss Warner Is Teaching.

Miss Kathryn Warner, the May queen of 1925, has been teaching in Sioux City in the North Junior school during the past year. Her work consists of music, being music director of the building and having about 800 children under her supervision. She plans to return to Sioux City next year for the same work. The first two years after her graduation, Miss Warner taught music and English in the senior high school at Fremont.

Miss Dorothy Carr, who was May queen at the university two years ago, has not had sufficient years since that time to do any great variety of things. Following her commencement in 1926, Miss Carr went to Mitchell, Neb., where she served as English instructor for one year. The last twelve months she has beena t home, enjoying a rest from both school and teaching.

The latest May Queen — that is until next Thursday—is Miss Josephine Frisbie, who is yet a student. She will take her master's degree in classics in June, and her plans for another year are indefinite.

Willard School Children Produce Own Cantata From Their Study of Indian Lore During Year

As a climax of several weeks of creative work, the children of Willard school appeared in a cantata, "Childhood of Hiawatha," Thursday evening. The upper picture shows the banquet scene, the final ensemble of the dramatization, which consisted of readings, tableaux, and music. In the lower picture, Hiawatha is shown with his brothers, the little animals of the fields.

Living where the Omahas and the Pawnees once roamed, playing on the paths they once took for their annual treks, it is not surprising the little children of Willard school are interested in the lore of the red man.

They have learned much from their class room work. But the history of the Indians of all times isn't quite the impersonal subject it might be to these boys and girls, and, with the aid of the teachers, they have brought the Indian atmosphere into all of their subjects.

It started with the routine learning of the habits, customs, beliefs of Indians. It ended in a cantata, "Childhood of Hiawatha," Thursday evening, when the youngsters gave in dramatic form their knowledge of the red man, as they have learned it in the past months.

The program was not a mere repetition of the thoughts of others. Its chief interest lay in the fact that it was in a large measure the dramatization of the creative ability of the children. As they reacted to the monotony of the music, the chant of the lines of "Hiawatha," the legends of their life, the program showed their feelings.

After they had studied for some time, it was decided to see what real gain the youngsters had from their study, to see if they had more than an examination's worth, if they had something that they could take away for future pleasure and worth. Miss Annette Abbott, the principal, was interested in learning what the children received from the standpoint of appreciation as a background for literature, art, music and other subjects.

Show Creative Ability.

In addition to the mastery and interpretation of the musical score of the cantata, the children displayed marked creative ability in allied lines. In studying the portion of Hiawatha concerned with his childhood, one sixth grade boy suggested the death dance of the warriors as suitable for an interpretative dance. A group of boys then worked out the rhythm and steps of the dance, using "Asa's Death" from "The Peer Gynt Suite" for the score.

A group of little girls, listening to the story of the rainbow, worked out a rainbow dance, with "Morning" from the same suite for the music. They planned the steps, the arrangement of colors, and the costumes.

Different groups of pupils studied the Indian arts, in connection with the Indian poem. The eighth grade studied the composition of Indian music, and reported on their findings, another group took up their artists, and art designs, and all were taken to the museum and shown Indian pottery and weaving.

Studied Legends.

Connecting it with the study of literature, the children memorized the text of Hiawatha's childhood. They also read Indian legends and stories of all times, and one of the older boys made a report on Longfellow and the story back of his writing of Hiawatha.

In history study, of course, the children were impressed with the former extent of the Indian tribes in both North and South America. The fourth and fifth grades, using their knowledge for geography, found a study of Indian place names of great interest.

The girls of the home arts classes dyed their own costumes, as a part of their share in the Indian study. Not only did they dye the materials, but they worked out their own colors and designs. It worked out par-

Halldorson and Mrs. R. G. Smith. Other guests were: Mrs. W. S. Bostder, Mrs. Haroid Cook, Mrs. Ralph Hoatson, Mrs. H. Oltmanns, Mrs. T. P. Larison, Miss Edith Hilton, Mrs. Arthur Stark, and Mrs. Roy Work. A short program was given as follows: musical reading, Marjorie Gerlach, Harrison; vocal solo, Hazel Smith, Chadron; musical reading, Helen Logan, Morrill; and piano solo, Genevieve Williams, of Chadron. Roses were presented to the guests as favors.

Superintendent Fuller L. Austin of Gordon called at the college on Tuesday, May 15, and consulted the placement bureau in regard to the teachers for next year.

A group of high school students in the play production class went to Whitney with their teacher, Miss Elizabeth G. Tohill, Wednesday, May 9, where a series of four one-act plays wah presented presented in the Whitney auditorium.

The annual spring swimming meet was held Thursday, May 10, under direction of Miss Thelma Short. The events were as follows: plunge for distance, breast stroke, for speed, side stroke for form, 80 foot dash, trudgeon form, back form, 40 foot dash, racing back speed, breast form, side for speed, diving, under water speed, porpoise form, and shuttle relay (high school versus college.)

The third annual May music festival was given by the city of Chadron in conjunction with the college, under direction of Prof. R. E. Yarndley, Friday, May 18. The morning program was presented by Oscar Bennett, baritone, of Wesleyan university. A prelude to his recital was given by Normal Training school orchestra, conducted by Roy Peterson. This organization won first prize at the district contest at Sidney, April 27. The afternoon program was presented by Miss Vivien Bard, pianist, Terre Haute, Ind. and Edward Millstone, violinist, Denver. Miss Bard was at the head of the piano department in the college about six years ago. The evening program was mainly devoted to the oratorio. "The Messiah," portions only of which were given. The chorus consisted of eighty voices, supported by the college orchestra under direction of Prof. R. E. Yarndley and solists. A half hour prelude to the oratorio was furnished by the artists mentioned. Miss Vivien O'Brien served as accompanist to them throughout the programs.

Rural Recreation Institute To Be Held At State Fair Grounds

A two-day rural recreation institute will be held at the state fair grounds May 31 and June 1 for the purpose of training people to lead in community games, community singing, and social recreation. The program begins each day at 9 a. m. and closes at 9 p. m. Every hour in the day has been planned for.

This rural recreation training course will be under the direct leadership of J. R. Batchelor, district representative of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, and Earl Johnson, director of recreation of Lincoln and of physical education in the Lincoln schools. They will be assisted by Miss Edyth Weichselbaum, assistant director of recreation of Lincoln.

Although this training course has been planned primarily for Lancaster county, county superintendents, school officers, teachers, officers of Parent-Teacher associations, leaders in women's clubs, 4-H club leaders, and other leaders in rural communities from all parts of the state are cordially invited to be present and participate.

The two-day program will include discussions and practical demonstrations of how to mix people together, get them into games of all kinds, handle contests, conduct table games and contests, and stage long and short programs.

Doubtless other countries will later be interested in holding recreation institutes.

The institute program follows:

Thursday.

9-10 a. m. Social recreation, introduction, games, and mixers.
10-11 a. m. Announcements, statements of plans, "The Place of Recreation in Rural Life."
11-12 Community music, singing, and song leading.
12-2 p. m. Lunch; table games
2-3 p. m. Community singing and song leading.
3-4 p. m. Picnic games and outdoor farm activities.
4-5 p. m. Contests; horseshoe, volleyball, and playground ball.
5-6 p. m. Dinner; table games, pencil and paper games.
6-7 p. m. Reports of clubs and groups.
7-8 p. m. Music clubs, harmonica, ukelele, choruses, quartets.
8-9 p. m. Dramatics, games, charades and pantomines.

Friday.

9-10 a. m. Mixers and get acquainted games, relays and circle games.
10-11 a. m. Invitations and programs.
11-12 Progressive game party.

"MY RESPONSIBILITY TO MYSELF."

Heywood Broun, who carved a niche for himself in journalism as a member of the staff of The New York World, is still fulminating because he was discharged for "disloyalty."

In the last issue of The Nation, Mr. Broun uses a page to explain his position but instead of improving his case he weakens it. Mr. Broun says his "disloyalty" consisted in thinking and saying that The World was sometimes silent when there was need for clamor. He had in mind particularly the Sacco-Vanzetti case, to which he addressed his comment vigorously and unsparingly. He says an executive of the newspaper informed him it was necessary to be cautious in commenting upon the case because some wild-eyed Red, inflamed by the publication's criticism of the workings of justice, might throw a bomb.

Mr. Broun found this admonition amusing. The thought flashed through his mind, he says, that he had no recollection of a World editorial, which would propel a bomb six inches, and in his judgment the attitude of the paper had been distinctly craven. Any editor who lives in terror about what effect his words may have upon the lunatic fringe of society might just as well confine himself to comments on the weather. And then Mr. Broun tells of an interview with Ralph Pulitzer, the owner and son of the distinguished under. He told Mr. Pulitzer the newspaper did not sume responsibility for the opinions of a columnist. He told Mr. Pulitzer he did not think of himself as a World man; there was no point in thinking the same things and saying the same things as the editorial staff. The reply to this was characteristic of the publisher of The World. "Heywood," Broun quotes young Pulitzer as saying, "a separate entity within an entity is what we call a cancer."

Broun's statement, no doubt, will furnish the champions of academic freedom with fresh proof that free thought is being trampled under foot. We may expect to hear a great deal about a subservient press, which dare not express its real convictions upon public issues, and which keeps an alert and watchful eye upon the cash draw. There are a lot of people in the United States who actually believe that rot. They have persuaded themselves that the advertiser does control the news columns and the editorial page, and it is a waste of time and breath to attempt to convince them otherwise.

Another large group, with a liberal sprinkling among the professors and instructors of American colleges and universities, can be classed as "free" thinkers. They are "free" thinkers so long as they do the thinking. They are generally the most intolerant and bigoted of all; the most positive in conviction.

In connection with the Sacco-Vanzetti case, Mr. Broun may have had the opportunity for superior information to that placed before the jury and judge in the trial court. He may have had better information than the Supreme court which reviewed the record, than the governor who made a painstaking investigation of the facts, and than the special commission appointed by the governor to go through the record. It requires colossal conceit to insist all of these duly authorized agencies of the state were wrong and a columnist for The New York World was right. And yet Mr. Broun insisted upon setting up his judgment against all of these representatives of the government and when his paper asked him to take a more rational view of the case he insisted his freedom of expression was being denied him. And notwithstanding that mobs stormed the American embassies in a half dozen foreign cities while gigantic protest parades were staged in a score of cities in the United States, Mr. Broun laughs at the idea that violence might be inspired by his utterances.

A man's first responsibility to himself is to adopt a normal, sane and rational outlook on life.

From earliest boyhood he knows that his liberty has its limitations. He recognizes that he should not and cannot, without subjecting himself to possible prosecution, give voice to every half-baked notion which comes into his head. His life is a compromise of his desires and his ambitions with the needs and necessities of orderly society. In thought and action he must consider what the possible result will be not only to himself but to his friends and neighbors. Modern civilization is far removed from the jungle where might holds sway over right and justice. We doubt that government could continue to survive in a country where the orderly processes of law are to be subjected to the continuous and relentless attack of opinionated columnists, who are hopelessly out of gear with everything and everyone.

If the conditions were reversed, and Mr. Broun had been the owner and Mr. Pulitzer the columnist, possibly the former might see the humor of the situation. He would have lost no time in bouncing the young Mr. Pulitzer who was impertinent enough to suggest that what Mr. Broun might happen to think was of no consequence.

THE OLDEST DYNASTY.

The Associated Press Thursday announced that diplomatic relations between Ethiopia and the United States had been resumed after a lapse of nineteen years, and described the reception at the capital of of the empire of Addison E. Southard of Louisville, Ky., who is to represent this government as minister resident and consul general. He was accompanied by his wife and child.

Mr. Southard has been accredited to the court of the most ancient dynasty in existence in the world today, compared to which any European royal family must be considered as in the strictly modern class. For Empress Waizeru Zauditu and her cousin, Ras Taffari, regent and heir apparent, trace their ancestry back to the Queen of Sheba and King Solomon, that famous queen having occupied the throne nearly 3,000 years ago.

Ras Taffari is one of the three absolute monarchs now living, the other two being the king of Siam and the ameer of Afghanistan, now just finishing a tour of Europe. Ras Taffari is enlightened and progressive, he also, in 1924, having made a tour of Europe. He is well educated.

Minister Southard's account of his reception tells of having been met at the train by the prince regent's "own motor car" and taken to the Imperial hotel, later to be taken to the audience hall in a "palace motor car bearing the royal coat of arms." When he had made these two trips he had ridden in two-fifths of all the automobiles in Abyssinia. For that is not a country of wheeled vehicles, Addis Ababa, the capital, having one stretch of street paved with rough cobble stones and there being a road extending a short distance outside the city. That is all.

The railroad over which Mr. Southard reached Addis Ababa extends 500 miles from the Gulf of Aden on the east and it takes the train three days to make the journey. There is no running in the night, principally through fear that members of nomadic tribes may tear up a section of the track, cause a wreck, rob the passengers and freight cars.

For many centuries the capital of Ethiopia was movable, being located in one place until the supply of firewood in that vicinity was exhausted and then moved to another. In 1892, while Menelik II was on the throne, there was agitation for moving the seat of government, but some foreign nations had invested in consulates in Addis Ababa and they objected. Menelik accordingly introduced the quick-growing Eucalyptus tree and the capital, now being surrounded by a forest, will probably retain its present location forever.

Ras Taffari is doing the best that he can to advance his country and it was at his solicitation that the United States sent a representative to his capital. But it will take many generations to bring Abyssinia up to anything like modern civilization. The people are Christians, mainly of the Coptic church, are tractable and loyal to the dynasty, but their contact with the world has been extremely limited. Improvement must be slow, but it is to be hoped that Mr. Southard will find ways of helping in this respect.

MORE HONEST BUSINESS.

More than a score of organizations have come into existence in America in the last twenty years to improve the methods of doing business. They are engaged in the task of driving the shyster and the crooked business man out of the fields of trade and commerce. Columns of material are prepared for publications, and hundreds of speeches are delivered at meetings, in which the predominating note is honest business.

Do the American people realize what progress has been made?

It was not an uncommon thing in the old days for the grocer to water the milk which he sold or adulterate the coffee. Sometimes he permitted defective scales to remain in use long after he discovered they were shortweighing customers. We have laws today which prevent adulteration of foodstuffs, and which compel honest weights. We have those laws because they represent the deliberate sentiment of the American people. And the business man of today is glad that we have those laws because he would prefer to do business on an honest standard. The old order existed simply because nearly everyone was doing it and saw no harm in it. It used to be that certtain large concerns received special rebates or privileges from transportation companies. They get them no longer, and both the concern which received the rebate and the railroad which gave it are glad the practice no longer prevails. The one receiving the concession never knew whether he was getting as much as the other fellow.

Business still has its men who will employ sharp practices if given the opportunity but they are rare. The average business man would prefer to do business honestly because he recognizes that to be successful it must be honest. They maintain high standards not only because it is the best policy but because they want to do right and are essentially honest.

The most satisfying view of American life is reflected in its business and industrial activities. They are characterzed by a brand of idealism towards which humanity has been struggling for many years.

TRICKED ONCE AGAIN.

Perhaps western and central western congressmen and senators will discover some time that the Atlantic seaboard plays a practical game of politics.

After abandoning their views on tax reduction at the insistence of President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon and eastern legislators in the new revenue measure which is being framed, the west awoke to find itself confronted with a new threat of repeal of the federal inheritance tax. Now a group in the senate is furious because they claim to have had a definite understanding that all efforts to push inheritance tax repeal would be dropped in view of the compromise on the amount of tax reduction. Senator Bingham of Connecticut, who stands close to the administration, has prepared two new amendments, one repealing the federal inheritance tax outright and the other returns 80 per cent of it to the states in which it is levied, and reducing the scale starting with two-tenths of 1 per cent of estates over $50,000 and running up to a maximum reduction of 4 per cent on estates over $10,000,000.

Of course Secretary Mellon is for the proposed Bingham amendment. He has been attempting to have the federal inheritance tax removed entirely most of the time he has occupied the post of secretary of the treasury. As one of America's richest men he is directly affected by it. And the Atlantic seaboard is for it because most of the great wealth of America is located there. And most of the eastern states want it because if the federal inheritance tax was withdrawn it would enable them to substitute a higher inheritance tax of their own, thus lessening the burden of taxes to be raised through other levies.

The west is not for the repeal of the federal inheritance tax. The vast estates affected by it were accumulated through contributions from this section of America. They are the result of operations nationwide in scope, and the inheritance taxes collected upon them should in all justice be distributed among all of the states. The inheritance tax is America's only guarantee against the gradual development of dynastic wealth. It is the most just and fair tax of all because it takes in proportion to ability to pay, and from those who in many instances had little or no part in the accumulation.

The new attempt to revive that section of the revenue bill repealing the inheritance tax may well alarm and anger the western senators who let their more practical eastern colleagues put it over them.

SO THE PEOPLE MAY READ.

Of the preparations now going on behind the scenes for the republican and democratic national conventions, none are of more absorbing interest than the steps which are being taken by great news organizations to provide adequate and proper coverage.

The handling of the news of a national political convention is a gigantic job. It has so many ramifications, all of them more or less directly and closely connected with the important business of selection of the candidates and drafting the platforms. There are the individual struggles within the state delegations. There is the main fight on the floor. There are the high lights, and the minutes of great dramatic interest.

To be prepared to handle the news the great organizations must set up large staffs of trained writers and reporters. They must arrange wire facilities. They must be functioning smoothly and efficiently so that not a single precious second is lost in the flashing of the big news to every section of the United States. June will be an exciting and strenuous month for the news associations which supply the individual newspapers with the reports of the two party conventions.

The Older We Men Get, The More Cuckoo We Are.

Men will be powdering their noses next.

BY WILL ROGERS.

All I know is just what I read in the papers. Say did a fashion magazine ever fall into your hands? I dont mean a womans fashion one, Lord we have all spent half our life looking at "Laungerie" adds. But what I mean did a mens fashion magazine ever drop across your trail? Well my wife dug one up somewhere, and she has got a pretty good sense of humor, and I heard her giggling at this thing, and asked what it was, and I am telling you that it was a great big prosperous magazine. There must be flocks of em that take that stuff serious.

Now if you never landed a good job, couldnt seem to grab off your second million, couldnt get so tropical with the ladies, why it was because maby you didnt have on the following, as that is given in the magazine as the "real ultra calf's brains."

"Black jacket single breasted, fairly shapely, it buttons with two medium wide notch lapels, the waist coat is double breasted, narrow in its lap, with a likable roll in its collar, and a much waisted look. Below the jacket and waistcoat, are mull grey trousers without pleats or turn ups. These have a double stripe. One line of white the other of biscuit color. The stripes are far enough apart to not jarr, "The boots are black, the lowers are varnished with deGniche varnish, mixed with a little claret to make the enamel more brilliant, and pliable. The button tops are of dull finished French calfskin."

The Proper Place.

Now you farmers thats been hollering for relief, maby thats whats the matter with you, you havent had this "deGniche varnish mixed with a little claret." That may be the Mary McHaugen bill you are looking for. It says: "Below the waistcoat and jacket appear the trousers." Now you democrats that havent got anywhere in years maby you havent been wearing your trousers below your waistcoat. In fact some of you havent had trousers either above or below. They say the boots are black, and then it says they button. Did you ever see a button boot? It looks like the buttons would catch on the brush when you are riding through the mosquiet. There is one place in there where it says it has a "waisted look." Say I have been in style all my life and dident know it u that waisted look means what it says.

And Tricky Pants.

Did you ever have trousers with a biscuit colored stripe? Say there is not two women that make biscuits the same color, so any stripe is biscuit colored. And then it says, "The stripes of biscuit and white are not close enough to jar." Now just how close will one stripe jarr another one? Some will jarr evidently quicker than others, so you got to be careful. You may have on a pair of pants, and feel something funny and its your pants jarring. They are just liable to jarr right off you cant tell. There is nothing worse than a jarring pair of pants.

It tells about how the men of Palm Beach that are "Well dressed" change five times a day, Green is the color that has made its appearance in mens jackets, Lovatts blue green, grey greens, lapels are of a stuby character, as made by English tailors, small patterned neckwear in foulard continues." So watch your jackets. Lack of a pea green has held many a good man back. Now dont by any chance throw away your old foulard ties, they are going to get some mileage out of them. You take a good small pattern tie on a smooth neck, and it ought to do from two to five hundred cocktails without showing wear. Of course on a rough neck, it will gradually wear itself frayed at the edges.

Have you given any thought much to your bathrobe? There is a thing that you must decide on. They have "bright colored terry robes, and elaborate designs, and solid color contrasted trimmings," Those are mostly worn by men that buy on margins. I have become so discouraged over the selection of my bathrobe that I sometimes think I will just get out of the tub and get right into my clothes, like I have been doing, and not monkey with one of the things.

That Careless Curl.

There is a new cocoanut straw hat is being worn by just a few of the very smartly dressed men of Palm Beach and Nassau: "It's got a high "puggarree" band and a careless" curl to the brim. Maby it will help you get your Ford order through quicker if you only had a touch of "Puggarree" to your old lid.

Now boneheads like you and I can't imagine sane people taking all this junk serious, but they do. Why if a tie has one more dot in it than the one worn by Tony Biddle, their day is spoiled. Talk about women being vain, and always primping, why say men will make a sucker out of any woman when it comes to thinking he is about the grapes, A corset manufacturer told me that if it was not for mens corsets they would have to go out of business. Can you imagine a big hulk going in getting a corset fitted? No sir, we can't laugh at the women any more. Men are getting their nails manicured, and even pointed and colored, they are henna-ing their hair. They are watching their diet. They are reducing everything but their head, and the funny part the older and the funnier looking they are the more cuckoo they are, They will be rougeing their lips, and powdering their nose next.

Here is an add in the magazine that you will get a kick out of, "from the Montmarte, Hollywoods most fashionable cafe—rendevoux of the smart set of Hollywood—Where the stars dine and dance comes the exclusive styles that go into Hollywood clothes, styles that are swagger flattering, chosen by men to whom appearance is everything—painstakingly tailored in selected fabrics, $20. and $25.00, a few extra Ultra at $30.00."

Maby thats what has kept you out of the movies you dident have one of those "Extra Ultra suits" at $30. Then there is some 'Snappy" top coats at $8.00 cost you more to check em than it would to buy em, but I am telling you men are watching their styles, Thats why they all look so funny.

Direct Buying.

Chicago, Ill., May 19.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Our attention has been directed to a news story headed "Direct Buying Livestock Bad," which appeared in a recent issue of The Star.

The article contains a statement to the effect that direct marketing will result in eliminating competition in the sale of live stock and will also result in the extinction of the open competitive markets.

We should like to point out that competition is just as much in evidence when hogs are sold direct as when they are sold through the central market. The farmer has a choice of selling direct to one or more packers, or of sending his hogs to one or more central markets.

Hogs are bought direct grade for grade on the basis of the prices established on central markets, and competition on the central markets, therefore, registers the price for hogs bought direct. The central market does not make the prices paid for hogs. Hog prices are made by all factors both present and prospective affecting the supply of hogs and the demand for pork, and not by the place of sale.

These facts indicate clearly, in our opinion, that direct marketing in no way affects competition in the purchase of hogs. The hundreds of packers must continue to obtain their hog supply by buying in competition, whether hogs are sold direct or through the central markets.

It is obvious, moreover, that direct marketing in no way imperils the existence of the central markets. The many packers who have enormous sums of money invested in plants at the central markets are as interested as anyone else in maintaining the markets at which they are established.

The fact that approximately a third of the hogs are now sold direct would indicate that, in the opinions of a substantial percentage of producers, direct marketing is sound. Packers buy direct because producers choose to sell direct. If these producers were not satisfied with the prices which they obtain in selling direct, it is obvious that they would market their live stock in some other way.

In fairness to the readers of your paper, and in fairness to the packing industry, we ask that you give space to our letter in your paper, so that your readers may have an opportunity to study the facts which we have presented.

Famous Pets of Famous People

The French Poodle Which Brought the Great Whistler One of His Few Rebuffs.

"He had the supreme nerve to send for Sir Morell Mackenzie."

BY PRESTON WRIGHT.

James McNeill Whistler, the celebrated American painter as great a wit as he was artist, cannot be said to have been a lover of men in view of the bitterness with which he flayed them with his caustic tongue. However, his attitude toward animals seems to have been quite different. One suspects that he had a tenderness for all dumb beasts. Certainly he had a deep tenderness for his own pets.

With fish—at least goldfish—it was different. There is the celebrated anecdote of the incident which occurred during one of his sojourns in Paris.

Whistler was in violent disagreement with the woman who occupied the apartment beneath his. This woman had a bowl of goldfish which in summer she used to set outdoors on her balcony. The story is that one day when she was absent Whistler got a lone and small hook and patiently angled from his window until he had caught all the fish. He then killed them in boiling water, carefully lowered them into the bowl again, and thus punished his neighbor for annoying the great Whistler.

It is not known whether Whistler told this story on himself or whether it was put out by his neighbor. If the latter was the case, one is disinclined to believe the anecdote, for, eccentric as the artist was, and disagreeable as he could make himself, it scarcely seems possible that he could be as petty as this.

Whistler was one of the few men in history who figured in so many anecdotes that they were collected in a published volume. There are innumerable instances of his wit preserved, most of them filled with caustic observations at the expense of other persons. Others, however, show him in different vein. Some of these latter have to do with animals.

One of these concerns Howard Paul. Paul and Whistler went calling one day upon a friend who owned an alarmingly huge dog. This animal approached them rather precipitately and Paul recoiled, ready to make a hasty retreat.

"Don't be afraid," said the little, but ubiquitous Whistler. "Look at his tail—how it wags. When a dog wags his tail he's in good humor."

"That may be true," replies Paul, "but observe the wild glitter in his eye.

"I don't know which end to believe."

This anecdote proves that Whistler understood dogs.

His liking for horses appears to have been a bit detached, at least the following story would so indicate.

When he was a cadet at West Point—and Whistler, although he chose to live in London, rather than his native country, always was very proud of his days at the military academy, and maintained that the men trained there were the finest in the world—he very much disliked the work of the riding class. One day he announced that he would like to exchange the heavy animal which he was riding for a lighter one.

"Oh, don't swap," called out the dragoon in charge. "Don't swap—yours is a war horse."

"A war horse!" exclaimed little Whistler. "That settles it. I certainly don't want him!"

This bit of drollness was not wasted on the dragoon, who proceeded to show some wit of his own.

"Yes, you do, sir," he insisted. "He's a war horse, I tell you, for he'd rather die than run."

The most famous story in which Whistler and an animal appears has to do with his French poodle.

The artist was extravagantly fond of the animal and when it developed an affection of the throat he was so worried that he had the supreme nerve to send for Sir Morell Mackenzie, then the greatest throat specialist in London.

Of course Sir Morell was not a bit pleased when he learned that he had been summoned to treat a dog. However, he did his indignation, prescribed for the animal, charged Whistler a fat fee and departed.

The next day Whistler received a message from Mackenzie. It asked the artist to come to him as quickly as possible. Whistler, believing that he was being summoned in connection with his poodle's illness, dropped his work and sent off post-haste to the physician.

"What is it?" he asked, when he was admitted to Sir Morell, "What do you wish?"

"How do you do, Mr. Whistler?" inquired the great specialist gravely. "Oh, I just wanted to see you about having my front door painted!"

History does not recount what Whistler had to say about this. It was one of the few exchanges in which he got the worst of it.

Everyday Questions

Answered By

DR. S. PARKES CADMAN

(Copyright, 1928, New York Tribune.)

Roosevelt, L. I.

I am an ex-convict and one with what is called a bad record; that is, I have been in prison more than once. I was released from Sing Sing in the middle of last year with $14 and the clothes I stood in. My relatives have disowned and refused to help me in any way, though they are in good circumstances.

Since last August I have been seeking work unsuccessfully. And I ask you to believe that I have sought it. I have what is called, for want of a better word, "personality," and am well educated, widely read and widely traveled, and where I have been able to see employers I have been able to impress them with my ability up to the point where they ask for recommendations. I have applied for all sorts of work from manual labor with a pick and shovel to minor executive positions. If it were not for a dear old lady who knows my circumstances and notwithstanding them has offered me a room in her home until such time as I can pay her for it I do not know what would become of me.

Do you not believe that there must be a place in the world for such as I who have sinned, paid the price demanded by the law, repented most heartily and who are now seeking in all humility to start anew and aright?

I do so believe with all my heart. There should be a place in the countless social and commercial organizations of our nation which you could fill to your own credit and that of all concerned. The state has penalized your misdeeds, you have taken your punishment in manly fashion, you want work in a world which must live by work. It is your right and privilege.

You know how deeply employers distrusts ex-convicts. Do not blame them, for some have good reasons for their skepticism. You have to suffer because others situated as you are abused their opportunities to become honest citizens and proved themselves incorrigible.

But your case, taken at its face value, clearly deserves sympathy and aid. As you state in your letter, you are familiar with the real estate business, the management of theaters, the superintendence of workmen, and willing, if needs be, to swing the pick and shovel. More power to your elbow, and God's best for your upright intention!

There are many honorable people in New York's metropolitan area who are willing to back you in the rebuilding of your life. Get in touch with one of these, perferably a business man who knows you. Tell him what you have told me and repeat the determination your letter expresses. Do not give way to useless rage nor allow pessimism to crucify your resolution to play life's game on the level.

You are not a "cumberer of the earth." You are a brother seeking till he finds. The search may be long and painful. But when you have found your position the memories of your discipline will cause you to hold on to it with the firmer tenacity. There is a goal ahead for you, and unless I am mistaken it is in sight. Push on and win it at whatever cost, so long as you preserve the honest purpose which characterizes your brave letter.

If you are unable to obtain any assistance from any business man of your acquaintance write me again and I will endeavor to arrange an interview for you.

Pawtucket, R. I.

How do you account for the doctrine of the virgin birth and immaculate conception having grown up in connection with the life of Christ? Do you not think that this doctrine was grafted on to the life of Chist by His followers' who sought to explain His miraculous powers and teachings by ascribing to Him an unprecedented origin? Surely it has no basis in science and human experience?

Many modernists who are also devout followers of Jesus seriously en-

INTRODUCING YOUR PUBLIC SERVANTS

Guardians of Your Directory

The Lincoln Directory, the spring copy of which has just been issued, is supervised by Merle Lawder and May Marks, from the beginning of its preparation, until the final proof is read.

That it be as free from errors as possible is no small responsibility. A tribute to their effort is the fact that there is less than one-tenth of one percent inaccuracy in the entire book.

It is necessary for them to check the listings four different ways to verify the thousands of names, addresses, and numbers. Since the last issue there have been ten thousand changes in the volume. Including the twenty-three thousand subscribers represented, and the classified buyer's guide section, there are more than thirty thousand listings.

The task of these girls is never at an end. Already they have started the compilation of the next directory. Faithful and accurate supervision is their contribution, to the convenience of the Lincoln subscribers.

Telephone users help to make their task lighter by notifying the Order Department of necessary changes as quickly as possible.

Minuetto, from the Suite L'Arlesienne, Bizet.

Within a Chinese Garden, Stoughten.

Marche Champetre, Boex.

Toccata, from the Fifth Organ Symphony, Widor.

Miss Cornelia Gant, who appeared in her junior organ recital Thursday evening, opened her program with the majestic "Sonata in A Major" of Mendelssohn. This number andthe Bach "Prelude and Fugue in C Minor" were played in musicianly style. Miss Gant displayed a clean technique and defined rhythm in the "Scherzo" by Bossi and the brilliant "Toccato" by Widor. Particularly charming were Mr. Chenoweth's "Venetian Serenade" and the Boex "Marche Champetre." The whole performance was marked by intelligent and artistic phrasing and shading. Miss Gant is young and her performance gives much promise.

Announcement is made today by the Columbia Phonograph Co. that Paul Whiteman, world famous orchestra leader and exponent of the impressionistic in music, has just signed a contract to record exclusively for the Columbia company at a record breaking figure.

To know Paul Whiteman is to understand at last the phenomenon of American jazz. Whiteman did not invent jazz, he specifically disclaims that, but he was the first to write an orchestral score for jazz, and, from its inception some ten years ago right through to the present, he has been its acknowledged leader all over the world.

To know Whiteman is to understand why. Never was there a clearer vision of what it's all about, never did anyone believe more intelligently in his work, never was there a pleasanter combination of modesty and humor in a music master of his superlative rank. Whiteman is pure American, like his art.

Paul Whiteman was born in Denver March 28, 1890, and grew up as the son of a director of music in the Denver schools. At 17 he played viola in the San Francisco symphony orchestra.

In 1915 jazz first burst upon America. Early numbers were not scored and were played at momentary invention and by ear alone. Whiteman heard it. He felt he could do big things with it. But the war came and Whiteman joined the navy, where he became the leader of a band.

After near-starvation for several months during which his orchestra became organized, Whiteman made an eastern trip playing at the Ambassador hotel in Atlantic City. The orchestra was a success. The Prince of Wales persuaded him in 1923 to go to England where he scored another decisive hit in playing for the prince.

Since then ther have been tours and tours and tours—from Atlantic to Pacific—back and forth. And America holds him as its own music master.

Whiteman believes in jazz as a thing of beauty when properly treated. He believes it expresses a very definite and characteristic American philosophy, in part made up of the need for rhythmic variety in a machine age. More striking and original still is his defense of the "wailing" element in jazz.

"Our country," he declares, "is not the childishly jubilant nation that some people like to think it. Behind the rush of achievement and restlessness of dissatisfaction is a vague nostalgia and yearning for something indefinable, beyond our grasp. The critics may call it oriental or Russian, or anything they like. But it is an expression of the soul of America, and America recognizes it."

STEPHEN LEACOCK.

THE MAN WITH THE ADVENTURE STORY.
And How He Thrills Those Who Hear Him.

"I had a pretty narrow shave the other day," he said, as the little group settled themselves into the smoking end of the Pullman.

"Talking of shaves," interrupted one of the others, "I wonder if any of you fellows have seen this new safety razor that you can sharpen by waving it in the air? It's certainly a peach. But I beg your pardon—" he added, "I'm interrupting you."

"It's all right," said the man. "I was just saying that I had a pretty narrow shave for my life the other day—in fact, a matter of touch and go. I'd got off the train away up north at a big flag station right out in the bush country where there's such a lot of prospecting and so much talk of deposits of copper and nickel——"

"I see where Transnational Nickel touched a hundred yesterday," said another man, comfortably lighting his pipe.

"You don't say so!" chorused three or four of them. And then there was a running series of remarks: "I think myself she's good for 200, anyway."—"There's no limit to what they may get out of that.' —"I know a man, an engineer, who was all over that property long before they began to develop it and there were millions there."

It took some time for this little chorus to die down. Then the Adventure Man began again.

The Trail o. the Pine.

"Well, I got off at this place. It was just getting dusk and I put on my snowshoes for what would be a five-mile tramp, anyway, into the camp. I was to walk straight west along the trail and I knew that a man was to come out from the camp to pick me up part way—do ye see?—for I didn't know just where the new camp was located. The trail struck off into the timber and for the first mile or so it went through big pine trees, thousands of them, all straight as a die, and just as silent and lonesome——"

"I've seen the time," interrupted an old man in the corner who hadn't spoken yet, "when you could buy all that pine you wanted at seven dollars—yes, sir, at seven dollars—right there at the saw mill, or they'd dress it for you at a dollar—and hemlock, the very best of it at three dollars."

"Not at three dollars;" said one of the listeners incredulously. "You mean three dollars a thousand feet?"

"Yes, sir, that's what I do, three dollars a thousand, board measure."

White Stillness.

All men, at least all men who smoke in the end of a Pullman car, know about the prices of lumber, just as all women know about the prices of dress material. So there broke out another little chorus of interruption.

"Well, I paid forty-five dollars for hemlock when I built my garage." "I can get all the hemlock I want at thirty." "I've seen the time—and so forth.

Till at last the old man in the corner brought the talk back onto track by saying to the Adventure Man, "What was you saying about that cheap pine you seen up north?"

"I didn't say it was cheap pine," he answered. "I don't know anything about that. I was only talking of a narrow escape I had a while back when I was prospecting up there and starte dto walk through the bush—this big pine bush—just about dark. I hadn't got more than half a mile or so into it," continued the speaker, warming at last to his narration as he felt his audience at last becoming silent, "before I began to feel something about the stillness that began to get me. It was all so quiet, no wind, the threes absolutely still, and the white snow with the night shadows falling on it—there was something spooky about it, something ererie——."

"But just at that very moment—"

Frozen Waters.

"Did you see where those fellows out on Lake Erie got lost on the ice?" cheerily interrupted a man who hadn't spoken yet. "Certainlyy a corker, wasn't it?"

"I mind the time," said the old man in the corner, "when I've seen the whole of Lake Erie frozen across right from Port Stanley over to Cleveland."

"For the matter of that," said another, "you take those big lakes up north, even the great big ones, they all freeze solid—Temagami and Mistassine—all of them."

"They say they'll have a hard time for ice this year, though," said another man, shaking his head. "There were a lot of places where the cut was no good—couldn't get more than eight inches or a foot."

"Well, I don't know," said the man who spoke just before. 'Why factory ice now nearly everywhere. In our business we're putting in a frozen air plant that will cut out ice altogether."

The Great Adventure.

At this point, just providentially and without design, there fell a little pause and the Adventure Man got started again.

'Well, anyway,' he resumed, "I kept going along through the bush as hard as I could peg, on my snowshoes, for I knew if I didn't meet the other man before dark I couldn't do it at all. You see, after a while the trail wasn't broken at all and it wasn't blazed—it was just straight going in a compass line. . . ."

Some of the listeners nodded and grunted. The word "compass" caught their fancy for a moment.

"Well, I began to reckon by the distance I had gone that I must pretty soon meet this other man, and just then I came to a spot where the trees thinned out a little so that there was a sort of open spot with the last of the daylight showing on it. And there I saw right bang in front of me, say fifty yards away, not one timber wolf, but about a dozen of them. They were all packed together, and all working away at something that was lying in the snow. I stood stock still in my tracks. I didn't dare move. And then just for a minutes I got a glimpse of what was lying in the snow, and I can tell you my blood just ran cold when I saw what it was that was attracting those wolves."

Fur Business.

The speaker stopped with a dramatic pause, challenging attention. Then he lit his piper, quietly and firmly, to lend emphasis to what he was going to say. But he was too late.

"I see the Ontario government are gaing to raise the bounty on wolves," said one of the others quietly.

"I don't think they need to," said another. "As a matter of fact, the wolf's pelt is quite worth while in itself. Of course, there are some of the timber wolves that are apt to bein poor condition ('m in the fur business) and you can't use the pelt. But with others there's good value in it."

"They're not in it with fox," said a third man, and then there was another chorus: "I've seen the time when black foxes were as thick ——"

"I tell you it's all right if you can get them in the bush, but this fox farm industry is all off."—"All off! Why, there was a fellow down home that got, for a single pair, a single pair, mind you, two thousand dollars!"

A Tense Situation.

It took some time for the speakers to remember the Adventure Man. But at last he managed to start again. "I knew it was my turn next," he said. "I had no gun on me, but I had a sheath knife. I reached down quietly and I cut the thongs of the snowshoes. There was a big pine just beside me and by good luck a branch not more than seven or eight feet off the ground. I got all ready for a spring but just at that very moment . . ."

. . . . . .

But just at that very moment the car conductor put his head in through the doorway.

"Ottawa! Ottawa!" he called. "All change, gentlemen."

'Great Caesar!" exclaimed all the crowd at once. 'Ottawa, all ready!"

And with that they broke, scattered and dissolved.

But no doubt the man with the adventure story is still telling it somewhere, somehow, to somebody.

WILLARD SCHOOL CHILDREN PRODUCE INDIAN CANTATA

ticularly well in the health classes, as the Indian strength and endurance adapted itself especially to health talks. Posture work was emphasized, and some of the boys, working on the warrior dance, found it vital in some of the balancing steps of the dance.

Paint Drop Curtain.

Probably the most pretentious part of the study which led up to the cantata was the painting of the drop curtain by the 8A girls. It represented the shores of Gitche Gumee, with the mountains and the pines in the background and the shining big sea water in the foreground. The curtain represented prolonged work, and was unusually excellent, considering the age of the scenic artists.

For the stage properties, the boys made rabbits Aztec, Pueblo, and later Indian pottery representations, the red deer of the poem, war clubs, wigwams for Nokomis and Hiawatha, squirrels, and the cradle for the little Hiawatha.

The cast that presented the cantata, "The Childhood of Hiawatha," consisted of sixty children, each of whom had given some of his mind to the preparation of the presentation. Children of grades three to eight inclusive were included. Each section of the program consisted of three parts, the reading of the setting lines from the poem, the picture or tableau, and the musical setting of the cantata.

Movies & Stage

sunny South, because Los Angeles was his birthplace.

His father and mother were both in the theatrical field, so Jackie inherits his talent to a certain extent. He made his first stage debut when he was only twenty months old. It was unexpected, however because Jackie cluded his mother and walked out on the stage where his father was working. Of course, Mr. Coogan seized advantage of the occasion and let Jackie do a few little dance stes for the audience.

It was while Annette Kellerman was playing on the Orphem that Jackie got his big "break." Miss Kellerman took him out on the stage with her at the end of her act, and Charlie Chaplin happened to be in the audience. He decided Jackie was ideal for the role in a picture he had been planning. Consequently we had a chance to meet Master Coogan for the first time in "The Kid."

Since that success, Jackie has "Oliver Twist," "Daddy," "Toby had many others. Among them are "Peck's Bad Boy," "Trouble," "Oliver Twist," "Daddy," "Toby Tyler," "Old Clothes," "Johnny Get Your Hair Cut" and "Buttons."

Miss Davies was at one time said by Penrhy Stanlaws, the artist, to be the most beautiful blonde in this country. She has golden hair and blue eyes and a peach bloom complexion. Miss Davies was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., as Marion Douras. She attended the Convent of the Sacred eart, at Hastings-on-the Hudson.

When Marion first appeared on the stage in "Chin Chin" her beauty attracted the attention of Howard Chandler Christy, who painted her as "Morning." Others sought her as a model, and she posed for Harrison Fisher, Penrhyn Stanlaws, Montgomery Flagg and Hamilton King, before fulfilling other engagements on the stage such as "Betty," "Oh Boy" and the "Ziegfeld Follies."

Marion is beautiful, but she's by no means dumb, because she wrote the scenario and titles of her first motion picture, "Runaway Romany."

She has proven her versatility as an actress also in "Yolanda," Janice Meredith, "Adam and Eva" "The Red Mill," "When Knighthood was In Flower, "The Fair Co-Ed" and "The Patsy."

And Clara Bow! Is there anything new left to be said about that most popular young lady, I wonder. You must know by this time, if you have been reading my "Answers to Fans" that Clara's hair is red, and her eyes brown, and she's the queen of all flappers. That Brooklyn was also her birth town twenty-two years ago. And I'm sure I haven't neglected to keep you posted on her various ngagements —Gary Cooper, Victor Fleming and Gilbert Roland.

Clara has worked hard and believed in herself since she started in pictures in "Down to the Sea in Ships." Elmer Clifton gave her a start, then B. F. Schulberg gave her a contract. When Mr. Schulberg joined forces with Paramount, Clara also went under that banner. She has carved a unique place of her very own on the screen and shares honors with the best of them as a favorite. "It," "Hula," "Red Hair," "Wings" and "Ladies of the Mob," are all late pictures of Clara's.

Dear Movie Editor—There are so many new stars springing up that it's hard to have a favorite any more I think. Some of them I like and others I'll have to confess I do not like. There's Janet Gaynor and Molly O'Day, Gwen Lee, Alice Day, Marceline Day, the Costello girls, and goodness knows how many others. Please, dear Movie Editor, won't you tell me which one you think is the coming favorite of the screen? I don't mean those that are already here, but I mean those that are coming.

A BLONDE FAN.

I'm no prophet, child, and if I were I'd remember that the movies are one place where prophets have no honor. A player may be a star one day, and back on Poverty Row another there, like Georgia Hale, for instance. There was once upon a time when she thought she would climb the heights, and so did everybody else, but she just could-not deliver the goods and her Paramount contract was not renewed. We seldom hear of her anymore, except in some small independent production.

It's all my reputation is worth to even name a favorite, but I am interested in watching Loretta Young's progress on the screen. You no doubt saw her in "Laugh, Clown Laugh." She took the role "Simonetta." She's very young, of course, but seems to have an unusual talent for acting if I'm any judge. She's piquant and beautiful and sort of fairy like in appearance. On the "Peter Pan" order.

Molly O'Day is going to have to count her calories carefuly if she wants to remain popular and keep her contract.

Gwen Lee has played too many vampire roles to become a heorine, I fear, although Theda Bara long ago proved that it can be done. Dolores Costello is already a star, and so is Janet Gaynor even though she does share honors with Charles Farrell. We are so used to seeing the two as a team. It would be a shame to separate them.

Suel Carol is a cute little sugar-lump with plenty of money back of her if that is any aid in reaching stardom. It seems to have it's place in most any business or profession.

Ruth Taylor has that blonde personality and knows how to use it, for all it's worth. And now Elinor Glyn has chosen Ruth as the heroine of "Three Weeks in a Week-End," so—well, as I said, you just can't tell what is going to happen in Hollywood.

Dear Movie Editor—This is the first time I have ever written to you. It seems as though I kept putting it off until I saw "A Meighan Fan's" letter. I did not like the way that person talked about Richard Dix. I admire him and so I suppose it is no wonder I took his part.

Will you please me the casts for "North of 36" and "Whirlwind of Youth?" Also the addresses for Richard Dix, Lois Moran, Ramon Novarro and Billie Dove.

I guess that is all. Hoping to see this in print soon, I am BOBBIE. Burwell, Neb.

Well, at least "A Meighan Fan" accomplished something for Richard when he called you to his defense.

The cast for "North of 36" is: Dan McMasters, Jack Holt; Jim Nabours, Ernest Torrence; Taisie Lackhart, Lois Wilson; Sim Rudabaugh, Noah Beery; Drill Williams, David Dunbar; Cinquo Centavos, Stephen Carr; Major McCoyne, Guy Oliver; Sanches, William Carroll; Col. Griswold, Clarence Geldert; Pattison, George Irving; Milly, Ella Miller.

"The Whirlwind of Youth" was played by: Nancy Hawthorne, Lois Moran; Heloise, Vera Voronina; Bob Whittaker, Donald Keith; Cornelia Evans, Alyce Mills; Lloyd Evans, Larry Kent; Curley, Gareth Hughes; Jim Hawthorne, Charles Lane.

Richard's address is Paramount Studio, 5451 Marathon Ave., Hollywood, Calif. Lois is working out at Universal City, Calif. for Universal. Ramon Novarro is abroad at present. Send his letter to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, Culver City, Calif. Billie Dove adds brilliancy to the First National lot, Burbank, Calif.

SCREEN SIFTINGS

Expensive Gown—Do you want to see a costume which cost $2,200? Then watch for the gown of Chantilly lace and silk which Corinne Griffith will wear at a diplomatic function in her new picture, "The Divine Lady." It was especially designed and made for her for her role as Lady Hamilton in the picture. It's elaborately embroidered with jewels. The picture is adapted from E. Barrington's novel of the Eighteenth Century. Victor Varconi will support Miss Griffith as Lord Nelson, and Marie Dressler and Dorothy Cummings also have important roles.

Answers to Movie Fans

My Dear Movie Editor: Gee, it's 1928 already and I haven't written yet. Say I'd like to know who that "Critic" is. Let me hear her say something about Clara Bow again, and I'll—— Because she is one of my favorites.

Would you please tell me who the leading man was in "The Fair Co-ed?" His name was "Bob" in the show. I don't believe I laughed so much in all my life at a show as I did at that one. I think that Marion Davies is suited for that type of picture. I didn't ever like her in the old fashioned shows. She's not that type.

I heard Clara Bow wasn't good looking in real life. Have you ever seen her?

I read that "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" was in Lincoln and in Omaha, too. Would like to know if Molly O'Day is "Melissa" or "Margaret?"

Please give me the cast of the following pictures, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," "The Shepherd of the Hills," "The Fair Co-ed" and "She's a Sheik."

Addresses of these, too please: Buster Collier, and Louise Brooks.

Who played opposite Colleen Moore in "Her Wild Oat," and his address, and the adress of the leading man in "The Fair Co-ed."

Well, I'm gonna quit before I get kicked out. Hoping to see the letter in print soon, and three cheers for the Movie Editor from RUB A DUB, Wahoo, Neb.

I think it's much better that "Critic's" identity remain a secret, from the angry mob that seems to be out after that one particular fan. I expect I'll have to get my sprinting boots in shape, too, when I tell you that I have seen Clara and do not consider her good looking. She has a face that you do not forget, however, which I should consider a greater asset than a baby doll look with no trace of character. "Beautiful but dumb" as it were. That's the reason so many of the so-called beautiful girls do not make a success on the screen, while those of Clara's type do. The camera has a knack of going deeper than the skin and bringing out personality and appeal that is not always visible to the naked eye. Many of the most successful stars that I have seen have not been especially beautiful. Clara's hair is a very peculiar red. Her eyes are a velvety brown and as you may surmise from her screen apeparance, she is very slender. And she does have that indescribable something about her that Elinor Glyn characterizes as "It."

Johnny Mack Brown played opposite Marion Davies in "The Fair Co-ed." You will find him at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, Culver City, Calif. The cast for the picture is: "Marion" Marion Davies; "Bob," John Mack Brown; "Betty," Jane Winton; "Rose," Thelma Hill; "Housekeeper," Lillian Leighton; "Herbert," Gene Stone.

Molly O'Day had the leading role opposite Richard Barthelmess in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." The balance of the cast was composed of Doris Dawson, Claude Gillingwater, David Torrence, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Nelson Mcdowell, Gardner James, Martha Mattox, Victor Potel, William Bertram, Ralph Yearsley, Robert Milash, Eulalie Jensen, Walter Rogers, and many other minor characters. I do not have their name roles in the picture.

The cast for "The Shepherd of the Hills," is: "Dave Howitt," Alec B. Francis; "Sammy" Lane, Molly O'Day; "Young Matt," John Boles; "Wash Gibbs," Mathew Betz; "Old Matt," Romaine Fielding; "By Thunder," Otis Harlan; "Ollie," Joseph Bennett; "Little Pete," Maurice Murphy; "Aunt Mollie," Edythe Chapman; "Jim Lane," Carl Stockdale; "Maggie," Marion Douglas; "The Artist," John Westwood.

In "She's a Sheik" we find: "Zaida," Bebe Daniels; "Captain Colton," Richard Arlen; "Kada," William Powell; "Miss Fowler," Josephine Dunn; "Jeary," James Bradbury, jr.; "Joe," Billy Franey; "The Sheik," Paul McAllister; "The Major," Al Fremont.

Address Buster Collier at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Culver City, Calif. Louise Brooks may be located in care of Paramount, 5451 Marathon, Hollywood, Calif.

Larry Kent played opposite Colleen Moore in "Her Wild Oat." Address him at the First National studio, Burbank, Calif.

Dear Movie Editor: I am thirteen and this is the first time I have written to you, but I hope to find it in print.

First I would like to know the addresses of Bebe Daniels, Clara Bow, Raymond Hatton, Mary Pickford and Wallace Beery.

Why don't Mary Pickford appear in pictures more? The last time I saw her was in "Sparrows."

How old is Jackie Coogan and Mary Pickford? Is Jack Pickford, Mary's brother? How old is he?

Please tell me all you can about Jackie Coogan, Marion Davies and Clara Bow and some of their pictures they have played in.

Hoping all of these questions won't tire you, A MOVIE FAN.

That's a girl. Start in young and grow up with the movies.

You can save postage by putting a letter to Bebe Daniels, Clara Bow, Raymond Hatton and Wallace Beery in the same envelope and addressing it to the Paramount-Famous-Lasky studio, 5451 Marathon, Hollywood, Calif. But you'll have to spend another two cents to write Mary Pickford, because she gets her letters at the United Artists studio 7200 Santa Monica Blvd., Hollywood, Calif. Just now she's taking an extended trip abroad, so you may have to wait awhile for her answer. She only makes about one picture a year. "My Best Girl" is her last. "Sparrows" preceded it, so you still have something nice in store for the future.

Mary was born in 1893. She's one star who doesn't hedge on her age and advance the date of birth in each new directory that comes out. Jack Pickford is Mary's brother, and he's three years her junior. Jackie is growing up, too. He's about your age,—at least he was thirteen last October.

Jackie is a real native son of the

Gala Celebration for The Lincoln's 3rd Birthday

Glorious Show of Surprises And Novelties For The Third Anniversary Treat

DISTINCTIVE ARRAY OF STAGE AND SCREEN ARTISTS BOOKED FOR THIS WEEK

"GIRL IN EVERY PORT" IS AN EXCEPTIONAL COMEDY DRAMA

FAMOUS STARS GIVE THEIR BEST PERFORMANCES.

A feature picture with eight leading women, and all of them dazzling beauties—that is what "A Girl in Every Port," the feature attraction for the Lincoln's Third Anniversary Joy Show boasts.

Victor McLaglen, Captain Flagg of "What Price Glory," is now the roving Lothario whose list of "good names" included several in every port of call all over the world.

Another heartbreaker must have had the same list, for in every port he would find this libertine's mark on his women. So one day they met and, after the smoke of battle cleared away, there emerged these two enemies as buddies.

From then on where one went so did the other, until one ill-fated day they decided to stay in port, for one was to be married. Such a triumph of eternal love you have never before witnessed! Unforgetable between the laughs and tears.

"A Girl in Every Port" is indeed a screen gem picked from 200 pictures for anniversary week, and you'll agree that it is real entertainment!

VICTOR McLAGLEN AND LOUISE BROOKS DEMONSTRATE HOW A SAILOR SEES THE WORLD.

REAL NOVELTY BY THE LINCOLN STAFF ARTISTS

ORCHESTRA BOASTS COMPOSER IN LAMAR BURLING, PIANIST.

ALSO CHENOWETH'S LATEST.

The Kosmet Klub show of 1928, "The Love Hater," was a big hit, and the music was exceptional. Lamar Burling, talented pianist of Beaver and His Melody Monarchs, was responsible for the music, and for Anniversary week the musical feature is the hits from "The Love Hater"—"My Lady of the Night," "Love Bells" and "Scattering Sunshine."

In this extravaganza of melody the premier cast includes Beaver and His Melody Monarchs, Chenoweth and Harriet Cruise Kemmer, all working together in this treat supreme.

Chenoweth, the concert organist and likewise one of the leading composers of the west, will introduce his latest composition as the theme song for "A Girl in Every Port." This song is now in the hands of the publishers and they are loud in their acclaim of this number as one of the real pieces of music composed this year.

OUTSTANDING TALENT HERE IN STAGE SHOW

BIG TIME STARS PRESENT FAST AND FUNNY ENTERTAINMENT.

What a host of talent in the anniversary stage show!

Clara Howard, the musical comedy girl, who has been stopping performances all over the east with her clever stories and her snappy songs, is a sure-fire success. Elbert Hubbard must have had her in mind when he wrote, "The person who can make two blades of grass grow where only one grew before is the man of the ages." Miss Howard makes two laughs where only one existed before—and how!

The Midnight Steppers are a trio of the fastest dancers now on the American stage. Novelty steps in the fashion that only the best of the dusky-hued comedians know how to present.

And, passing on to the next unit, you will see Robbins and Jewett, the two nuts, in "Doin' Nuttin'." A team of recording artists whose records enjoy a very large sale. In fact they rank with the Two Black Crows in popularity. Their comedy sketch by Harry Conn is a riot and another real attraction for anniversary week.

Stars Wire Congratulations

The Lincoln received over a hundred congratulatory wires Saturday from the leading lights in the movie and theatrical world.

Among those who expressed their well wishes were Adolphe Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, Sam Katz, Clara Bow, Victor McLaglen, Louise Brooks, Richard Dix, George Bancroft, and a host of others.

SIMMONS IS TO SING OVER RADIO

Metropolitan Baritone To Present Selections Sunday Night.

William Simmons, baritone, will sing over the radio in the Atwater Kent hour, Sunday night, May 20, beginning at 9:15 eastern daylight time, when a program of popular songs will be broadcast.

The summer series of Sunday night concerts will be presented by Mr. Simmons, Allen McQuhae, the popular Irish tenor, and the Atwater Kent quartet, according to announcement just made. The quartet made its debut with the Gala night concert and gave the first of its summer concerts, last Sunday night.

William Simmons was born in Albany, N. Y. of musical parents, and his education has been obtained entirely in this country. He first came into prominence by winning a scholarship at the Metropolitan school of opera. This initial success gave Mr. Simmons the impetus to go on with his music and offered him valuable advantages such as the privilege of attending rehearsals, seats at regular performances and association with many of the leading singers.

Before festival audiences and before musical clubs throughout the country, Mr. Simmons has made a great number of successful appearances. He has also sung many times in the Atwater Kent Radio Hour.

In his radio concert, May 20, Mr. Simmons will sing Calm Is the Night, The Spring Has Come, Gypsy John, Thy Beaming Eyes, The Green-Eyed Dragon, Homing, Because, The Lord Is My Light.

The program will be broadcast through the National Broadcasting company and associated stations at 7:15 central time.

RADIO DIGEST

Piano Aids Loud Speaker.

By placing the loud speaker near or on top of a piano better results are sometimes obtained. The instrument acts as a giant sounding board, and the various strings of the piano vibrate with their respective frequencies.

Knowledge Necessary for repairing.

It is necessary to first learn the various circuits to be successful in repairing receiving sets. There are upwards of 1000 possible errors an amateur can make when locating trouble. Learn the uses of the various tubes, about storage batteries and the correct "A," "B" and "C" voltages for the various tubes and sets.

Importance of Well-Charged Battery.

Keep the storage "A" battery well charged at all times. If the set is operated with this power unit down it is necessary to use more "B" battery current to gain the same volume as obtained with the "A" battery in good condition. It is cheaper to buy new "A" cells or take occasional care of the storage "A" battery than it is to buy new "B" batteries.

Consult the Manufacturer.

When "troubleshooting" in the receiver very few repairmen are able to work intelligently on manufactured sets. When something goes wrong the only recourse is to take it back to the dealer and have him send the set to the factory branch or main plant for inspection. A number of manufacturers put a stipulation in the guarantee that the set must not have been tampered with or the free repair work paragraph "does not go." Some have so put in the screws that a seal would have to be broken to open the set and then the guarantee is certainly "off."

Radiograms.

It is estimated that radio has already saved the world $60,000,000 in communication charges.

New York City has an "Association of Women Broadcasters." The purpose of the organization is to further the interests of women radio speakers and stimulate the spirit of co-operation between radio managers and women.

Of the 7,267,000 homes throughout the United States equipped with radio sets, New York leads with 853,000; Illinois third, with 578,000, and California fourth, with 536,000.

Broadcasting in Germany is under the control of the government, and owners of receiving sets must pay a yearly license fee of $12. This money goes into the broadcasting service, and pays for elaborate broadcasting stations and superior programs free from commercialism.

Of the 685 broadcasting stations in the United States a few more than 200 are operated by non-profit organizations. They are: universities and schools, 82; newspapers and publications, 44; churches, 43; state and municipal, 17; civic and social organizations, 13; hospitals, 4; and labor organizations, 1. The balance are owned, operated and leased by individual companies and corporations.

Departmental Heads, Nebraska Agricultural College

W. W. BURR.

H. C. FILLEY.

H. J. GRAMLICH

M. H. SWENK.

O. W. SJOGREN

H. E. BRADFORD.

Prof. W. W. Burr, on the left, graduate of the University of Nebraska with the class of '06, who succeeded Chancellor E. A. Burnett as dean of the college of agriculture. Prof. Burr formerly was chairman of the agronomy department of the same college. Prof. H. C. Filley is chairman of the department of rural economics of the college of agriculture of the state university. Prof. Filley graduated from Nebraska in 1911. Prof. H. J Gramlich, third from the left, member of the class of 1911, is the present chairman of the animal husbandry department of the college of agriculture. He has been connected with the college since his graduation and is widely known throughout the state. Prof. Myron H. Swenk, member of the class of '07, is state entomologist and also chairman of the entomology department of the college of agriculture. He is one of the foremost insect specialists in Nebraska. Prof. O. W. Sjogren, who is chairman of the agricultural engineering department of the college of agriculture, received his degree at Nebraska in 1907. He has been engaged in his work since his graduation. Prof. H. E. Bradford, extreme right, graduate of the university in 1912, is in charge of vocational education in agriculture at the University of Nebraska. He has been chairman of the department since 1919.

Graduates of Nebraska Agricultural College Now Head Eight of The Eleven Departments

BY EMIL G. GLAZER.

Round-Up Week at the University of Nebraska, which will be held this year on May 24 to 26, always means a great deal to the college of agriculture because of the large number of its faculty who are Nebraska graduates. Virtually every department of the college has several or more men and women on its teaching and investigational force who can proudly proclaim, "I am a Nebraska man."

Eight of the eleven department heads at the college of agriculture are graduates of the University of Nebraska. Thirty-two others are serving in various other capacities—professors, assistant professors, and instructors. In the dairy, poultry, and animal pathology departments, only, are men, not alumni of Nebraska, but at that they are as enthusiastic about Round-Up Week as those who are graduates.

Perhaps one of the best known alumni on "Ag" campus at the present time is the new dean, Prof. W. W. Burr. Dean Burr is a Virginian by birth, nevertheless, he is a Nebraska man. He received his degree in 1906. After doing agronomic work at the North Platte sub-station for a number of years, he returned in 1916 to the place where he once sat in the class rooms, the college of agriculture, to the chairmanship of the agronomy department. With Chancellor Burnett's acceptance of the chancellorship of the university, Prof. Burr stepped into the new chancellor's place as dean of the college of agriculture.

Farmer to Teacher.

A young Gage county man became an alumnus of the university in 1911. He returned to his Gage county farm—in fact, he had continued farming while attending the university; then he decided to go into teaching. Following this came homesteading in Oklahoma. From this venture he returned to the Gage county farm. Soon after he was called to the college of agriculture to take charge of the rural economics department. This man is none other than Prof. H. C. Filley. He has been chairman of this department since its establishment in 1911.

Prof. H. J. Gramlich, chairman of the animal husbandry department, became an alumnus in 1911. He stayed right on at the college as an assistant in the department in which he had specialized. Every livestock breeder and feeder in Nebraska knows Gramlich. The professor is in great demand out in the state to give talks and to judge livestock shows. The animal husbandry head has also judged some of the larger state fair livestock shows in recent years.

Swenk An Alumnus.

Heading the entomology department is another Nebraska alumnus, Prof. Myron H. Swenk. He is also state entomologist. He ended his career as a Nebraska student in 1907, after spending six years in that capacity. The state's insect specialist says that he just simply found too many subjects that interested him to see his way clear to graduate in the minimum of four years. So he just delayed his graduation until he could get them. Prof. Swenk succeeded Prof. Brunner as chairman of the department in 1919.

The agricultural engineering department at the college of agriculture is in charge of Prof. O. W. Sjogren. He received his degree in 1909. Immediately following his graduation he was made associate professor of agricultural engineering. Several years later he became acting head of the department. In 1920 he was made chairman.

Vocational education in agriculture is in charge of Prof. H. E. Bradford, who graduated with the class of 1912. After finishing his university work, Prof. Bradford was made principal of the school of agriculture. He became chairman of the department of vocational agriculture in 1919.

The home economics department is also headed by one of its former students. She is Miss Margaret Fedde who received her degree in 1914. Previous to entering the university she had gone to Peru state normal, but she received little satisfaction from teaching merely the usual subjects; she wanted something more interesting, something that tingled with life itself—and, she reasoned that she could find this is no greater degree of satisfaction to herself than training herself in the fundamentals of homemaking. This brought her to the university. Five years after her graduation from the University of Nebraska she was made chairman of the department of home economics in the college of agriculture.

Prof. T. A. Kiesselbach, professor of agronomy, is one of the outstanding authorities on corn in the world. He received his degree in 1908.

University Women Will Present Dance Drama Wednesday

"Once Upon a Time," a play taken from the old tale of the Sleeping Beauty, will be the annual dance drama presented by Orchestras, honorary dancing organization at the University of Nebraska on the campus lawn north of the Administration building at 8:15 o'clock Wednesday evening.

The theme will be interpreted in solo and group dances. For one of the solo numbers a manuscript copy of Wilbur Chenoweth's composition "Joy of Living," has been secured.

Miss Beatrice Richardson, dancing instructor in the department of physical education for women, is directing the entire production. Eleanor Dam, assisted by Ruth Diamond, is chairman of the business committee. Costumes are being selected by Miss Bernice Ballance and Irmanelle Waldo.

The following students will take part: Margaret Ames, Mercedes Ames, Evelyn Bauer, Audrey Beales, Creda Bricka, Alice Clute, Mary Corcoran, Betty Craft, Margaret Dailey, Eleanor Dam, Mrs. Louise Doole, Lilly Frankhauser, La Dica Fitch, Blanche Gille, Miriam Greenberger Doris Greene, Sue Hall, Della Hoy, Ruth Jones, Sarah Jane Johnson Virginia Kimball, Antoinette Lococo Norma Mason, Helen Morehead, Dorothy Packwood, Mary Passmore, Elizabeth Raugh, Rosalie Richmond, Grace Rowe, Edna Schrick, Elizabeth Sibley, Hazel Snavely, Irmanelle Waldo, Cornelia Weaver, Charlotte Wells, Faye Williams.

Smallest Dog In California City Owned by Former Lincoln Woman, Mrs. Walter E. DeButts

To "Chico," the Mexican Chihuahua belonging to Mrs. Walter E. DeButts, 833 Euclid avenue, Santa Monica, Calif., goes the distinction of being the smallest dog in the California city. Mrs. DeButts is a former resident of Lincoln.

Chico is full grown and not of the hairless variety, having a heavy coat of brown and white hair. He weighs 3 pounds and 6 ounces, and, according to Mrs. DeButts, has a pedigree longer than his body.

But Brutus, who wears a 40-inch collar, is perfectly harmless despite his ferocious eat 'em alive expression. He's just a statue to scare you on some dark night.

However, Mrs. DeButts says not to come near her house when Chico is awake, for, despite his lack of avoirdupois, he has a ferocious bark.

Chico will bark or sit up, say his prayers on play "dead dog," or roll over—or nearly anything.

Other Notes

Rev. John G. Alber, '11, general secretary of the Nebraska Christian Missionary society, addressed the chapel audience Wednesday on "Nebraska Missions."

At the international convention of the Disciples of Christ at Columbus, Ohio, April 16-22, Grant K. Lewis, '98, St. Louis, was re-elected home missions secretary of the United Christian Missionary society; Dr. William Oeschger, '94, pastor of the Highland Christian church, Denver, Colo., was eleected a member of the board of the National Benevolent association; Rev. Earl N. Griggs, '13, Pastor of Christian church, Berkeley, Cal., was elected a member of the board of temperance and social welfare; Dr. Cleveland Kleihauer, '09, pastor of the University Christian church, Seattle, Wash., was re-elected a member of the board of education of the Disciples of Christ.

Dr. Vernon Cooper, professor of history, presided at the annual meeting of the Nebraska History Teachers' association at Lincoln, May 11-12. He has been president of the organization for the past year. Dr. Cooper and Mrs. Cooper will be on leave of absence next year to study in Europe.

A cornet band consisting of Merton Welch, '31, Edgar, Marvin Huddleson, Special, Nashville; Dean Burdick, '31, Casper, Wyoming, and Elvin Chapman, '28, Giltner, gave a program of numbers at chapel Friday.

The annual Ivy day exercises were held at 10 a. m. on Thursday, May 10. Gerald Sias, Blyune, South Dakota, president of the senior class, gave the address. Mr. Sias and Miss Gladys Black, planted the ivy on the north side of Aylsworth hall, and presented the spade to Fred Fuenfstueck, president of the junior class.

The May festival was held at 6:45 p. m. May 10. Miss Naomi Moss, '28, Belleville, Kans., was crowned May queen. Miss Lillian Johnson, '22, Dorchester, was her maid of honor.

Mrs. Mary E. MacFarlane-Dobson, 07, assistant in the department of educational measurements at the University of Nebraska, has written her master's thesis on a study of sixteen superior children in the Lincoln schools.

SI, OUR MULE HAS SOME HOME!

I'LL FEED HER UP AND MAKE HER GOOD-NATURED, AND THEN I'LL MAKE HER WORK!

HERE'S SOME NICE APPLES!

NOW I'LL PUT THE HARNESS ON HER AND MAKE HER PULL A LOAD OF STONE!

SHE'S FULL OF APPLES AND SHE FEELS GOOD-NATURED!

NOW LET'S PUT ON THE NICE HARNESS!

HEY, WHERE ARE YOU GOING WITH THAT HARNESS?

WELL OF ALL THE NERVE!

DID YOU MAKE HER WORK?

I WISH YOU WOULDN'T ASK SO MANY FOOLISH QUESTIONS!

SYNOPSIS OF STORY TO DATE: OUR HEROES WANT TO TAKE HOME ONE OF THE MAGIC FRUITS THAT MAKE PEOPLE LIVE TWO HUNDRED YEARS, SO THAT THEY CAN START A COMPANY TO CULTIVATE THE FRUIT TREES AND GET RICH! THE LAWS OF PATAGOOFIA FORBID ANY OF THE FRUIT TO BE TAKEN OUT OF THE COUNTRY! HOOLIGAN HAS THE FRUIT HIDDEN IN HIS CAN! THE CHIEF CUSTOMS INSPECTOR INSISTS ON SEEING THE CAN! ALL SEEMS LOST!- BUT WAIT!- STRANGE AS IT MAY SEEM, DUBB HAS A BRIGHT IDEA!

HAND ME THAT CAN! YOU'VE GOT SOMETHING IN IT!

SLIP IT IN YOUR COAT POCKET, QUICK!

WHAT ABOUT HIM?

HERE'S THE CAN, CHIEF! IF YOUSE WANT TO EXAMINE IT!

YOU TWO BOZOS HAD BETTER NOT TRY TO GET GAY WITH ME!

CHIEF, YOU OWE US AN APOLOGY FOR YOUR UNJUST SUSPICIONS!

I HOPE YOUSE ARE SATISFIED!

IT'S EMPTY, AND AS BOTH OF YOU HAVE HAD YOUR POCKETS SEARCHED ALREADY I'LL HAVE TO LET YOU GO, BUT SOMETHING TELLS ME I OUGHT TO LOCK YOU UP!

CUSTOMS INSPECTOR

I'VE PUT THE FRUIT BACK IN MY CAN! WE BETTER LAY IN A STOCK OF THESE CRULLERS: IT'S MOST LUNCH TIME!

YEAH, THEY LOOK FINE! WE'LL TAKE HALF A DOZEN!

THESE CRULLERS ARE JUST MADE, GENTS!

CHIEF, I JUST SAW HOOLIGAN PUT SOMETHING IN HIS POCKET! I BELIEVE HE'S GOT THAT FRUIT AFTER ALL!

COME ON, WE WILL CATCH HIM WITH THE GOODS!

THATS THE STUFF, CHIEF!

HALT! I THINK YOU'VE GOT THAT FRUIT IN YOUR POCKET!

I TOLD YOU SO, CHIEF!

AH, HA! THERE'S SOMETHING IN THIS POCKET!

TRY IT, CHIEF, IT'S POIFECTLY DELICIOUS!

HAW!

YOU'RE A FINE DETECTIVE!

DON'T HOIT HIM: MAYBE HE'S CRAZY!

HE LOOKS AS IF HE WASN'T IN HIS RIGHT MIND!

HOOLIGAN AND DUBB ARE AT LAST SAFELY ABOARD A SHIP ON THEIR WAY HOME WITH THE FRUIT: BUT THEY HAD BETTER LOOK OUT FOR THAT SAILOR'S PET MONKEY:

WE'RE GOING TO CULTIVATE THAT FRUIT AND GET RICH!

ANYBODY THAT EATS THIS FRUIT WILL LIVE TWO HUNDRED YEARS!

ANANIAS

LUCKY CHESTER - GLIDING OVER THE BLUE WATERS OF THE MIGHTY PACIFIC ON THE STATELY MINERVA - UNCLE BIM'S MAGNIFICENT YACHT - HE FINDS THE HAPPY DAYS TOO SHORT TO ENJOY THE STRANGE AND MARVELOUS PANORAMA CONSTANTLY UNFOLDING BEFORE HIS EYES - ON HIS TRIP TO THE MAGICAL ISLANDS OF THE EAST INDIES -

PLEASE DON'T FORGET - YOU PROMISED TO TELL ME A STORY TODAY -

IF I GAVE MY PROMISE - I'LL KEEP IT - AND YOU MAY LAY TO THAT - I'M ONE SAILOR MAN WHO STICKS TO HIS WORD AND TELLS THE TRUTH AT ALL TIMES -

I WAS ONLY A BEARDLESS BOY - NOT MUCH OLDER THAN YOU ARE THIS MINUTE - WHEN I SAILED AS CABIN BOY ON THE YANKEE CLIPPER - "BOUNDING BESSIE" FOR A VOYAGE AROUND THE HORN - FAIR WINDS - GOOD WEATHER - AND GOOD LUCK WAS OUR DAILY RATION - UNTIL WE ROUNDED THE HORN - AND SIGHTED THE TIGER SHARK I'M GOING TO TELL YOU ABOUT -

MAN AND BOY! I'VE SAILED THE SEVEN SEAS - AND NEVER SAW A SHARK THAT EQUALED THIS ONE - HE MEASURED SIX FATHOMS FROM STEM TO STERN - IF HE MEASURED AN INCH - HE HAD THE LOOK OF A HUNGRY WOLF IN HIS EYE - IF THERE EVER WAS A MALEVOLENT MAN-EATING SEA DEMON IT WAS THIS SEA TIGER I'M TELLING YOU ABOUT -

WHEN I FOUND HE WAS FOLLOWING OUR SHIP - I DECIDED TO PLAY A JOKE ON THE SHARK - WE HAD A BOX OF TOY BALLOONS IN THE HOLD - SO WITH THE CAPTAIN'S PERMISSION I PAINTED A LARGE BALLON TO LOOK LIKE A PIECE OF FRESH MEAT - AND THREW IT OVER BOARD - AND THAT HUNGRY SEA WOLF GRABBED IT BEFORE YOU COULD SAY JACK ROBINSON -

TO MY DYING DAY I'LL REMEMBER THE LOOK IN HIS EVIL EYE - WHEN THE BALLOON EXPLODED IN HIS MOUTH - AND THE LOOK IN HIS EYES TOLD ME IN PLAIN WORDS THAT HE KNEW I WAS THE ONE WHO PLAYED THE TRICK ON HIM - AND THAT HE WOULDN'T FORGET IT - WELL, FROM THAT MOMENT HE FOLLOWED OUR SHIP NIGHT AND DAY - EVERY TIME WE LEFT PORT WE WOULD FIND HIM WAITING OUTSIDE THE HARBOR -

FOR EIGHTY-SEVEN DAYS AND NIGHTS HE FOLLOWED THE SHIP - HOPING AND PRAYING I WOULD FALL INTO THE SEA WHERE HE COULD SHARPEN HIS TEETH ON ME - WELL, ONE NIGHT A HURRICANE STRUCK THE SHIP - UNDER BARE POLES WE SAILED THROUGH A NIGHT THAT WAS AS BLACK AS THE BLACKEST INK - JUST WHEN THE STORM WAS AT ITS HEIGHT - WE WERE ALL CAST INTO THE SEA - A BIG WAVE THREW ME UP ON THE BEACH - AND WHEN THE SUN ROSE - I FOUND I WAS ON A SMALL ISLAND - THE ONLY ONE OF THE SHIP'S CREW ALIVE TO TELL THE TALE -

THERE I WAS MAROONED ON THAT ISLAND IN THE MIDDLE OF THE OCEAN AND NOT A LIVING CREATURE IN SIGHT - EXCEPT THAT VILLAINOUS SHARK - WHO SWAM ROUND AND ROUND THE ISLAND - WATCHING ME LIKE A CAT WATCHES A CANARY - I CAUGHT SOME SHELL FISH BUILT A FIRE - AND STARTED TO ROAST THEM FOR MY DINNER - WHEN THE ISLAND I WAS STANDING ON BEGAN TO TREMBLE AND DIVED RIGHT DOWN TOWARDS THE BOTTOM OF THE OCEAN -

IT WASN'T AN ISLAND AT ALL - BUT A GIGANTIC WHALE - THAT WAS SLEEPING ON THE SURFACE OF THE OCEAN - MY FIRE AWOKE HIM - SO HE DIVED AND LEFT ME IN THE SEA WITH THAT FIENDISH SHARK SWIMMING FOR ME FASTER THAN AN EXPRESS TRAIN - I WAS YOUNG THEN AND COULD SWIM LIKE A SEAL - SO I SWAM AS I NEVER SWAM BEFORE - I SOON BEGAN TO OUT-DISTANCE THE SHARK I THOUGHT I MIGHT ESCAPE -

THE ISLAND DIVED?

WHEN IN FRONT OF ME I SAW A GIANT SWORD FISH - READY TO STAB ME IN THE HEART WITH HIS CRUEL SWORD - OVER MY SHOULDER I COULD SEE THE SHARK - HIS FIENDISH EYES BLAZING WITH DIABOLICAL HATE - WITH CERTAIN DEATH BEFORE AND BEHIND ME - I DIVED FOR THE BOTTOM - AND THERE WAS A MONSTER DEVIL FISH WITH HIS SLIMY TENTACLES READY TO CRUSH ME LIKE A FLY - I GAVE MYSELF UP FOR LOST -

THEN WHAT HAPPENED?

THE ONLY THING THAT COULD HAPPEN - I WAS KILLED - AND MY BODY WAS NEVER FOUND -

HA! HA! THAT WAS A REAL FUNNY STORY FOR A WHILE - I WAS SCARED TO DEATH -

REMIND ME SOMETIME TO TELL YOU THE STORY OF "THE ENCHANTED TURTLE" AND YOU'LL HEAR SOMETHING WORTH HEARING AND YOU MAY LAY TO THAT -

DINGLE-HOOFER UND HIS DOG ADOLPH - BY KNERR

Registered U. S. Patent Office

ADOLPH'S PAW-PRINTS WERE NOT THE SAME AS THOSE OF THE REAL WIENIE THIEF!

HENCE THE GREAT DETECTIVE, FERRET SNOOP, WAS COMPLETELY BAFFLED FOR THE FIRST TIME IN HIS LIFE AND HENCE ADOLPH WAS DECLARED NOT GUILTY! -- BUT---

DID YOU HEARD DER GOOD NEWS, MISS SNIFFIN? MY ADOLPH VAS INNOCENT! UND HE DIDN'T SVIPE MR. SCHMALTZ'S WIENIES!

IS THAT SO? WELL, I HAPPENED TO SEE THE WHOLE THING! - MAYBE HE AIN'T THE OUT AN' OUT THIEF, BUT HE WAS AN ACCESSORY TO THE CRIME JUST THE SAME! ---

VOT?

THE VERY DAY OF THE ROBBERY I WAS SETTIN' AT MY WINDOW ACROSS THE STREET, AND I SAW A BLACK TRAMP-DOG RUN OUT OF THE BUTCHER SHOP WITH THE WIENIES! - YOUR DOG RAN OFF THE PORCH OF YOUR HOUSE AS THE OTHER DOG CAME BY AND GRABBED HIM! THEY HAD AN AWFUL FIGHT AND YOUR DOG WON! ---

THE OTHER DOG RAN DOWN THE STREET LICKETY-SPLIT — AND THEN YOUR DOG ATE ALL THE WIENIES UP HIMSELF!

HA! SO! LOW-LIFER! DOT'S VHY YOU DIDN'T EAT DER LAMB STEW VOT I GIFFED YOU DOT DAY!
